2-Term Proposal On Top

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The governorship succession proposal will be the top one of three constitutional amendment suggestions up for voter consideration in a special election Aug. 17.

Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick said today the position of each amendment proposal was based on the time of its passage by the legislature.

Here's how they will appear on the ballot:

No. 1--"Authorize a person to be elected governor not more than twice or not more than once if he served more than two years of a term to which another person was elected.

No. 2--"To authorize cities, in addition to the existing power to lease, to dispose of plants for manufacturing and industrial development purposes constructed from proceeds of revenue bonds." Now the cities having such plants have no power to sell or otherwise dispose of them.

No. 3--"168 members of the House of Representatives to be elected from districts. Apportionment shall follow each decennial census with certain exceptions. House to be reapportioned by law. The Senate shall consist of 34 members elected from districts of contiguous territory fixed by Senatorial Apportionment Commission. The House of Representatives cannot employ more than 225 nor the Senate more than 100 employes."

Mistake In Birth Rate

What appeared to be a decrease in the birth rate in Scott County in 1963 was a mistake according to Dr. Thelma Buckthorpe, Scott County Health officer in her annual report for 1964.

She reports that "during that year, a birth information on illegitimate children was withheld. Since we had records on some of those born out of wedlock, we were not aware of the change of policy. As a result, we had fewer births reported and for the very first time, non-white and white birth rates appeared almost the same."

In 1964 the County health office was not sent copies of illegitimate births, but after the state files were closed in March of 1965 for 1964 statistics, impersonal information was made available. This included 32 illegitimate white and 50 illegitimate non-white births. This changed the total.

Birth rates are based on the estimated population in Scott county, which is 32,100 persons. Birth and death rates are estimated per 1,000 population. Still births, infant and maternal mortality rates are estimated per 1,000 live births.

The birth rate for non-white was 40.6 as compared to 23.4 for the white.

Paratroopers Score Heavily In Clashes

SAIGON, Viet Nam AP -- U.S. Paratroopers have scored heavily in a series of clashes with the Viet Cong 25 miles northeast of Saigon in the D-zone jungle, American authorities reported today. They said 25 of the guerrillas were known dead and it was estimated Red casualties Wednesday totaled more than 100.

On the other side, the Viet Cong ambushed a Vietnamese government battalion 37 miles northwest of Saigon today and a U. S. spokesman said most of the battalion apparently was wiped out.

Casualties in the ambush were not immediately known, but a survivor said they were heavy. The battalion was reported under strength and probably numbered about 300 men.

Four U. S. advisers were with the battalion, the spokesman said. Their fate was not known.

The ambush was sprung as the battalion was rushing to relieve a besieged outpost at Xom Kua in Binh Duong Province. The relief battalion was sent from the nearby district capital of Tri Tam. The Communists apparently were lying in wait for the reinforcements.

As the Viet Cong sprang the trap, Communist 81mm mortars began a barrage of Tri Tam.

U. S. authorities reported that paratroopers of the American 173rd Airborne Brigade fought a series of clashes with the Viet Cong Wednesday in the big combined force operation in "D" zone and enemy casualties were estimated at more than 100.

The action in the Communist-controlled jungle 25 miles northeast of Saigon was the biggest engagement the paratroopers have fought since their arrival in Viet Nam in May.

Plan More Office Space

BLOOMFIELD — The Stoddard county court is planning the construction of an additional room on the county Trust Building, north of the courthouse in Bloomfield.

The construction of the addition will be part of a renovation program for both the Trust building and the courthouse providing more facilities for county offices.

Tentative plans call for the county agent's office to be located at the rear of the Trust building in the new addition and in the offices formerly occupied by the county superintendent of schools.

The county magistrate and probate judge — Judge Wallace Morgan — would then be provided with the remainder of the Trust building, moving the probate office from the courthouse and bringing his offices together in one building.

This would provide more space in the courthouse for the county recorder of deeds and would also provide additional space for the county court.

The County Court is now asking for bids on the one-room addition as the first step in the project.

Benched By Disease

WASHINGTON AP -- George E. Reedy, President Johnson's press secretary, announced today he is suffering from an painful foot disease and is bowing out of his White House post--at least for some months.

Reedy reported that doctors tell him he may face a series of operations that could sideline him for at least six months.

He said the duties of press secretary will be performed in his absence by Bill D. Moyers, one of Johnson's top special assistants.

Confusion In U.S. Gold Problem

NEW YORK (AP) — New confusion, compounded by seemingly contradictory government pronouncements, has grown up around the U.S. balance of payments and gold problems.

The confusion may have hit a high point a few days ago when:

—Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler indicated the voluntary program to trim the U.S. balance of payments deficit is working so well he is worried about overoptimism.

—The Federal Reserve announced the greatest weekly outflow of gold in six years, $359 million.

The statements were the latest zig-zags in the government's on-again, off-again enthusiasm about its efforts to preserve the United States' dwindling gold stock.

Here are some basic questions and answers on the current U.S. gold and balance of payments situations:

Q: What is the status of the U.S. gold stock now?

A: The U.S. monetary gold stock now is worth $13,934,000,000. It has declined $1,454,000,000 since Jan. 1. The outflow in six months of 1965 is exceeded only by the total yearly losses in 1958 and 1960. The present supply of gold is now back to the level it was in 1938 before the nation built up its vast gold pile during World War II.

Q: Why has the gold stock declined?

A: Because the United States has had a balance of payments deficit every year since 1949 (except 1957). A deficit results when the nation spends more overseas than foreign nations spend in the United States. Since we have a deficit, it figures that some other nations will have a surplus. Some foreign governments convert their surplus dollars into gold. The United States guarantees it will buy or sell gold at the fixed price of $35 a troy ounce.

Q: What is the so-called voluntary program and how does it fit into the picture?

A: The program was established by the government in February via "guidelines" to banks and manufacturers. One of the basic features of the program calls on organizations to limit their overseas investments to 105 per cent of their 1964 investment. Foreign investment was one of the biggest single items in the 1964 balance of payments deficit. That deficit provided the vast pool of dollars which some foreign governments are converting into gold this year.

Q: What is the U.S. balance of payments position now?

A: Despite optimism about the voluntary program, the United States deficit in the first three months of the year was $733 million. The program did not really begin to tell until the second three months. Though statistics presently are not available for the second quarter of 1965, it is believed the balance is showing a surplus. Some economists project the net deficit for 1965 at about $1 billion, or one-third the total deficit for 1964.

Ready For Red Thrust

WASHINGTON (AP) — The landing of 8,000 more Marines in South Viet Nam was a move to "play it safe" and strengthen U.S. forces against a possible major thrust by beefed up Communist troops, military sources said today.

The action was not prompted by any specific emergency situation, the sources said.

Intensive Communist activity in the central highlands of Viet Nam, coupled with indications that the equivalent of a North Vietnamese army division may be spread through the area, has caused concern.

Chance To Be Heard

BENTON — Been complaining about high taxes?

Then run, don't walk, to Benton next week when the county board of equalization meets and tell the board your tax assessment is too high — and why.

The only opportunity Scott Countians have to lower assessments for the coming year begins Monday at the court house for three days. The board in the only body which can lower assessments. It cannot be done by the county assessor.

There is a catch — assessments can also be raised by the board. Law requires the board to equalize assessments at 30 per cent of actual value, so bringing a case to the attention of the board could raise, rather than lower, any tax.

Assessor Alfred Halter has set up a three-day schedule to hear from citizens with specified times and dates for residents of different communities.

Monday, all farm land owners will be heard from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Tuesday morning, from 9 a.m. until noon, Illmo and Scott City residents will be given the floor.

Tuesday afternoon's session will be held for Vanduser, Blodgett, Benton, Rockview, Morley, Diehlstadt, Commerce, Kelso, Oran and Miner townspeople.

Wednesday morning, the board will hear from residents of Chaffee, starting at 9 a.m. and running until noon.

Wednesday afternoon, 1 p.m.-4 p.m., the hearing will be for Sikeston property owners.

Taxpayers will be notified of a board decision to raise their assessment, according to the county assessor, and a board of appeals meeting in August will hear any complaints.

Members of the board are Alfred Halter, county assessor, Phil Waldman, county clerk, and Judges Melvin Glueck, J. E. Childress, and H.D. Rogers.

Six Released By Gunmen

WOODLAND, Calif. AP -- Six kidnap victims were released unharmed Wednesday night by two gunmen charged with killing an Oregon deputy sheriff and fleeing to California with the hostages.

Police said a massive manhunt was under way in Sacramento, where the gunmen released the three adults and three children -- then fled on foot.

Those of those released were Mrs. David Corbin, 33, and her son by a previous marriage, Clinton Clark, 12.

They vanished Tuesday shortly after Deputy Sheriff Carlton E. Smith, 33, was gunned down by a shotgun blast and six pistol bullets.

The other four hostages were Mr. and Mrs. Uldis Riekstins of Seattle, their son and a friend of their son.

An all-points bulletin has been broadcast throughout the West for Wilbur Marion Grey, 30, a native of Brunswick, Ga., and Karl Cleses Bowles, 24, a native of Amarillo, Texas.

They completed terms at the Oregon prison only last week.

Alarmed By Chinese Blasts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington said today that Communist China's two atomic explosions were a dangerous development that "have gone a long way toward changing the power structure of the world."

Many experts believe Red China will have ballistic missiles with nuclear warheads by 1970, the Missouri Democrat said in a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate.

"They also believe that, because of the sophistication of these original explosions, the Red Chinese are only a few years away from production of hydrogen bombs," Symington added.

10 Stitches Close Head Cut

Bobby King, who collided with a truck on his bicycle, is five years old and not 15 as reported yesterday.

He was treated and dismissed at the Missouri Delta Community hospital for cuts and bruises. His mother said that 10 stitches were taken to close a cut on his head and that he will go back to the doctor tomorrow for X-rays.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester King, 1511 East Gladys.

Senate Speeds Health Care Bill Action

WASHINGTON AP -- Senate Democratic leaders pushed for final action today on the Social Security-health care bill after disposing of 14 amendments Wednesday in a burst of speed.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the bill's floor manager, told newsmen "I see no reason why we cannot finish this bill tonight unless its opponents want to string it out, and there is no good reason for them to do so."

However, two Republican senators announced they would offer a number of amendments to the bill, which is one of President Johnson's most important legislative proposals.

The basic hospitalization plan in the bill would be available to the 19 million Americans 65 or older as a matter of right.

A voluntary supplemental plan, covering chiefly doctors fees, would be open to anyone over 65 who wishes to enroll and pay a $3 a month premium. The estimated $6.8 billion yearly cost of the program would be financed mainly through increased Social Security taxes.

Faces Charge In Shooting

BLOOMFIELD — John Ervin Cain, former Bernie resident who has been working in California has been lodged in the Stoddard County jail at Bloomfield following a shooting fracas in Bernie.

Sheriff Ralph Temples said that Cain had been drinking at the time and following an argument produced a .38 caliber pistol and fired the gun one time.

The incident took place in the Town Tavern at Bernie and outside of Murphys Place, on the main street of Bernie.

He has been charged with felonious assault against Henry Murphy and Jerry Fitzpatrick.

Sheriff Temples said that Cain will be tried in Circuit Court.

Signs of Strain in Russia

Signs of strain between reformers and conservative Communists in the Soviet Union suggest that Kremlin officialdom may be in for a new round of musical chairs.

Some of the signs:

--The Communist leadership apparently has decided to put off the party congress. Theoretically the congress is the ruling body for nearly 12 million party members and meets every four years. The last congress was October 1961.

--Four high-ranking government and Communist party leaders have been missing for five or six weeks from important official gatherings. All rose to prominence under Nikita S. Khrushchev.

--The absence of these persons may be connected with the downfall earlier this year of two other Khrushchev proteges. It could mean that powerful forces have undertaken a determined campaign to rid the party leadership of "the Ukrainians" and economic reformers who came up under Khrushchev's wing.

Almost from the day of Khrushchev's fall last October, there have been hints of a clash between the two who divided his powers: Party Chief Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. The clash seems to stem from differences on economic reforms, the effect of such reforms on party leadership and the extent of party authority, which, in conservative opinion, should dominate every aspect of Soviet life even if it interferes with production.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Stunt flier Paul Mantz, 61, was killed today while flying a specially built plane for a movie scene on location near Yuma, Ariz.; Twentieth Century-Fox studios reported.

The crash occurred in Buttercup Valley, Calif., 17 miles west of Yuma.

The movie making was for the picture "The Flight of the Phoenix" which stars Jimmy Stewart and features Ernest Borgnine, Peter Finch and others.

Despite Protests 'Diana' Stands Smiling In Mall

PHOENIX, Ariz. AP -- Untouched by the controversy surrounding her, "Diana of the Woods" stands smiling in the mall of the new multimillion-dollar Maricopa County government complex.

Dedicated Wednesday the stone sculpture gave pause to countless admirers, despite the charges that as the huntress of Greek mythology, she was "a cruel goddess" and a killer.

Mrs. Gilbert Hall donated the Italian-made sculpture placed in the complex's fountain and dedicated it to the Arizona Humane Society.

The animal crusaders of Arizona opposed the gesture from the start.

"Humane societies have always opposed cruelty, including blood sports," said Betty B. Eilers, the group's executive secretary.

"Not even the human side of Diana is pleasant," she said. "When the son of a king surprised her bathing, she turned him into a stag and wasn't satisfied or revenged until his own hounds ran him down and tore him to bits," Mrs. Eilers said.

Undaunted, Mrs. Hall didn't budge an inch.

"Good art not only gives pleasure," Mrs. Hall said, "but it also stimulates an appreciation for the beautiful."

Mrs. Hall said that they claimed Diana was a killer. Why, in Italy, Diana is known as a protectress and there is a festival each year in her name."

Womenly Beauty This Fall Will Be Beastly

NEW YORK AP -- Womanly beauty this fall may be pretty and beastly.

That was one of the secrets shared Wednesday with fashion writers here for a four-day program of fall collection previews called the American Designer Series.

Earlier, designer Jacques Tiffeau had set a primitive mood with jungle music and masked mannequins who slinked with catlike grace in leather and velvet smocks.

Then came the true confessions by Warner's about what really goes on in the underworld of fashion.

Feline misses undulated onto the red carpet in boyd cinchers, bikini-like underpinnings and Tarzan - type, one-shoulder togas -- all the cat's meow in tiger stripes.

Their sinuous sisters wore cobra skins, fake patterns of course, on which they same type of intimate apparel.

More women, shy and demure, and at first fully clothed in conservative black, stripped to reveal their true colors -- wicked red lingerie.

Other personal items introduced at the show included:

-- Side-button coat dresses with silk lining to match petticoats and so forth.

-- Harlow nighties, bias - cut, ultra short and ruffled.

--Sweater-bras, in nude tone, rounded and slightly padded.

-- The short - short slip and the petti-pant for the short-short dresses made popular by Frenchman Andre Courreges.

--The smooth-to-the-hip slip with tiers of ruffles for under the au-go-go dresses.

-- Designer Geoffrey Beene followed up by sending his models onto the runway in the supple, body-clinging kind of garments that require the afore-mentioned kind of trimmings.

-- Brief jackets topped knife-pleated skirts, long tunic jackets slipped over reed-slim skirts. Throughout the collection were various adaptations of the smocks.

MRS. EMMA BASINGER, 101, rests in a neighbor's rocking chair after walking from Morehouse to make her home here.

Woman, 101, Walks To City From Morehouse

By Dan Whittle

She was not moving as fast as an eastbound freight, but the cross ties on the railroad zipped past and after eight hours, Mrs. Emma Basinger reached the city limits, walking seven miles from Morehouse.

Mrs. Basinger is 101 years old.

She walked here to take up residents after living in Morehouse. She rents a house owned by Johnny Malone at 235 Northwest St.

Asked how she liked living in Sikeston, she replied:

"I make it all right until nosey people like yourself come around and start meddling in my business. I don't meddle in anyone's business and they shouldn't meddle in mine. But, I don't intend to stay here very long anyway."

I told her that I wanted to bring the mayor down to officially welcome her.

"Don't you bring any politician down here to see me. I'll insult him and you had just better not get me mad if you know what's good for you," she warned.

I told her that she had one of the city officials living just around the corner from her house, Chief of Police Arthur Bruce.

She commented:

"I really don't like lawmen. They ain't never been no friend of mine and they won't ever be."

She said that she thought the late Franklin D. Roosevelt was the best president in her lifetime.

She commented: "He had sense, but this President Johnson hasn't got as much sense as a half smart hound."

She was born May 10, 1864 in Springfield. She lived on a farm there until her husband died 24 years ago from a heart attack.

They had 10 children. All are dead. She knows of no living relative.

When asked if she was shopping around for another husband, she said:

"No, my family was always a one time, one man family. My husband was the sweetest man that ever walked on this earth. Did you know that he spent his entire life working on the railroad. In fact, that's what killed him."

She blasted modern women: "It's too bad how the womenfolk of today run around showing what the Lord meant to be hidden. And these blasted hairdos are awful. The Lord meant for a woman to honor their hair. I have never cut my hair."

Her mother, who died before World War I, lived to be 103.

Mrs. Basinger says she wants to live forever.

"Things can't get much worse than they are now so I guess I will be able to struggle through it for a long time yet," she said.

She kept holding her arm and was asked what was wrong.

"I think I had a light stroke," she explained. When asked what the doctor said about it, she replied:

"I ain't never been to no doctor and I'm not fixing to start now just for your information."

Fails To Stop, Killed

Miss Clara Cassidy, 76, Caruthersville, made a fatal error yesterday. She failed to stop her car at a stop sign, the highway patrol charged.

The vehicle, a 1964 Plymouth, was struck by another automobile five miles south of Hayti on highway 61 at 8:50 a.m. She died soon after arrival at a Hayti hospital.

Two passengers of the other car, a 1964 Oldsmobile driven by Anthony Johnson, 43, Hazelwood, were injured. They were Joyce Johnson, 10, bruised and Catie Johnson, 45, broken right arm, cut and bruised, both taken to a Hayti hospital.

Three others were injured in an accident on highway 67 yesterday at 2:25 p.m., four miles south of Greenville when a 1960 Valiant driven by Ora Goddard, 72, Doniphan, pulled out from county highway A into the path of a 1961 Ford driven by Charles McMahan, 26, Drasco, Ark.

Taken to the Doctor's Hospital, Poplar Bluff, were Olive Goddard, 22, in the Goddard car, who received head cuts and bruises and knee bruises; Helen McMahan, 28, back and leg injury and bruises; and Katherine McMahan, 5, cuts and bruises; passengers in the Ford.

Neither driver was injured.

Merit Plan Favored

WASHINGTON AP -- An effort by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to emphasize merit rather than seniority in military promotions got a cautious but generally favorable reception today among key legislators.

"All of us subscribe to the general idea," said Rep. Porter Hardy Jr., D-Va., a high ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee. "You have to have promotion or you stifle talent in the lower ranks. Maybe he has got some good ideas. We need to know more about it."

Highway 114 Open at Dexter

DEXTER — Highway 114, which crosses the Cotton Belt Railroad, is being re-opened to traffic this week, according to A. C. Cato, resident engineer for the State Highway Department.

The portion of the road was closed and re-built as a part of the highway 25 construction program, and the new section is being opened this week, eliminating the detour which went through east Dexter.

The new section of highway 114 crosses the old "overpass bridge" then goes due west and joins the new highway 25, eliminating the wide-sweeping curve off the bridge.

Missouri Power Rates Higher Than U.S. Average

Special to Standard

WASHINGTON -- The electric power bill paid by the Missouri family is higher than the average for the nation even though there are many dams where power is generated in Missouri and in adjoining states.

Distribution systems of the state also are connected with the Southwestern Power Administration.

Only eight states have higher family electric bills than Missouri, for those who consume less than 250 kilowatt hours. Only 10 have higher rates for consumption over this, according to a report by the Federal Power Commission with the title.

The power bill for the family is much cheaper than Missouri in four areas--in the Tennessee Valley Authority states, the extreme northwest, Kansas and Nebraska, and Wisconsin. On the other hand the highest rates are in Iowa, North and South Dakota, and the New England states.

The average electric bill in Missouri per family is $7.57 for 250 kwh., $10.78 for 500 kwh., $15,02 for 750 kwh., and $19.59 for 1,000 kwh. This is compared with Tennessee which has these rates for a family, $4.89 for 250 kwh., $6.93 for 500 kwh., $8.18 for 750 kwh., and $9.48, or less than half of that for Missouri, for 1,000 kwh.

Some cities in the Southeast section of the State have rates below the average for the state, and some have higher than the average. A run down of rates to these cities show this:

Kennett, $7.75 for 250 kwh., $10.73 for 500 kwh., $15.48 for 750 kwh., and $21.41 for 1,000 kwh., by Ark-Mo Power Company. $7.17 for 250 kwh., $10.08 for 500 kwh., $13.86 for 750 kwh., and $18.23 for 1,000 kwh by City public works.

Caruthersville, $7.75 for 250 kwh., $10.75 for 500 kwh., $15.48 for 750 kwh., and $21.41 for 1,000 kwh., by Ark-Mo power company.

Hayti, the same as Caruthersville.

New Madrid, $9.20 for 250 kwh., $15.45 for 500 kwh., $21.75 for 750 kwh. and $27.95 for 1,000 kwh., by City Light and Power Company.

Poplar Bluff, $8.06 for 250 kwh., $13.66 for 750 kwh., $18.62 for 750 kwh., and $22.51 for 1,000 kwh. by Missouri Utilities. and $6.66 for 250 kwh., $8.91 for 500 kwh., $12.06 for 750 kwh. and $15.43 for 1,000 kwh, by City public utilities.

Cape Girardeau, $8.27 for 250 kwh., $14.03 for 500 kwh., $19.14 for 750 kwh., and $23.11 for 1,000 kwh., by Missouri utilities.

The outrageous outbreak of rioting in America's resort cities is everybody's fault.

But contrary to the social workers, the loose thinkers, the fatheads, the lenient judges, the do-gooders and the Bleeding Hearts something can be done about it.

Certain punishment is the best antidote for crime. That prescription holds for outbreaks of juvenile lawlessness as well as more serious offenses against society. Punishment in this country is uncertain and subject to numerous delays.

What caused this outbreak to mar the nation's observance of a holiday closely linked to its history?

Modern transportation; no supervision and no acceptance of responsibility by parents. Prosperity, produces too much money in the pockets of the young; disappearance of chores or other work disciplines, creating idleness; a lenient attitude of dispensers of booze and other elements in the resort economy, which produces apathy toward the anarchy that excessive drinking produces.

It won't do much good for judges to lecture the teen agers and college students, who unleashed the destructive disturbances. Fines, even stiff ones, aren't the answer. It will do no good either to foist them on other communities by giving them no fines or light ones in return for leaving town. This merely shifts the unwelcome problem on other cities.

Every rioter should be confined for a week or more and put on a manual labor work detail beautifying the resort cities he wrecked. This action alone will produce beneficial results.

Fines won't work because the kids have plenty of money. If they didn't they would not have traveled to the communities in the first place.

Officials at Newport, R. I., might be checked. The Newport Jazz Festival -- once a wild and woolly affair -- has been tamed. Officials in other resort cities owe it to themselves to find out how it was done.

The harassed law enforcement officers, who were outmanned and overpowered in the five resort towns where the riots occurred, don't deserve criticism.

They should be praised for courageous but ineffective steps to cope with a problem that was too big for them.

The fault does not lie on their doorstep. It rests on the shoulders of the rest of us. We'd better do something about it if there is going to be any law and order in this country whose birthday is celebrated every July 4.

DARIEN'S DILEMMA

The teen-age drinking dilemma has come back to Darien, Conn. Today, July 8, still another pair of parents charged with serving liquor to minors is scheduled to appear in Stamford Circuit Court.

Parents in the high-income commuter community for years were accustomed to serving drinks to guests at debutante and teen-age parties. Few of them knew that a 32-year-old state statute forbids any person to serve liquor to any minor (under 21) other than his own child.

But last year a 17-year-old girl was killed in an automobile crash that followed a debutante party where liquor was served. Charges were placed against 13 adults; eight of them were found guilty and fined up to $500.

Just as Darien was recovering from that scandle, a new case broke, June 22, with the arrest of a New York machinery company executive and his wife on similar charges. The case involved the death of a 19-year-old college student whose car hit a bridge abutment June 24, 1964, after he attended a party for the executive's daughter. Arrests in this case had been deferred for many months until the State Supreme Court ruled the statute constitutional.

Residents of Darien are understandably upset about the drinking scandals. But the parents and other adults charged to date all say they were not aware that Connecticut had legal restrictions against serving liquor to minors in homes. It's hard to imagine a deb party without champagne. Yet only the most heedless parents in Connecticut will risk running afoul of the harsh statute now that it is being enforced.

AUTOMATION OF THE NEWS

The New York Post will use a computer to set type for publication through Wednesday (June 30). If no agreement with its printers is reached by then, the Post will take the computer out of operation and revert to the standard system of typesetting while management-union negotiations continue.

NEW YORK CITY presents a laboratory example of a management - labor confrontation in the newspaper business. To oversimplify, the issue is: "What share of the savings achieved by the use of labor-saving equipment shall go to labor and what share to management?"

The issue underlay the devastating 114-day newspaper strike in the winter of 1962-63. The city's major newspapers -- aside from the Post -- by a contract agreement reached last March gave the union, New York Typographical Union No. 6, a virtual veto over automation. Also, the publishers agreed to give the unions the direct savings from use of wire service tapes to set stock market tables.

The Post is not covered by the March contract because it pulled out of the earlier strike dispute, made a separate agreement with the union, and resumed publishing in advance of the general agreement. Now the Post wants to set type by means of a tape-fed International Business Machines 1620 computer, bypassing the use of the lineotype machine.

The computer reduces the time required to set type. An operator punches tape from regular news copy and feeds it into the computer. The computer "justifies" the copy -- spaces it properly in columns, hyphenating when necessary -- and feeds the copy in turn to line casting machines which set type.

The Post management is willing to share with the union the dollar savings achieved by automation, but only when the paper is showing a profit. The paper labors under a chronic deficit.

After several days of experiment with the computer -- and negotiation with the printers -- the Post management gave the order to "go live" -- use the computer to set publishable type -- on June 22. Eight printers who refused to handle the computer-processed type were suspended. The I. T. U. unit at the Post then called a meeting of the union chapel and refused to go back to work. Subsequently the union agreed to a week's trial publication using computer-processed type.

THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS ASSOCIATION reported last year that 24 newspapers were committed to setting type by computer systems. Among the first were the Washington Post, the Los Angeles Times, and the Palm Beach Post-Times.

A management consultant company last spring put the number of papers using computers at 43, as well as the Associated Press and United Press International. Some papers use computers for bookkeeping as well as typesetting.

IF NEW YORK lags behind other cities in automated newspapers, a great deal of the responsibility lies with the typographical union. Big Six is one of the most powerful locals in the union movement, and its president, tall, dapper, whitishblond Bert Powers, is an iron negotiator.

New York publishers from the beginning have guaranteed union members against job loss through automation. At stake only is the division of the savings. Whatever happens in New York, automation in an industry choked by rising costs is inevitable. Typesetting computers that had cost several hundred thousand dollars a few years ago are available now for $40,000. One newspaper production man foresees "computers for less than $20,000" in the not too distant future.

PEOPLE WHO CARE

Who cares? is a remark we often hear and sometimes make ourselves. It's another way of saying "it doesn't matter." A nationwide 4-H club audience got an answer to this question in Chicago recently from the head of one of our major corporations. C. W. "Tex" Cook, president of General Foods, said that people who care set good examples for others -- and setting a good example is a requirement of leadership. So who cares? The answer is: leaders.

Speaking at a dinner meeting honoring winners in the annual 4-H foods-nutrition program, he emphasized the great opportunities for leadership open to young people. The need has never been greater for qualified young men and women to tackle and help solve the pressing problems that face our country at home and abroad. And it is people who are proud to help -- and do something about it -- who are taking the lead in meeting these problems.

Unfortunately, there is an apparent national cynicism -- sometimes all - to - evident -- which causes us to shun words like proud and dedicated, or brings a self-conscious flush to the cheeks of people who use them. This should not be, because our country needs more people who are proud - proud to be dedicated, proud to care, and proud to devote themselves to creating a better world for themselves and their fellowmen.

This traditional American way of individual initiative contrasts sharply with the Russian system of state control, which the speaker saw at first-hand in a meeting with Premier Khrushchev in Moscow. Both systems require discipline, he pointed out, but ours is self-discipline. And the results to date leave no doubt that the American free-choice system is best by far.

The challenge facing us is to maintain and enhance the system against an adversary who is intent on destroying it. That is why we need more leaders to set an example for others -- more people who care.

ROYAL THIEVERY

The action of Argentina in announcing that it will annul contracts made with foreign oil companies, primarily American, without any firm promise of adequate indemnity, is another example of immorality on the part of a government.

The United States government is deeply concerned. Efforts by a high U.S. official to settle the matter fairly came to little or nothing. The AP reports that "An authoritative U.S. source said that 'failure by the Argentine government to act within the concept of the U.S. position can harm this climate (for foreign capital) and with it the Alliance for Progress.' "

Neither the Alliance for Progress, nor any other organization, can produce anything except more and more disunity if governments turn their backs on firm pledges and agreements. Since 1958 the oil companies concerned have spent $397 million in Argentina. They have developed her oil resources, to the advantage of all. They believed that the free-made contracts would be fulfilled on the part of all the signatory parties.

The news reports also say that the Argentine government holds that its action is legal, and if the companies are dissatisfied, they can go to court. One can imagine what would happen then. The litigation would, in all probability, be drawn out indefinitely. And the chance of fair indemnification would be frail indeed.

There can be no stability in the world, no fair chance to better understanding and cooperation between nations, unless treaties, contracts and agreements are kept to the letter.

The late Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi was well equipped to land on his feet, no matter what the situation. There was none able to back him into a corner, get him over a barrel, or into water too deep for him to wade out.

Perrin Holmes Lowrey, poet, professor, bird dog trainer, raconteur, retired business man, and now bishop of Braw Haw at Blue Mountains, passes along his favorite story about Senator Harrison.

Word had trickled out of the Senate cloakroom that the Senator occasionally joined with his colleagues to throw a few spot cards and take a nip for his stomach's sake, behavior not countenanced by orthodox saints.

So, after these evil tidings fell upon ears of qualified voters in a precinct where folks took their virtue seriously, the saints deputized a deacon to make inquiry of the Senator. The deacon was civilized and loathe to meddle into another man's private affairs, but his fellow saints put the heat on him, and he couldn't dodge the assignment.

He called on the Senator, next time the statesman was in those parts, and reluctantly began: "Senator Harrison, I got to ask you a personal question, and you got to tell me the truth. I don't want to ask it, but they won't leave me alone till I do. Will you tell me the truth?"

"Sure, Brother," said Senator Harrison, "Ask away."

"Well, said the deacon, they do tell that down at Washington, you now and then play cards and take a drink. You said you'd tell me the truth."

"Do you believe a thing like that about me?" asked Pat.

"Of course not," said the deacon.

"Then go back and tell'em so," roared the Senator.

THEIR CHOICE

Three managers of chicken farms in Russia were haled into court to answer charges of unsatisfactory operation of their enterprises, following secret investigations by the police.

"What do your chickens eat?" roared the judge at the first chicken farmer.

"Corn," replied the farmer.

"Ten years in jail," sentenced the judge. "Corn is not for chickens -- it is for the starving people to eat!" Turning to the second unfortunate, he shouted: "What do your chickens get to eat?"

"Corn shucks," replied the farmer.

"Five years in jail," sentenced the judge. "Corn shucks are needed to make mattresses and clothing for the poor."

"And what do your chickens eat?" he glared at the third unfortunate chicken farmer.

"Me, I don't know," replied the man meekly. "I just give them the money and tell them to go out and buy their own food."

H. L. Hunt Says

YOUTH GETS THE BILL

There is no future for freedom and limited government in America unless our young people can be brought to see that this way of life is both morally right and personally beneficial to them.

The more idealistic our young people will contend for a cause simply because it is right. But they, and their freedom-loving elders, will not find all the support they need unless they can also show that freedom and limited government are personally advantageous to every individual willing to earn his own living, while socialism will pauperize him.

This is not easy to demonstrate today when we are swamped with "buy now, pay later" spending programs and flooded with propaganda about the benefits big government supposedly can provide for all. But these arguments have one very vulnerable spot where youth is concerned. It is our young people who are going to have to pay the bill.

Young people getting their first jobs today will still be in the prime of life when the twentieth century ends. Older folks may not have to look that far ahead, but youth does, and has good reason for concern. If during the next 35 years government continues to grow and freedom continues to be restricted at the rate of the past 35 years, our young people today will not have much to live for.

Instead, they will spend their lives paying the bills we of the older generation presented to them, unless they do more for freedom than we have done. HLH

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Senators and Congressmen argued for parts of two days behind the closed doors of a joint conference committee over health warnings in cigaret advertising.

What happened was supposed to be off the record. However it can be revealed that two spokesmen for the tobacco-TV Lobby Walter Rogers of Pampa, Texas, and Horace Kornegay, of Greensboro, N. C., both Democrats, held out to the very end against any regulation of cigaret advertising.

After two days they lost out. Rep. Oren Harris, the Arkansas Democrat who is chairman of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, asked for "a reasonable negotiation of our differences." He was also most gallant toward the one lady participant, Sen. Maurine Neuberger, D-Ore., whose husband died of cancer and who has been waging a crusade against cigarets.

As a result, the conferees decided to give the tobacco industry three and a half years of grace before requiring its advertising to submit to federal trade commission regulation, as every other industry in the United States must do. In the entire history of the trade commission never before has any industry been given special exemption from FTC regulation, until Rep. Rogers, the friend of Madison Avenue, proposed and pushed this exemption through the House.

"The FTC is trying to ride roughshod over Congress and the Senate apparently is content to let this happen," growled Rogers at his Senate colleagues. "I can draw no other conclusion from the bill the Senate passed. The Senate assumes that the FTC still has jurisdiction over cigaret advertising, in a limited way. The House says 'No.' "

"Yes, but you've gone too far in the House bill," diplomatically suggested Sen. Warren Magnuson D-Wash., the Senate committee chairman. "Also, the Senate is not willing to let the FTC or any other agency ride roughshod over the Congress. We made this clear in our committee report. But we did not take a specific stand for or against the FTC authority to regulate cigaret advertising. We simply barred this authority for a period of three years."

--HEALTH WARNING ON SIDE--

"Well, that's your analysis," snapped Rogers. "It isn't mine. I also don't agree with some other claims I've heard on this issue, like the contention that Congress is trying to hide the health warning label on cigarets by specifying that it be put on the side of the package, instead of on the larger front or back of the pack.

"At a cocktail party, everyone can plainly see a warning on the side of a pack. But if the pack is lying on a table, with the warning on the underside, either the front or the back, then no one can see it."

"That's about the most far-fetched argument I have heard in some time," disputed Sen. Maurine Neuberger. "If you follow that cocktail party story through, then you would have to twist your head, and almost fall over, in order to read a warning on the side of a cigaret package.

"Your attacks on the FTC also sound pretty unreasonable to me. Let's quit beating around the bush."

Rep. Harris also obviously felt there was too much inconsequential talk and too little action, because he urged his House colleagues, after the first meeting, not to reject a fair compromise. As the second closed-door session began the next morning, Harris looked around the room, then inquired: "Where's Mrs. Neuberger?"

Informed that she couldn't be present, Harris asked: "Did she leave any mandate on what she was ready to accept?"

Told that the Oregon senator still favored the "Senate version," that is, she would reluctantly agree to a temporary three-year moratorium of FTC Powers, Harris replied amicably: "That's fine. I'll see what I can do with my colleagues from the House."

Result was the three-and-a-half - year compromise. Both sides also agreed not to direct that the health warning be on the side of a cigaret pack. Under the new bill it can be placed anywhere on the pack, as long as it is conspicuous.

Rogers finally gave in, but Kornegay was adamant to the last. Finally, just before the meeting ended, he surrendered. "I'm doing this only out of deference to my chairman," he said.

--ADAM STAYS AT HOME--

Having exposed Adam Clayton Powell, the Harlem Globe Trotter, for his junkets abroad, it's only fair to note a couple of facts on the other side. First, he did not take the proposed Junket to Geneva for the International Labor Office meeting, though he is chairman of the congressional delegation to the ILO. Second, Powell did not join the fifty congressmen to attend the Paris Air Show last month.

Instead of going to Geneva or Paris, Powell has been working like a bird dog pushing legislation through the House Education and Labor Committee, of which he is chairman.

Some of the most important bills for Johnson's great society have been hammered into shape by his committee and reported out in fast time.

They include: Aid - to-Education, the Manpower Training Amendments, the Coal Mine Safety Act, Revision of the Landrum-Griffin Act, the Economic Opportunity Act or "Poverty Bill," Repeal of 14B, the so-called Right-to-Work Provision. The Higher Education Act to help colleges and universities, is now before Powell's committee and is one reason why he cancelled his ILO trip to Geneva.

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Maj. James A. Minish and his men have cost Uncle Sam $21,441,250 in 99 days — but feel the government got its money's worth.

"It may even have been a bargain," said Maj. Minish, his taciturn face breaking into a smile. "Over-all, we feel we did a good job."

The $21-million figure reflects the cost of the ordnance his squadron of F100 fighter planes expended while flying nearly 1¾ million miles and 2,200 sorties.

It doesn't include the fuel consumption, salaries of the flyers, or the value of two planes lost in action.

The major, a native of Yellowstone Park, Wyo., whose wife and four children now live at Alexandria, La., started posting the ammunition costs at the beginning of the squadron's tour of duty.

"I wanted to teach them this stuff is too valuable to waste," said Minish. "It caught their interest to see the cost of a mission in terms of dollars and cents."

The $21-million-plus total included 750,000 20mm cannon shells at $2.05 each, 3,500 bombs at $350 each, 2,250, and palm bombs at $275, and 17,200 rockets at $1,050 apiece.

On his 99th day the major lowered his wheels and came in for a perfect landing. It was his 107th mission, 10 more than any other member of his squadron.

"I expended 800 rounds of 20mm fire at some Viet Cong in a tree area northwest of here," he said. "I never thought about it being my last mission. It was just like any other one.

"I haven't been sweating out the last few particularly. Flying as many missions as we have, someone is bound to be hit now and then. But I've never been concerned over my own welfare.

"I've never carried goodluck charms. I feel our training has made us competent, and I have faith in our planes and our crew chiefs."

Minish is admired at the base here for his qualities of character and leadership and the deep concern he has shown for the welfare of the officers and men in his command. Not one of his men has cracked up under combat strain or grueling 14- to 16-hour days on repair work.

The squadron flew 1,400 sorties in South Viet Nam and 800 against North Vietnamese targets.

"We think our work here helped the whole effort," the major said. "Sometimes you come back feeling unsatisfied when you've bombed the Viet Cong in heavy foliage. All you can see are the explosions. You can't tell the results.

"But in several heavy ground battles, our F100s have made the difference. So over-all, we're going home with a feeling of satisfaction."

Coalition of Left Wing Unionists-Pacificists Plan To Seize Congress Chamber and Demonstrate at Key U. S. Factories

Washington, D. C.: -- Soon the "August 9th Movement" will smash its way into the nation's headlines. On that day it will attempt to occupy the chamber of Congress' House of Representatives here.

On that day a coalition of left-wing unionists, young workers recruited from big factories, poverty actionists from the big cities, students' leaders, pacifists, and the vacationing campus "anti-Viet Nam" leaders will move into the Capitol building.

They will lead an attempt to walk around the House chamber. Then the action blueprint calls for a sudden dive for empty seats of Congressmen who are off the floor. Many of them will be, since Aug. 9 is a summer Monday.

Realizing there will be police action, leaders of the newly-coordinated movement which will be known as "W. A. P. --Washington Action Project" --plan to sit down wherever they are stopped. There they intend to remain until dragged out and arrested.

August 9, 1965, may yet be heralded in some corners of the world as the day the proletariat arose and attempted to seize the American Congress.

However, the W. A. P.'s intent is to sit down in the House seats, convene a "Congress of Unrepresented People" and call for "peace" in Viet Nam.

Previous to the planned invasion of Congress -- all of which is being carefully developed in an office on Rhode Island Ave. here -- there will be a day-long series of workshops.

What makes this operation a significant development in the so-called peace movement is the presence of a left-wing unionist in the 30-man W. A. P. coordinating committee. He's Russ Nixon, who has powerful connections in a series of militant, independent labor unions. His contacts reach into unions covering plants in the electronic, electrical, and atomic equipment and communication fields and on some waterfronts.

Nixon, an accomplished organizer and strategist, is counted on to bring in the manpower which the peace groups have lacked. Apparently there are sufficient funds. Staffs are maintained. Considerable lodging is supplied.

But numbers are needed for the series of picket lines and mass demonstrations now planned on a front stretching from the Pentagon on to the White House, then up Pennsylvania Ave. into the Congress itself.

The next step, it is believed by security people, will be attempts to move into arms factories and industrial plants providing the logistic support for the Vietnamese fighting.

If thousands of workers--especially young people now entering the labor market--can be convinced that it is wrong to produce for war, there could be sizeable demonstrations in and outside the plant gates for key mills and factories.

Plant security directors and industrial-labor relations men, working closely with non-left union chiefs, have observed the spreading influence in labor of "anti-Viet Namists." Already a large Midwest local of a huge national union has permitted its publication to state that American generals are gleefully permitting our troops to shoot colored people in Asia by the thousands.

Such growing infiltration could have its impact on America even if just a handful of workers take the propaganda seriously.

That "August 9th Movement" could really touch things off that morning.

Giants Halt Cards

Stop Win Streak At 7 With 4-2 Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The San Francisco Giants ended a seven game winning streak by the Cardinals Wednesday night at St. Louis in a 13 inning battle which the Giants won 4-2.

Bob Gibson of the Redbirds struck out 12 batters in the game, going all the way, but lost out a bid for his 11th victory. Gibson is now 10-7.

Tom Haller slapped a two-run homer to give the Giants the victory. It came with Willie Mays on base after a single.

The score was tied 1-1 until the 12th when Jim Hart and Dick Schofield combined a double and a single for a 2-1 lead. St. Louis made it 2-2 in their half of the inning on two errors, a sacrifice and a single.

The Cardinals are idle today.

Kansas City could not cope with the Millers, John and Stu, as they lost their sixth straight game, 1-0, Wednesday night at Kansas City. John Miller started the game and allowed four hits before he was replaced in the seventh by Stu Miller.

Stu allowed only one other hit —a single in the eighth. Baltimore's run came in the sixth on a single from Jackie Brandt after Dick Brown doubled and John Miller singled.

Wally Bunker (4-4) will pitch for Baltimore today and the Athletics will call on Diego Segui (4-9).

Lewis Leaps Legion In Little League

Lewis Furniture galloped to a victory over the Legion nine with a score of 8-5 in the National League at Puckett Field last night. That bout was the only game played.

Lewis began the game with 2 hits and 5 runs to take the lead. Legion trounced 3 hits, one a home run by Shy, to total up their score to 4 in the first. Legion made a threat in the second as they tied the game up 5-5.

After the second, there was no action from either team until the bottom of the last when Lewis hammered 3 singles to force in the winning runs.

Vines, starting on the mound and was relieved by Corrigan, was not credited with the win but wolloped the ball for 2 singles to head Lewis with the stick. Phelps also led with 2 for 3 for the victors. Britt had 2 of the 7 hits pounded by Legion. Corrigan took the win giving up 7 hits and 5 runs. Shy took the loss for Legion, allowing 6 hits and 8 runs.

Tony Lema Takes Lead In First Round Of Open

By THOMAS A. REEDY
Associated Press Writer

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) —Tony Lema showed his heels again today to the field of 130 in the second round of the British Open Golf Championship and there were many wondering why they've spent all those hours practicing.

Lema's five-under-par 68 on the 7,037-yard Royal Birkdale links Wednesday came after only two rounds of practice and that was history repeating itself.

Last year he got off a plane, played nine holes on the fearsome St. Andrews Old Course and won the title — just like that.

How does he do it?

"I know where I should hit the ball after looking at a course for two days. And anyhow, you know we're really in practice trim all the time when we play the full circuit.

"Last year Arnold Palmer's caddy, Tip Anderson, of Scotland helped me tremendously at St. Andrews. This year I am lucky to have another Scot, Willie Atchison. He was sure good to me out there."

Lema in fact got a better start this time. He was one shot ahead of Ireland's Christy O'Connor who led him by two shots at this stage in 1964.

Just behind O'Connor was the specter of Palmer, the Latrobe, Pa., belter who won the 1961 championship here and then got a double in 1962 at Old Troon. Palmer's 70 came with good golf shots and what was more impressive his fantastic putting ability seemed to be on the way back.

Ireland's great 43-year-old amateur, Joe Carr, was at 70 along with Palmer. Bruce Devlin of Australia was next at 71.

Today's second round presents a giant challenge to Jack Nicklaus, the Masters' champion, who stood at 73: Old Sam Snead at 74, Phil Rodgers, La Jolla, Calif. and Terry Dill, Mule Shoe, Tex., at 75, U.S. Open champion Gary Player of South Africa at 76 and Doug Sanders, Ojai, Calif. at 78.

The field will be cut tonight to the low 45 and ties.

High School Rodeo Receiving Entries

TARKIO, Mo. AP -- Entries were still being received today for the 10th annual Missouri State High School Rodeo which opens here Friday night.

All contestants must be bonafide high school students. The number of entries was expected to approach the 62 on hand last year.

In the boys' division there will be contests in bareback bronc riding, calf roping, saddle bronc riding, steer bulldogging and cutting horses. The girls will compete in pole bending, barrel racing, cutting horses and calf roping.

Prizes will range from silver buckles to two $200 scholarships to Tarkio College.

There will be competition Friday and Saturday nights with the finals on Sunday night. The top winners will be eligible to compete in the National High School Rodeo at Ogalalla, Neb., next month.

PITCHING -- Chris Short, Phillies, stopped Pittsburgh 1-0 on three hits.

Sports TALK By DON SAVAGE

Sikeston's Babe Ruth Tournament goes into its semi-final round tonight. The Tournament has had some excellent ballgames, in an extremely well organized, and well played program of baseball.

In the first contest of the Tournament, Sikeston's team of 13-year olds, the Aces, tripped Broseley, in taking home a 7 to 3 victory. Young Steve Counts hurled excellent baseball limiting the Broseley team to only 3 hits. It is just one example of the sparkling play, that goes on nightly at V. F. W. Stadium.

The second contest saw Pocahontas squeeze by a tough New Madrid team, in a hard fought duel, 5 to 4. New Madrid surged, scored two runs in the top of the seventh, to knot the score, only to be defeated, when Pocahontas pushed one run across in the bottom half of the inning, for the victory. Three Pocahontas pitchers combined to hurl a three hitter at the junior Indians. New Madrid's two hurlers Mike Andrews and Jim Pearson, not to be out done by the Pocahontas moundsmen, hurled a brillant three hitter, also.

The Sikeston Aces met a tough Poplar Bluff crew and were dealt an 11 to 1 defeat. The win was not as devastating for Sikeston as the score might sound, considering the ages of the Aces. A defeat could help the young team, as we know the experience will help in their development. Poplar Bluff pitcher Payne, limited the Aces to only three hits in the contest.

Sikeston's other entry in the tournament the All - Stars won a real squeeker from a fine Pocahontas team 6 to 5 with a two run, 7th inning rally. Lou Farris and Wayne Limbaugh head the squad of All-Stars. The two boys banged out three hits each in the Sikeston victory.

All in all, for thrilling action, on the diamond we suggest you attend the Semi-finals tonight.

All Missouri waterfowl hunting areas except the Trimble Wildlife Area will be open for teal hunting during the special nine-day season, September 18 through 26, according to the Conservation Commission.

The Commission decided that hunters will be permitted to use any portion of the areas except the refuges, and that, for the teal season, no reservations or fees will be required and no blinds assigned.

Trimble will remain closed because of its small size and the fact that the shooting pools will not be flooded in September.

John Gottschalk, director of the federal Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife, assured a Conservation Commission representative that a quantity of teal permits had been sent to the Missouri department. When they arrive, these permits will be distributed to hunters who apply for them. The permits are free, but teal hunters must have them.

The Conservation Commission has established a cut-off date of August 18 for distribution of the permits. Hunters applying for them are requested to fill in the county of their residence.

Leslie and Fabick Continue Lead In American League

Last night at Farris Field in the American League, Leslie Insurance conquered Police in the first game as they went on with their winning streak with a winning score of 10-7.

Police took the lead after the second frame as they clipped 2 hits to drive in 3 runs. Leslie, in that inning, boosted only 1 run to give the lead to Police. In the fourth inning of play Leslie hammered 4 hits — two being doubles by the lead hitters, Colwick and Wake. Leslie did not stop with just 4 in the fourth but contributed 3 more in the fifth and one in the sixth to ice the victory. The law enforcers whipped up 3 hits to tumble across 4 runs in the last in a last minute effort to nab Leslie.

The little left hander, Shipp, tossed the ball for Leslie as he allowed 6 hits and 7 runs. Shipp, however, was troubled with giving up 9 free tickets to first base. Terrell hurled for Police giving up 8 hits and 10 runs. He also allowed 9 bases on balls.

Colwick had 3 for 4 and Wake took 2 for 2 in the batting position for Leslie. Luber starred for Police as he let loose 2 singles for 2 times at bat.

Second game action saw Security Federal smothered by the strong nine of Fabick. Security was nicked with a score of 6 to 3. Fabick was not outscored but was out hit as they could only manage 3 to 4 hits off Security.

After 2 innings Fabick had the lead as they scored 3 runs in the first and pounded 2 across in the second to total the score then to 5-0. Security took the spotlight as they held Fabick to their 5 runs and themselves scored one run in each of the next three frames to add up their only runs. Fabick did score another run again to take the victory.

Fabick was headed by Allen as he pitched the full 6 to take the win giving up 4 hits and 3 runs. Porter took the loss with five inning aid from McConnell.

Brown battered 2 singles for 3 trips to the plate and Grant produced the other hit for Fabick. Branum, Hicks, Nelson, and Eisenbach scattered hits for the losers.

National League Holds Hitting Edge For All Star Classic

NEW YORK AP -- From a slugging standpoint, at least, the National League All-Stars will have a decided edge over the Americans when the two squads meet in the annual mid-summer classic at Bloomington, Minn., next Tuesday.

Already boasting a powerful starting line-up, the Nationals added an attractive auxiliary group Wednesday that included sluggers Johnny Callison of Philadelphia, Billy Williams and Ron Santo of Chicago, Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh and Frank Robinson of Cincinnati.

This group shapes up at least favorably with the American League alternates featuring sluggers Harmon Killebrew, Jimmie Hall and Tony Oliva of Minnesota, Elston Howard of New York, Max Alvis of Cleveland, Al Kaline and Bill Freehan of Detroit.

Oliva and Freehan were substituted for ailing Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees and Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox. Both are hobbled by injuries not expected to heal in time for the interleague game.

National League All-Star Manager Gene Mauch, unlike his counterpart, Al Lopez, departed from custom and passed over three second choices in picking his nine alternates for the 1965 All-Star team.

Generally, in the past, the All-Star managers have picked players who finished second in the balloting for starting positions. But Mauch passed over first baseman Gordie Coleman of the Reds, second baseman Frank Bolling of the Milwaukee Braves and center fielder Vada Pinson of the Reds.

In their places, he chose Ed Kranepool of the New York Mets, Cookie Rojas of the Phillies and Clemente. Robinson was his utility pick.

Mauch's other selections included catcher Johnny Edwards and shortstop Leo Cardenas of the Reds, third baseman Santo, left fielder Williams and right fielder Callison.

Earlier, he had named Managers Dick Sisler of Cincinnati and Bobby Bragan of Milwaukee as his coaches.

The selections left only the world champion St. Louis Cardinals and Houston Astros without a representative. Under All-Star game rules, every club must be represented by at least one player.

This means that at least one pitcher from each of those two clubs will have to be named when the hurlers are announced Friday.

The American League starters will include Earl Battey, twins, catcher; Bill Skowron, White Sox, first base; Felix Mantilla, Red Sox, second base; Brooks Robinson, Orioles, third base; Dick McAuliffe, Tigers, shortstop; Rocky Colavito, Indians, right field; Vic Davalillo, Indians, center field; Willie Horton, Tigers, left field.

Bobby Richardson of the Yankees and Zoilo Versalles of the Twins complete the American League reserves.

Through Wednesday's games, the National League All-Star squad led the Americans in home runs, 188 to 169, and in runs batted in, 702 to 665.

Luke Appling, A's Coach Has Umpire Troubles

KANSAS CITY AP -- Luke Appling, Kansas City A's coach, scratched his head and said "This is the first time I ever got throw'd out in the runway to the dugout before I ever got on the field - and I was only joshing."

The Hall of Fame shortstop said he was sitting on a bench in the runway and joshing with Cal Hubbard, supervisor of American League umpires, as Hubbard and the game umpiring crew walked down the runway.

Appling said Hubbard, here on a routine tour of the league, "was kidding me back." A moment later, Appling said, Al Salerno took his words seriously Appling called Salerno a "swell head" and the ejection followed.

"Old Aches and Pains," as Appling was known in his playing days, told his story calmly puffing on a cigar in the stands as he watched Baltimore beat the A's 4-1 Tuesday night.

"I was talking only to Hubbard and we were laughing and joshing," he said. "It had nothin' to do with nothin' and neither of was serious.

"The last thing I said was 'This is the only umpire you got,' and I patted Nestor Chylak on the fanny-he was the last one in the line.

"A little later Salerno-he was already up the dugout steps -- comes all the way back and tells me I can't talk that way.

"I said "Are you serious?" and he said yes, he was serious. I told him I hadn't said one word to him, I wasn't even addressing him and I was only joshing with Hubbard.

"Well, one thing led to another, and I would up telling him 'You can't take joshing and you're just a swell head.'

"Salerno left and a little later I came out and sat down in the dugout," Appling said. "But Sully A's manager Haywood Sullivan and a couple of players told me I couldn't stay, that Salerno told 'em I was through.

"You know, Salerno told Sully I cussed him, and that wasn't so.

"He just showed me he had the Blue Suit. But I'll say this, I was just as little as he was for getting mad at him. I shouldn't have said anything back to him.

"He just got under my skin, because I was only joshing."

When a lot of fellows make their wills, they find taxes so high that they not only can't take it with them; they can't leave it behind.

Rico Carty Has Hot Stick For Braves

MILWAUKEE AP -- For the first time in weeks, Milwaukee Braves' fans have something to cheer about -- Rico Carty is driving in runs again.

The big Dominican belted 22 home runs and drove in 88 runs in playing only two-thirds of his rookie season last year.

Prior to Wednesday night's game against the Houston Astros, Carty was batting a solid .292 but he had only four home runs and 14 runs batted in.

The Braves, meanwhile, were suffering. Before beating the Astros 5-2 Wednesday night, Milwaukee had lost nine out of 11 games and 13 of the last 17.

Carty, dropped to eighth place in the line-up for the first time since joining the Braves, personally helped reverse the form against the Astros, slamming a home run and a run-scoring single. He also doubled to set up a run in the second inning.

"It looks like he's back," said Manager Bobby Bragan. "He's getting more confidence all the time. When a guy hits a home run to the opposite field, you know he's back."

Loud, long-winded art is pompousness.

Bloomfield and Scott City Win In Babe Ruth Tournament

Sikeston's Babe Ruth Tournament goes into the semi-final round tonight. In action last night, Scott City walked on Oran 9 to 0. In the second contest, Stoddard county rivals Bloomfield and Dexter played a hard contest, with the Bloomfield Wildcats coming out on top in a 3-1 battle.

Tonights action, at V. F. W. now pairs, Poplar Bluff and Scott City, while Sikeston's All-Stars clash with a tough Bloomfield team in the second contest.

Scott City pitcher Ernst had the Oran nine on their heels all evening, hurling a no-hit, no-run ball game for the Rams.

Scott City scored three runs in the first and were never headed by Oran. Scott city added four more runs in the fifth and two in the sixth to have their winning total. The game was called at the end of six innings of play because of the time limit.

The losing hurler for the Oran team was Halter. He was relieved in the sixth inning by Graham.

The Scott City team only had four hits, in the game. Riggs, Miller, Renagel and Ernst had one hit each.

Bloomfield defeated Dexter, in a well played ballgame by a 3 to 1 margin.

Hart went all the way on the mound for Bloomfield giving up only 2 hits, and 1 run in the game. Dexter pitcher Knight also, hurled masterfully, as he allowed only 4 Bloomfield safties.

Bloomfield took the lead in the bottom of the first inning. The first man up for Bloomfield flied out, to rightfielder Rankins. Kingree bounced out, shortstop to first. Then, with two men out Knight struck out Bloomfield catcher Harris. The Dexter catcher missed the ball with Harris hustling to first. In an attempt to throw out the runner the Dexter first baseman dropped the ball, Harris then advanced to second. Hart single to score him. Then Knight got back to business and struck out Pullum to retire the Wildcats. Bloomfield picked up a run in the third, and one in the sixth, to salvage the victory.

Dexter managed their only run and two hits in the top of the seventh inning, but Hart quickly found himself again, and snuffed the Dexter attempt for victory.

Hart was the leading hitter in the game, he had two hits.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia AP --Peter Snell, New Zealand's Olympic gold medalist in the 800 and 1,500-meters at the Tokyo Games last year, but who hasn't won on his current European tour may retire after a 1,500-meter race here Friday.

"If I run a good time, this race here in Prague will be my last," Snell said Wednesday. "If not, I will continue to compete until I achieve again a top performance. I would not want to leave the track as an average runner."

Retires From Air Force

TRUAX FIELD, Madison, Wis. -- Lt. Col. Robert L. Andrews has retired from the air force after more than 24 years service.

At his retirement ceremony, Colonel Andrews was awarded the air force commendation medal for meritorious service as chief of support operations and weapons division, headquarters 30th air division (SAGE).

Presiding officer was Major Gen. Frederick R. Terrell, commander of the division.

Colonel Andrews, who is married to the former Nina Taylor of Sikeston, Mo., daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elmos Taylor, plans to retire with his family in Denver, Colo.

He was born Aug, 15, 1919, and received his commission in the military after completion of aviation cadet training April 26, 1941.

During his career, Colonel Andrews received the following decorations and awards: legion of merit, air medal, American defense service medal, American campaign medal, army occupation medal (Germany), World War II victory medal, medal for humane action, national defense service medal, air force longevity service award ribbon with one silver oak leaf cluster, and the guided missile insignia.

Peter, Paul And Mary Bob Act

HOLLYWOOD -- As Yarrow, Stookey and Travers, they might have achieved success. Fortunately for folkniks, the trio chose to bill themselves by their first names.

Peter, Paul and Mary have become what variety calls a boff act. So boff, in fact, that they can almost fill the echoing Hollywood Bowl with clamorous fans, as they did last Friday night.

The same sort of thing happens everywhere they go, and they have gone into most of the 50 states and as far afield as Tokyo and Paris in the four years they have been singing together. Their records sell in the millions - say about five. These sales came from a mere five albums; they conscientiously refuse to sacrifice volume to quality.

The concert here afforded a closeup view of the successful triumvirate. All are in their late 20s. Their conversation veers to causes, from the purity of folk music to civic rights.

To differentiate: Mary Travers wears her straw-colored hair long; the other two have black goatees. Paul Stookey is balding, the trio's comic; Peter Yarrow is stern-minded and the usual spokesman.

"We all have been working separately, and Paul was the only one who was making any money," said Peter. "We were brought together by Albert Grossman, the man who has managed Joan Baez, Bob Dylan, Odetta and many others. He saw something in each of us that might combine into something new."

They rehearsed in New York for seven months, molding their talents into a smooth-functioning team before accepting any play-dates. When they finally appeared before audiences, they possessed a confidence that was startling.

Their first date was at a New York folk house called the Bitter End, which wasn't the least bit prophetic. Audiences knew they were listening to something unique and exciting, even if show business moguls didn't.

"RCA-Victor didn't feel we were ready to record," Peter recalled. "Columbia Records would have signed us if we changed our material. The Bell Telephone Hour and the night club, the Blue Angel, would have taken us if we had shaved our beards. In each case, we declined."

Warner Bros. Records was pleased to accept the singers bearded and with their original material. Three months after being rejected by RCA-Victor, Peter, Paul and Mary had the best-selling album in the country.

Peter's conclusion: "The impact of a new success is in direct ratio to its degree of departure from the previous norm."

Highway Department Plans Seventeen Double Rest Areas Along Interstate

Travelers along Missouri's Interstate highway system will have ample places to stop and stretch, eat and rest under a rest area program recently approved by the State Highway Commission.

Under the program the Highway Department will develop 17 double rest areas along the Interstate routes. The areas will be spaced about 50 miles apart, or about an hour's driving time for traveler's convenience. All of them will be in rural areas where long stretches of highway might cause driver fatigue.

The areas will include a shelter house, restrooms, running water and other facilities for travelers' comfort. Except for two, the areas are planned to be opposite each other on each side of the highway.

Earlier plans had called for only nine double areas but eight more were added to cut driving time between them to about an hour.

The sites by Interstate route will be:

Interstate Route 29--Site 1, two miles south of Mound City in Holt county; and Site 2, two-and-a-half miles south of Supplementary Route E in Platte county.

Interstate Route 35--Site 3, in Daviess county just south of Harrison county line; and Site 4, one mile south of Supplementary Route H in Clinton county.

Interstate Route 70--Site 5, just west of Concordia in Lafayette county; Site 6, between Supplementary Routes B and Missouri Route 87 near Boonville; Site 7, on each side of the Loutre River near Mineola in Montgomery county; and Site 8, two miles east of the Wentzville interchange in St. Charles county.

Interstate Route 44--Site 9, about one mile from the Oklahoma line in Newton county; Site 10, between Supplementary Routes M and N east of Mt. Vernon in Lawrence county; Site 11, near the Webster-Laclede county line; Site 12, just west of Supplementary Route C in Phelps county; and Site 13, four miles east of Stanton in Franklin county.

Interstate Route 55--Site 14, two miles south of Supplementary Route K in Ste. Genevieve county; Site 15, between Supplementary Routes KK and D in Cape Girardeau county; Site 16, one mile north of Marston in New Madrid county; and Site 17, two-and-a-half miles north of the Arkansas line in Pemiscot county.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mister Blanton,

I would like to express my appreciation to you and the members of the Standard staff for sponsoring me as a member of the 1965 session of Missouri Boys' State at Warrensburg, Missouri. This experience was both enjoyable and uniquely educational.

The principles and workings of American democracy were well presented and the program's theme, "Democracy Depends on Me," well demonstrated. Upon arrival, citizens were divided into two parties, Nationalists and Federalists, and at once set upon the task of selecting candidates for city offices. Next, county officers were elected, and, finally, state officers. All officials were either appointed or elected by boy citizens, through their own caucuses, conventions, and primaries. Throughout the week, citizens attended programs and lectures given on behalf of the F. B. I., the Missouri Highway Department, West Point, and the Air Force Academy. In addition, citizens had their choice of attending one of the schools giving special instruction in law, law enforcement, the legislative department, and the executive department.

This was indeed a very worthwhile experience and I believe that civic-conscious organizations such as yours are doing a great service to our country, as well as to the young people, in sponsoring this program.

Very sincerely,
Mike Critchlow

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a reader who signed herself "Too Late." Hers was a tragic story. She was a girl who married much too young and her life was, as she put it, "a mess." In closing she confessed, "the love I was sure would last forever faded after a couple of months." You advised "Too Late" to keep her chin up and to keep fighting.

Her letter could have been written by me ten years ago. There were times when I felt life wasn't worth living. Then one day I began to look around me and take stock. I discovered that no marriage is without its disappointments, its periods of boredom and just plain unhappiness.

My husband and I have learned that tolerance for each other's faults, mutual respect and consideration, and a sense of humor, has kept us afloat. Our marriage may not be glamorous according to movie standards but neither is anyone else's. It took a while but now we know we have much to be thankful for. -- C. C.

Dear C. C.: Your honest and realistic approach to marriage is well worth examining. Every word you say is true. Take notes students.

Dear Ann Landers: We know a couple who has not brought a towel or a bath mat for years. Why should they when Mr. Hilton, Mr. Sheraton and others provide them with such fine items?

The ash trays, glasses, cups and saucers in their home are clearly marked The Plaza, and the Greenbrier, to name two.

Whenever they go to a restaurant they take something home -- a sugar bowl, a cream pitcher or a piece of silverware. It's always a "little souvenir."

Last night we were dining in a posh restaurant. Mrs. X put a fine linen napkin in her purse and told her husband to put one in his pocket because she needed two to make an even dozen. I could hold my tongue no longer and said, "Don't you people know you are stealing?" Mr. X became indignant and replied, "At these prices they expect it."

This couple has children who can read. Wouldn't you think they'd be ashamed? Are we "Square," as they say? --- A AND Z

Dear A and Z: Any item slipped out of a hotel or restaurant is not a souvenir. It is stolen. And the person who does it is not a souvenir collector, he is a thief.

Children learn by example. Parents who bring home stolen property are going to have a difficult time keeping their kids honest.

Dear Ann Landers: Taking photographs at a wedding is a common practice but have you ever heard of hiring a photographer to take pictures at a funeral?

You needn't bother to disguise the facts. Everybody in town knows about this.

A relative of mine passed away a few days ago. A daughter of the woman who died insists she is going to have the world's most complete family album. She said she failed to hire a photographer when her father died and she has regretted it ever since.

The photographer took pictures of the casket (both open and closed). He photographed the pallbearers, the clergyman (during the eulogy) and the funeral procession. When the photographer showed up at the cemetery I could scarcely believe my eyes. What do you think of this? -- THOROUGHLY DISGUSTED

Dear Thoroughly: It makes a great deal of sense to have a photographer around to capture, for posterity, moments of joy but to take pictures of a funeral for a family album seems creepy and macabre to me.

Parents are people -- they can be right and they can be wrong. To help understand their viewpoint and to promote harmony at home, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "How to Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Sun Can Be Dangerous

JEFFERSON CITY -- Is acquiring a sun tan part of your summer vacation plans? OK, but remember that sun rays can burn as well as tan.

"Too often we bask too much too soon," Dr. L. M. Garner, acting director of the state Division of Health, said today. Most of us admire the nut-brown hue of the well-tanned sunbathers, but none of us want smarting, tender and itching flesh--the penalty of overexposure.

"Sun can be fun," Dr. Garner said, "but certain precautions are necessary."

The first exposure to the bright midday sun of summer should not exceed 30 minutes, even for dark brunette individuals, he advised. Fair-skinned persons should probably limit their initial sunbath to 15 minutes. In temperate zones exposure before 10 a.m. or after 4 p.m. is much less likely to cause sunburn because the burn-producing wavelengths usually are filtered out.

Many effective sun screen preparations are available, but for prolonged protection care must be taken that they are not washed away by bathing or prespiration.

An overcast or cloudy sky can be dangerously deceptive. Many severe sunburns have resulted form underestimating the power of the sun's rays on an overcast day. Sand, water and white surfaces reflect the rays and magnify their effect.

Sunburn is not the only hazard; repeated prolonged exposure to strong sunlight has a definite aging effect on the skin. One group of dermatologists recently reported, "The sun tan is definitely 'in.' But the smooth, heavily tanned skin of the 'teens and twenties will be the dry, wrinkled and wizened skin of the forties."

What do you do if you do get sunburned? Obviously, further exposure should be avoided until the acute reaction subsides. In most instances, application of a soothing emollient cream, ointment or lotion is all that is necessary. But if the burn is more severe, obtain medical aid promptly.

Drawbridges along Buffalo's lakeshore add one more misery to the driver's lot because, when a freighter goes through, you can count on a delay of five to ten minutes or more. Recently, as I switched off my engine to wait it out, I heard a penetrating wail. I looked into the car next to mine to see an attractive young matron playing a clarinet, her eyes fixed on the music she had propped against the steering wheel. She was practicing some Christmas carols and doing very well.

When the all-clear whistle blew, she had just enough time to stow the instrument and music. I caught her eye and applauded; she bowed in my direction --then we both drove on.

Three New Atomic Discoveries Made

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

NATIONAL REACTOR TESTING STATION, Idaho (AP) — Three new and potentially revolutionary atomic age developments are progressing well at Uncle Sam's "reactor farm" where scientific and engineering breakthroughs are almost old hat.

Here, on an isolated, 900-square-mile area of sagebrush and basalt fields on the Snake River plains, Atomic Energy Commission scientists believe they've struck new kinds of nuclear pay-dirt with these developments:

—Achievement of "the country's first major breakthrough" in treating potentially deadly radioactive wastes from atomic power and research reactors — the so-called "garbage" of the atomic era. The process, which reduces the dangerous liquid wastes to a much safer form having only one-tenth the volume previously stored, uses equipment which works something like a popcorn machine.

—Promising results with a new type of experimental "breeder" reactor system — actually, a kind of controlled atomic bomb. Like other experimental breeders, it is designed to create more nuclear fuel than it actually consumes in producing power. But its unique feature consists of a built-in process for cleaning up and recycling partly used fuel. It dishes the fuel back into the furnace almost like loaves of bread.

—Near-completion for military field use of compact, mobile nuclear power reactors which can be flown intact in a cargo airplane to any corner of the world — ready to begin generating power for field hospitals, radar equipment and other uses, within 12 hours after arrival.

Those are among the most exciting new ventures at this $500-million station—site of the world's largest and most varied collection of nuclear reactors, or "furnaces," for research, testing, electric power production, and propulsion. The area — in southeastern Idaho, 30 miles from Idaho Falls — is three-fourths the size of the State of Rhode Island.

None of the reactor structures, operational or otherwise, would rate any beauty prizes. From the outside, most of them are huge, boxlike affairs which look like warehouses.

But they house some of the world's most ingenious and complicated machinery and hidden, heavily shielded pots of controlled nuclear fury — designed to help produce more powerful, safer and more efficient civilian and military reactors of the future.

And, some of them are devices which, since 1951, already have achieved these "firsts" in the atomic race:

—Proof-testing the feasability of nuclear propulsion for both submarines and surface ships—thus paving the way for the United States' present nuclear fleet of 51 submarines, the aircraft carrier Enterprise and several other surface warships.

—Production of the world's first useable quantities of electricity from the atom —including the test-lighting of the city of Arco, seven miles from the site.

—Powering of a turbojet engine exclusively from nuclear heat.

And engineers here say that one of their reactors — called the "materials testing reactor" (MTR) — has played a vital role in aiding the development of every nuclear power reactor in the world, "including those of the Russians." This is because virtually all results achieved at the station are published in scientific and popular literature.

The AEC says more than 1½ million American homes now are powered by atom-produced electricity — and forecasts that at least seven million will be so powered by 1980.

The only secret, closed-off area of the "reactor farm" here is one housing reactors developed or still under development by the Navy in cooperation with the AEC.

Up until around 1958, reporters sometimes were allowed in, but the unofficial word is that Vice Adm. Hyman Rickover, who heads the program for the Navy, put the curtain down after making a trip to the Soviet Union — and reportedly finding the Russians were not as far advanced in the maritime nuclear propulsion field as had previously been thought.

But, still in view from beyond the guarded fence is the reactor structure housing the still-operating prototype of the pioneer nuclear submarine Nautilus.

Close by the Nautilus prototype in the Navy's sagebrush port is the "large ship reactor" which paved the way for the carrier Enterprise and other surface craft.

And, still under construction, is a new type of naval propulsion reactor. The latter is designed to be quieter, simpler and even safer to operate than present models. The test version will even be designed to simulate the pitching motions a reactor would experience at sea.

End Hearings On Proposed Farm Bill

WASHINGTON -- The Senate Agriculture Committee last week completed 10 days of hearings with several hundred witnesses on the administration's 1965 proposals for farm legislation.

Hilton Bracey of Portageville, executive vice-president of the Missouri Cotton Producers Assn., accompanied by George Shelby, president of that association, and Dick Phillips, vice-president of the Missouri State Association of Farmer Elected Committeemen, presented the MCPA recommendations.

Sen. Stuart Symington, in a letter to his constituents said that with an expected $900 million to $1 billion cost to the government this crop year and a growing surplus, there is unanimity among both the Senate and House Agriculture Committee members on the need for some changes in the cotton program.

Most producer witnesses and members of the Committees familiar with the cotton situation over the years seem to be in agreement that the 16 million acre minimum national acreage allotment should be continued. Reduction of the government - stored surplus, expected to be just under 14 million bales on August 31, would come through programs for voluntary acreage diversion and increased exports.

In their five-point program, Missouri Cotton Producers recommend authority and direction for the Secretary of Agriculture to operate an intensified export program both through competitive bid sales on the world market and barter.

Farmers throughout the State are also interested in legislative proposals on feed grains. Because of their importance in our livestock industry which provides nearly two thirds of our farm income, these corn and sorghum crops have the greatest impact on Missouri's total farm receipts.

The present feed grain program, adopted in 1961, has brought about a reduction in CCC stocks of feed grain from 85 million tons in 1961 to 56 million tons, lowering the costs of storage, interest and other carrying charges by $585 million under what they would have been under the old program.

Add Books To System

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- The coordinator of the SEMO federated library service system, Martha Ann Maxwell, announced today that more than 500 books have been added to the collections of Riverside regional library, Mississippi county library, and Cape Girardeau Public library.

The system is a cooperative effort to improve library service. Some of the areas of cooperation include an interlibrary loan service; improvement of the reference collections and services; reciprocal borrowing privileges, in-service training, and improvement of book collections.

Cotton Chopping Ends In Southeast Missouri

Movement of crews out of state is expected to gain momentum now that the first cotton chopping has been completed in Southeast Missouri, the Missouri State Employment Service said today.

The Sikeston office reports that demand for cotton chopping labor continues to be heavy, but no critical shortages have developed. Wages range from 70 cents to 90 cents per hour for seasonal work and orders for tractor drivers range from 80 cents to $1.25 an hour with most demand for top hands.

The farm information station and rest camp at Sikeston served 219 migrants from Texas the week ending June 28. The next work area for 97 is Michigan, 85 were en route to Ohio and 37 were bound for Wisconsin.

In Cape Girardeau the Labor supply and demand are fairly well in balance for all local seasonal farm activities, although qualified year - round farm hands remain in short supply. The office reports that additional workers are now being recruited for cannery work in Wisconsin.

The harvest of potatoes and the early harvest of peaches is now in progress in Kennett, with cotton chopping 70 per cent completed.

Demand for farm labor has slowed down in the Caruthersville area and workers have begun to move into the Great Lakes states for fruit harvest. Weather during the last week was favorable for cotton chopping. No crews are available for referral to other areas, the report said.

'People Went Wild' on 4th, Patrol Says

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Public attitude which seemed to "border on hysteria" led to what Missouri Highway Patrol Superintendent Hugh H. Waggoner today termed the "most distressing weekend for the patrol in many years."

"The people just went wild," he said.

In addition to traffic accidents which claimed 31 lives during the holiday period, the patrol was flooded with reports of crime, riots and other violence.

The death toll on the highways for the July 4 weekend probably will climb higher, he said. Several person injured in traffic mishaps are expected to die.

At last count, Waggoner said, Missouri probably ranked third in the nation for traffic fatalities for the costly weekend.

Two person died Friday, 15- Saturday, six Sunday and eight Monday.

About half the fatalities were in one-car accidents.

Fights and riots were commonplace, he said, and there were many reports of persons throwing firecrackers into passing cars.

The traffic toll was attributable to "a lot of drinking and a lot of speed," he said. But he said he was at a loss to account for the widespread violence.

2-Term Proposal On Top

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The governorship succession proposal will be the top one of three constitutional amendment suggestions up for voter consideration in a special election Aug. 17.

Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick said today the position of each amendment proposal was based on the time of its passage by the legislature.

Here's how they will appear on the ballot:

No. 1--"Authorize a person to be elected governor not more than twice or not more than once if he served more than two years of a term to which another person was elected.

No. 2--"To authorize cities, in addition to the existing power to lease, to dispose of plants for manufacturing and industrial development purposes constructed from proceeds of revenue bonds." Now the cities having such plants have no power to sell or otherwise dispose of them.

No. 3--"168 members of the House of Representatives to be elected from districts. Apportionment shall follow each decennial census with certain exceptions. House to be reapportioned by law. The Senate shall consist of 34 members elected from districts of contiguous territory fixed by Senatorial Apportionment Commission. The House of Representatives cannot employ more than 225 nor the Senate more than 100 employes."

Mistake In Birth Rate

What appeared to be a decrease in the birth rate in Scott County in 1963 was a mistake according to Dr. Thelma Buckthorpe, Scott County Health officer in her annual report for 1964.

She reports that "during that year, a birth information on illegitimate children was withheld. Since we had records on some of those born out of wedlock, we were not aware of the change of policy. As a result, we had fewer births reported and for the very first time, non-white and white birth rates appeared almost the same."

In 1964 the County health office was not sent copies of illegitimate births, but after the state files were closed in March of 1965 for 1964 statistics, impersonal information was made available. This included 32 illegitimate white and 50 illegitimate non-white births. This changed the total.

Birth rates are based on the estimated population in Scott county, which is 32,100 persons. Birth and death rates are estimated per 1,000 population. Still births, infant and maternal mortality rates are estimated per 1,000 live births.

The birth rate for non-white was 40.6 as compared to 23.4 for the white.

Paratroopers Score Heavily In Clashes

SAIGON, Viet Nam AP -- U.S. Paratroopers have scored heavily in a series of clashes with the Viet Cong 25 miles northeast of Saigon in the D-zone jungle, American authorities reported today. They said 25 of the guerrillas were known dead and it was estimated Red casualties Wednesday totaled more than 100.

On the other side, the Viet Cong ambushed a Vietnamese government battalion 37 miles northwest of Saigon today and a U. S. spokesman said most of the battalion apparently was wiped out.

Casualties in the ambush were not immediately known, but a survivor said they were heavy. The battalion was reported under strength and probably numbered about 300 men.

Four U. S. advisers were with the battalion, the spokesman said. Their fate was not known.

The ambush was sprung as the battalion was rushing to relieve a besieged outpost at Xom Kua in Binh Duong Province. The relief battalion was sent from the nearby district capital of Tri Tam. The Communists apparently were lying in wait for the reinforcements.

As the Viet Cong sprang the trap, Communist 81mm mortars began a barrage of Tri Tam.

U. S. authorities reported that paratroopers of the American 173rd Airborne Brigade fought a series of clashes with the Viet Cong Wednesday in the big combined force operation in "D" zone and enemy casualties were estimated at more than 100.

The action in the Communist-controlled jungle 25 miles northeast of Saigon was the biggest engagement the paratroopers have fought since their arrival in Viet Nam in May.

Plan More Office Space

BLOOMFIELD — The Stoddard county court is planning the construction of an additional room on the county Trust Building, north of the courthouse in Bloomfield.

The construction of the addition will be part of a renovation program for both the Trust building and the courthouse providing more facilities for county offices.

Tentative plans call for the county agent's office to be located at the rear of the Trust building in the new addition and in the offices formerly occupied by the county superintendent of schools.

The county magistrate and probate judge — Judge Wallace Morgan — would then be provided with the remainder of the Trust building, moving the probate office from the courthouse and bringing his offices together in one building.

This would provide more space in the courthouse for the county recorder of deeds and would also provide additional space for the county court.

The County Court is now asking for bids on the one-room addition as the first step in the project.

Benched By Disease

WASHINGTON AP -- George E. Reedy, President Johnson's press secretary, announced today he is suffering from an painful foot disease and is bowing out of his White House post--at least for some months.

Reedy reported that doctors tell him he may face a series of operations that could sideline him for at least six months.

He said the duties of press secretary will be performed in his absence by Bill D. Moyers, one of Johnson's top special assistants.

Confusion In U.S. Gold Problem

NEW YORK (AP) — New confusion, compounded by seemingly contradictory government pronouncements, has grown up around the U.S. balance of payments and gold problems.

The confusion may have hit a high point a few days ago when:

—Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler indicated the voluntary program to trim the U.S. balance of payments deficit is working so well he is worried about overoptimism.

—The Federal Reserve announced the greatest weekly outflow of gold in six years, $359 million.

The statements were the latest zig-zags in the government's on-again, off-again enthusiasm about its efforts to preserve the United States' dwindling gold stock.

Here are some basic questions and answers on the current U.S. gold and balance of payments situations:

Q: What is the status of the U.S. gold stock now?

A: The U.S. monetary gold stock now is worth $13,934,000,000. It has declined $1,454,000,000 since Jan. 1. The outflow in six months of 1965 is exceeded only by the total yearly losses in 1958 and 1960. The present supply of gold is now back to the level it was in 1938 before the nation built up its vast gold pile during World War II.

Q: Why has the gold stock declined?

A: Because the United States has had a balance of payments deficit every year since 1949 (except 1957). A deficit results when the nation spends more overseas than foreign nations spend in the United States. Since we have a deficit, it figures that some other nations will have a surplus. Some foreign governments convert their surplus dollars into gold. The United States guarantees it will buy or sell gold at the fixed price of $35 a troy ounce.

Q: What is the so-called voluntary program and how does it fit into the picture?

A: The program was established by the government in February via "guidelines" to banks and manufacturers. One of the basic features of the program calls on organizations to limit their overseas investments to 105 per cent of their 1964 investment. Foreign investment was one of the biggest single items in the 1964 balance of payments deficit. That deficit provided the vast pool of dollars which some foreign governments are converting into gold this year.

Q: What is the U.S. balance of payments position now?

A: Despite optimism about the voluntary program, the United States deficit in the first three months of the year was $733 million. The program did not really begin to tell until the second three months. Though statistics presently are not available for the second quarter of 1965, it is believed the balance is showing a surplus. Some economists project the net deficit for 1965 at about $1 billion, or one-third the total deficit for 1964.

Ready For Red Thrust

WASHINGTON (AP) — The landing of 8,000 more Marines in South Viet Nam was a move to "play it safe" and strengthen U.S. forces against a possible major thrust by beefed up Communist troops, military sources said today.

The action was not prompted by any specific emergency situation, the sources said.

Intensive Communist activity in the central highlands of Viet Nam, coupled with indications that the equivalent of a North Vietnamese army division may be spread through the area, has caused concern.

Despite Protests 'Diana' Stands Smiling In Mall

PHOENIX, Ariz. AP -- Untouched by the controversy surrounding her, "Diana of the Woods" stands smiling in the mall of the new multimillion-dollar Maricopa County government complex.

Dedicated Wednesday the stone sculpture gave pause to countless admirers, despite the charges that as the huntress of Greek mythology, she was "a cruel goddess" and a killer.

Mrs. Gilbert Hall donated the Italian-made sculpture placed in the complex's fountain and dedicated it to the Arizona Humane Society.

The animal crusaders of Arizona opposed the gesture from the start.

"Humane societies have always opposed cruelty, including blood sports," said Betty B. Eilers, the group's executive secretary.

"Not even the human side of Diana is pleasant," she said. "When the son of a king surprised her bathing, she turned him into a stag and wasn't satisfied or revenged until his own hounds ran him down and tore him to bits," Mrs. Eilers said.

Undaunted, Mrs. Hall didn't budge an inch.

"Good art not only gives pleasure," Mrs. Hall said, "but it also stimulates an appreciation for the beautiful."

Mrs. Hall said that they claimed Diana was a killer. Why, in Italy, Diana is known as a protectress and there is a festival each year in her name."

Chance To Be Heard

BENTON — Been complaining about high taxes?

Then run, don't walk, to Benton next week when the county board of equalization meets and tell the board your tax assessment is too high — and why.

The only opportunity Scott Countians have to lower assessments for the coming year begins Monday at the court house for three days. The board in the only body which can lower assessments. It cannot be done by the county assessor.

There is a catch — assessments can also be raised by the board. Law requires the board to equalize assessments at 30 per cent of actual value, so bringing a case to the attention of the board could raise, rather than lower, any tax.

Assessor Alfred Halter has set up a three-day schedule to hear from citizens with specified times and dates for residents of different communities.

Monday, all farm land owners will be heard from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Tuesday morning, from 9 a.m. until noon, Illmo and Scott City residents will be given the floor.

Tuesday afternoon's session will be held for Vanduser, Blodgett, Benton, Rockview, Morley, Diehlstadt, Commerce, Kelso, Oran and Miner townspeople.

Wednesday morning, the board will hear from residents of Chaffee, starting at 9 a.m. and running until noon.

Wednesday afternoon, 1 p.m.-4 p.m., the hearing will be for Sikeston property owners.

Taxpayers will be notified of a board decision to raise their assessment, according to the county assessor, and a board of appeals meeting in August will hear any complaints.

Members of the board are Alfred Halter, county assessor, Phil Waldman, county clerk, and Judges Melvin Glueck, J. E. Childress, and H.D.Rogers.

Six Released By Gunmen

WOODLAND, Calif. AP -- Six kidnap victims were released unharmed Wednesday night by two gunmen charged with killing an Oregon deputy sheriff and fleeing to California with the hostages.

Police said a massive manhunt was under way in Sacramento, where the gunmen released the three adults and three children -- then fled on foot.

Those of those released were Mrs. David Corbin, 33, and her son by a previous marriage, Clinton Clark, 12.

They vanished Tuesday shortly after Deputy Sheriff Carlton E. Smith, 33, was gunned down by a shotgun blast and six pistol bullets.

The other four hostages were Mr. and Mrs. Uldis Riekstins of Seattle, their son and a friend of their son.

An all-points bulletin has been broadcast throughout the West for Wilbur Marion Grey, 30, a native of Brunswick, Ga., and Karl Cleses Bowles, 24, a native of Amarillo, Texas.

They completed terms at the Oregon prison only last week.

Alarmed By Chinese Blasts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington said today that Communist China's two atomic explosions were a dangerous development that "have gone a long way toward changing the power structure of the world."

Many experts believe Red China will have ballistic missiles with nuclear warheads by 1970, the Missouri Democrat said in a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate.

"They also believe that, because of the sophistication of these original explosions, the Red Chinese are only a few years away from production of hydrogen bombs," Symington added.

10 Stitches Close Head Cut

Bobby King, who collided with a truck on his bicycle, is five years old and not 15 as reported yesterday.

He was treated and dismissed at the Missouri Delta Community hospital for cuts and bruises. His mother said that 10 stitches were taken to close a cut on his head and that he will go back to the doctor tomorrow for X-rays.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester King, 1511 East Gladys.

Senate Speeds Health Care Bill Action

WASHINGTON AP -- Senate Democratic leaders pushed for final action today on the Social Security-health care bill after disposing of 14 amendments Wednesday in a burst of speed.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the bill's floor manager, told newsmen "I see no reason why we cannot finish this bill tonight unless its opponents want to string it out, and there is no good reason for them to do so."

However, two Republican senators announced they would offer a number of amendments to the bill, which is one of President Johnson's most important legislative proposals.

The basic hospitalization plan in the bill would be available to the 19 million Americans 65 or older as a matter of right.

A voluntary supplemental plan, covering chiefly doctors fees, would be open to anyone over 65 who wishes to enroll and pay a $3 a month premium. The estimated $6.8 billion yearly cost of the program would be financed mainly through increased Social Security taxes.

Faces Charge In Shooting

BLOOMFIELD — John Ervin Cain, former Bernie resident who has been working in California has been lodged in the Stoddard County jail at Bloomfield following a shooting fracas in Bernie.

Sheriff Ralph Temples said that Cain had been drinking at the time and following an argument produced a .38 caliber pistol and fired the gun one time.

The incident took place in the Town Tavern at Bernie and outside of Murphys Place, on the main street of Bernie.

He has been charged with felonious assault against Henry Murphy and Jerry Fitzpatrick.

Sheriff Temples said that Cain will be tried in Circuit Court.

Signs of Strain in Russia

Signs of strain between reformers and conservative Communists in the Soviet Union suggest that Kremlin officialdom may be in for a new round of musical chairs.

Some of the signs:

--The Communist leadership apparently has decided to put off the party congress. Theoretically the congress is the ruling body for nearly 12 million party members and meets every four years. The last congress was October 1961.

--Four high-ranking government and Communist party leaders have been missing for five or six weeks from important official gatherings. All rose to prominence under Nikita S. Khrushchev.

--The absence of these persons may be connected with the downfall earlier this year of two other Khrushchev proteges. It could mean that powerful forces have undertaken a determined campaign to rid the party leadership of "the Ukrainians" and economic reformers who came up under Khrushchev's wing.

Almost from the day of Khrushchev's fall last October, there have been hints of a clash between the two who divided his powers: Party Chief Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. The clash seems to stem from differences on economic reforms, the effect of such reforms on party leadership and the extent of party authority, which, in conservative opinion, should dominate every aspect of Soviet life even if it interferes with production.

Stunt Flier Dies in Crash

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Stunt flier Paul Mantz, 61, was killed today while flying a specially built plane for a movie scene on location near Yuma, Ariz.; Twentieth Century-Fox studios reported.

The crash occurred in Buttercup Valley, Calif., 17 miles west of Yuma.

The movie making was for the picture "The Flight of the Phoenix" which stars Jimmy Stewart and features Ernest Borgnine, Peter Finch and others.

Industrialist Dies

NEW YORK AP -- Earle W. Webb, 82, former president and board chairman of Ethyl Corp., died Wednesday in Baden Baden, Germany.

Couple Hurt in Crash

DEXTER — Mr. and Mrs. Edward Alsup, residents of Route 3, Dexter, were injured in an automobile accident near Clinton, Ky., Saturday.

They were taken to the Baptist Hospital in Memphis where Mrs. Alsup is listed in critical condition with head and facial injuries. Mr. Alsup was treated for cuts and bruises and dismissed.

According to reports, an accident had occurred and when Alsup applied his brakes to stop, the brakes failed to hold and the car crashed into the other vehicles stopped at the accident scene. It had been raining and the roads were slick.

They were enroute to Lawrenceburg, Tenn., to spend the holidays with relatives.

Womenly Beauty This Fall Will Be Beastly

NEW YORK AP -- Womanly beauty this fall may be pretty and beastly.

That was one of the secrets shared Wednesday with fashion writers here for a four-day program of fall collection previews called the American Designer Series.

Earlier, designer Jacques Tiffeau had set a primitive mood with jungle music and masked mannequins who slinked with catlike grace in leather and velvet smocks.

Then came the true confessions by Warner's about what really goes on in the underworld of fashion.

Feline misses undulated onto the red carpet in boyd cinchers, bikini-like underpinnings and Tarzan - type, one-shoulder togas -- all the cat's meow in tiger stripes.

Their sinuous sisters wore cobra skins, fake patterns of course, on which they same type of intimate apparel.

More women, shy and demure, and at first fully clothed in conservative black, stripped to reveal their true colors -- wicked red lingerie.

Other personal items introduced at the show included:

-- Side-button coat dresses with silk lining to match petticoats and so forth.

-- Harlow nighties, bias - cut, ultra short and ruffled.

--Sweater-bras, in nude tone, rounded and slightly padded.

-- The short - short slip and the petti-pant for the short-short dresses made popular by Frenchman Andre Courreges.

--The smooth-to-the-hip slip with tiers of ruffles for under the au-go-go dresses.

-- Designer Geoffrey Beene followed up by sending his models onto the runway in the supple, body-clinging kind of garments that require the afore-mentioned kind of trimmings.

-- Brief jackets topped knife-pleated skirts, long tunic jackets slipped over reed-slim skirts. Throughout the collection were various adaptations of the smocks.

MRS. EMMA BASINGER, 101, rests in a neighbor's rocking chair after walking from Morehouse to make her home here.

Woman, 101, Walks To City From Morehouse

By Dan Whittle

She was not moving as fast as an eastbound freight, but the cross ties on the railroad zipped past and after eight hours, Mrs. Emma Basinger reached the city limits, walking seven miles from Morehouse.

Mrs. Basinger is 101 years old.

She walked here to take up residents after living in Morehouse. She rents a house owned by Johnny Malone at 235 Northwest St.

Asked how she liked living in Sikeston, she replied:

"I make it all right until nosey people like yourself come around and start meddling in my business. I don't meddle in anyone's business and they shouldn't meddle in mine. But, I don't intend to stay here very long anyway."

I told her that I wanted to bring the mayor down to officially welcome her.

"Don't you bring any politician down here to see me. I'll insult him and you had just better not get me mad if you know what's good for you," she warned.

I told her that she had one of the city officials living just around the corner from her house, Chief of Police Arthur Bruce.

She commented:

"I really don't like lawmen. They ain't never been no friend of mine and they won't ever be."

She said that she thought the late Franklin D. Roosevelt was the best president in her lifetime.

She commented: "He had sense, but this President Johnson hasn't got as much sense as a half smart hound."

She was born May 10, 1864 in Springfield. She lived on a farm there until her husband died 24 years ago from a heart attack.

They had 10 children. All are dead. She knows of no living relative.

When asked if she was shopping around for another husband, she said:

"No, my family was always a one time, one man family. My husband was the sweetest man that ever walked on this earth. Did you know that he spent his entire life working on the railroad. In fact, that's what killed him."

She blasted modern women: "It's too bad how the womenfolk of today run around showing what the Lord meant to be hidden. And these blasted hairdos are awful. The Lord meant for a woman to honor their hair. I have never cut my hair."

Her mother, who died before World War I, lived to be 103.

Mrs. Basinger says she wants to live forever.

"Things can't get much worse than they are now so I guess I will be able to struggle through it for a long time yet," she said.

She kept holding her arm and was asked what was wrong.

"I think I had a light stroke," she explained. When asked what the doctor said about it, she replied:

"I ain't never been to no doctor and I'm not fixing to start now just for your information."

Traffic Cases On Docket

NEW MADRID — Traffic violations dominated the docket of county magistrate court this week following the July 4 weekend. One person was brought before the magistrate on a felony charge.

Raymond Price waived his preliminary hearing before Judge Erin Wright on a charge of grand larceny. He was ordered held for circuit court with bond set at $1,000.

Two persons were fined on intoxication charges and one was fined and sentenced this week on the charge. Vernon Hamilton and Louis Vasque paid $25 each for public drunkenness. Henry G. Redman paid $45, for a three-count traffic violation. He was charged with improper parking, improper registration of a motor vehicle, and driving as an unlicensed operator.

Five Emergencies

Five persons were treated in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community hospital yesterday: Bobby King, hit by truck; Harvey Bailey, Blodgett, pinned under plow; James Bolton, Evansville, Ind., burned right arm and chest; David L. Hale, sprained wrist; Hubert Warren, cut thumb on left hand.

Fails To Stop, Killed

Miss Clara Cassidy, 76, Caruthersville, made a fatal error yesterday. She failed to stop her car at a stop sign, the highway patrol charged.

The vehicle, a 1964 Plymouth, was struck by another automobile five miles south of Hayti on highway 61 at 8:50 a.m. She died soon after arrival at a Hayti hospital.

Two passengers of the other car, a 1964 Oldsmobile driven by Anthony Johnson, 43, Hazelwood, were injured. They were Joyce Johnson, 10, bruised and Catie Johnson, 45, broken right arm, cut and bruised, both taken to a Hayti hospital.

Three others were injured in an accident on highway 67 yesterday at 2:25 p.m., four miles south of Greenville when a 1960 Valiant driven by Ora Goddard, 72, Doniphan, pulled out from county highway A into the path of a 1961 Ford driven by Charles McMahan, 26, Drasco, Ark.

Taken to the Doctor's Hospital, Poplar Bluff, were Olive Goddard, 22, in the Goddard car, who received head cuts and bruises and knee bruises; Helen McMahan, 28, back and leg injury and bruises; and Katherine McMahan, 5, cuts and bruises; passengers in the Ford.

Hanna Ward, Portageville, was struck by a car driven by Hallie Oliver, North Lake, Ill., at a railroad crossing three miles north of New Madrid yesterday at 10:15 a.m. The Ward car stopped at the crossing on highway 61, and her car was struck in the rear by the Oliver car. Neither driver was injured.

Merit Plan Favored

WASHINGTON AP -- An effort by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to emphasize merit rather than seniority in military promotions got a cautious but generally favorable reception today among key legislators.

"All of us subscribe to the general idea," said Rep. Porter Hardy Jr., D-Va., a high ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee. "You have to have promotion or you stifle talent in the lower ranks. Maybe he has got some good ideas. We need to know more about it."

Highway 114 Open at Dexter

DEXTER — Highway 114, which crosses the Cotton Belt Railroad, is being re-opened to traffic this week, according to A. C. Cato, resident engineer for the State Highway Department.

The portion of the road was closed and re-built as a part of the highway 25 construction program, and the new section is being opened this week, eliminating the detour which went through east Dexter.

The new section of highway 114 crosses the old "overpass bridge" then goes due west and joins the new highway 25, eliminating the wide-sweeping curve off the bridge.

Missouri Power Rates Higher Than U.S. Average

Special to Standard

WASHINGTON -- The electric power bill paid by the Missouri family is higher than the average for the nation even though there are many dams where power is generated in Missouri and in adjoining states.

Distribution systems of the state also are connected with the Southwestern Power Administration.

Only eight states have higher family electric bills than Missouri, for those who consume less than 250 kilowatt hours. Only 10 have higher rates for consumption over this, according to a report by the Federal Power Commission with the title.

The power bill for the family is much cheaper than Missouri in four areas--in the Tennessee Valley Authority states, the extreme northwest, Kansas and Nebraska, and Wisconsin. On the other hand the highest rates are in Iowa, North and South Dakota, and the New England states.

The average electric bill in Missouri per family is $7.57 for 250 kwh., $10.78 for 500 kwh., $15.02 for 750 kwh., and $19.59 for 1,000 kwh. This is compared with Tennessee which has these rates for a family, $4.89 for 250 kwh., $6.93 for 500 kwh., $8.18 for 750 kwh., and $9.48, or less than half of that for Missouri, for 1,000 kwh.

Some cities in the Southeast section of the State have rates below the average for the state, and some have higher than the average. A run down of rates fo these cities show this:

Kennett, $7.75 for 250 kwh., $10.73 for 500 kwh., $15.48 for 750 kwh., and $21.41 for 1,000 kwh., by Ark-Mo Power Company. $7.17 for 250 kwh., $10.08 for 500 kwh., $13.86 for 750 kwh., and $18.23 for 1,000 kwh by City public works.

Caruthersville, $7.75 for 250 kwh., $10.75 for 500 kwh., $15.48 for 750 kwh., and $21.41 for 1,000 kwh., by Ark-Mo power company.

Hayti, the same as Caruthersville.

New Madrid, $9.20 for 250 kwh., $15.45 for 500 kwh., $21.75 for 750 kwh. and $27.95 for 1,000 kwh., by City Light and Power Company.

Poplar Bluff, $8.06 for 250 kwh., $13.66 for 750 kwh., $18.62 for 750 kwh., and $22.51 for 1,000 kwh, by Missouri Utilities. and $6.66 for 250 kwh., $8.91 for 500 kwh., $12.06 for 750 kwh. and $15.43 for 1,000 kwh, by City public utilities.

Cape Girardeau, $8.27 for 250 kwh., $14.03 for 500 kwh., $19.14 for 750 kwh., and $23.11 for 1,000 kwh., by Missouri utilities.

2-Term Proposal On Top

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The governorship succession proposal will be the top one of three constitutional amendment suggestions up for voter consideration in a special election Aug. 17.

Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick said today the position of each amendment proposal was based on the time of its passage by the legislature.

Here's how they will appear on the ballot:

No. 1--"Authorize a person to be elected governor not more than twice or not more than once if he served more than two years of a term to which another person was elected.

No. 2--"To authorize cities, in addition to the existing power to lease, to dispose of plants for manufacturing and industrial development purposes constructed from proceeds of revenue bonds." Now the cities having such plants have no power to sell or otherwise dispose of them.

No. 3--"168 members of the House of Representatives to be elected from districts. Apportionment shall follow each decennial census with certain exceptions. House to be reapportioned by law. The Senate shall consist of 34 members elected from districts of contiguous territory fixed by Senatorial Apportionment Commission. The House of Representatives cannot employ more than 225 nor the Senate more than 100 employes."

Mistake In Birth Rate

What appeared to be a decrease in the birth rate in Scott County in 1963 was a mistake according to Dr. Thelma Buckthorpe, Scott County Health officer in her annual report for 1964.

She reports that "during that year, a birth information on illegitimate children was withheld. Since we had records on some of those born out of wedlock, we were not aware of the change of policy. As a result, we had fewer births reported and for the very first time, non-white and white birth rates appeared almost the same."

In 1964 the County health office was not sent copies of illegitimate births, but after the state files were closed in March of 1965 for 1964 statistics, impersonal information was made available. This included 32 illegitimate white and 50 illegitimate non-white births. This changed the total.

Birth rates are based on the estimated population in Scott county, which is 32,100 persons. Birth and death rates are estimated per 1,000 population. Still births, infant and maternal mortality rates are estimated per 1,000 live births.

The birth rate for non-white was 40.6 as compared to 23.4 for the white.

Paratroopers Score Heavily In Clashes

SAIGON, Viet Nam AP -- U.S. Paratroopers have scored heavily in a series of clashes with the Viet Cong 25 miles northeast of Saigon in the D-zone jungle, American authorities reported today. They said 25 of the guerrillas were known dead and it was estimated Red casualties Wednesday totaled more than 100.

On the other side, the Viet Cong ambushed a Vietnamese government battalion 37 miles northwest of Saigon today and a U. S. spokesman said most of the battalion apparently was wiped out.

Casualties in the ambush were not immediately known, but a survivor said they were heavy. The battalion was reported under strength and probably numbered about 300 men.

Four U. S. advisers were with the battalion, the spokesman said. Their fate was not known.

The ambush was sprung as the battalion was rushing to relieve a besieged outpost at Xom Kua in Binh Duong Province. The relief battalion was sent from the nearby district capital of Tri Tam. The Communists apparently were lying in wait for the reinforcements.

As the Viet Cong sprang the trap, Communist 81mm mortars began a barrage of Tri Tam.

U. S. authorities reported that paratroopers of the American 173rd Airborne Brigade fought a series of clashes with the Viet Cong Wednesday in the big combined force operation in "D" zone and enemy casualties were estimated at more than 100.

The action in the Communist-controlled jungle 25 miles northeast of Saigon was the biggest engagement the paratroopers have fought since their arrival in Viet Nam in May.

Plan More Office Space

BLOOMFIELD — The Stoddard county court is planning the construction of an additional room on the county Trust Building, north of the courthouse in Bloomfield.

The construction of the addition will be part of a renovation program for both the Trust building and the courthouse providing more facilities for county offices.

Tentative plans call for the county agent's office to be located at the rear of the Trust building in the new addition and in the offices formerly occupied by the county superintendent of schools.

The county magistrate and probate judge — Judge Wallace Morgan — would then be provided with the remainder of the Trust building, moving the probate office from the courthouse and bringing his offices together in one building.

This would provide more space in the courthouse for the county recorder of deeds and would also provide additional space for the county court.

The County Court is now asking for bids on the one-room addition as the first step in the project.

Benched By Disease

WASHINGTON AP -- George E. Reedy, President Johnson's press secretary, announced today he is suffering from an painful foot disease and is bowing out of his White House post--at least for some months.

Reedy reported that doctors tell him he may face a series of operations that could sideline him for at least six months.

He said the duties of press secretary will be performed in his absence by Bill D. Moyers, one of Johnson's top special assistants.

Confusion In U.S. Gold Problem

NEW YORK (AP) — New confusion, compounded by seemingly contradictory government pronouncements, has grown up around the U.S. balance of payments and gold problems.

The confusion may have hit a high point a few days ago when:

—Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler indicated the voluntary program to trim the U.S. balance of payments deficit is working so well he is worried about overoptimism.

—The Federal Reserve announced the greatest weekly outflow of gold in six years, $359 million.

The statements were the latest zig-zags in the government's on-again, off-again enthusiasm about its efforts to preserve the United States' dwindling gold stock.

Here are some basic questions and answers on the current U.S. gold and balance of payments situations:

Q: What is the status of the U.S. gold stock now?

A: The U.S. monetary gold stock now is worth $13,934,000,000. It has declined $1,454,000,000 since Jan. 1. The outflow in six months of 1965 is exceeded only by the total yearly losses in 1958 and 1960. The present supply of gold is now back to the level it was in 1938 before the nation built up its vast gold pile during World War II.

Q: Why has the gold stock declined?

A: Because the United States has had a balance of payments deficit every year since 1949 (except 1957). A deficit results when the nation spends more overseas than foreign nations spend in the United States. Since we have a deficit, it figures that some other nations will have a surplus. Some foreign governments convert their surplus dollars into gold. The United States guarantees it will buy or sell gold at the fixed price of $35 a troy ounce.

Q: What is the so-called voluntary program and how does it fit into the picture?

A: The program was established by the government in February via "guidelines" to banks and manufacturers. One of the basic features of the program calls on organizations to limit their overseas investments to 105 per cent of their 1964 investment. Foreign investment was one of the biggest single items in the 1964 balance of payments deficit. That deficit provided the vast pool of dollars which some foreign governments are converting into gold this year.

Q: What is the U.S. balance of payments position now?

A: Despite optimism about the voluntary program, the United States deficit in the first three months of the year was $733 million. The program did not really begin to tell until the second three months. Though statistics presently are not available for the second quarter of 1965, it is believed the balance is showing a surplus. Some economists project the net deficit for 1965 at about $1 billion, or one-third the total deficit for 1964.

Ready For Red Thrust

WASHINGTON (AP) — The landing of 8,000 more Marines in South Viet Nam was a move to "play it safe" and strengthen U.S. forces against a possible major thrust by beefed up Communist troops, military sources said today.

The action was not prompted by any specific emergency situation, the sources said.

Intensive Communist activity in the central highlands of Viet Nam, coupled with indications that the equivalent of a North Vietnamese army division may be spread through the area, has caused concern.

Chance To Be Heard

BENTON — Been complaining about high taxes?

Then run, don't walk, to Benton next week when the county board of equalization meets and tell the board your tax assessment is too high — and why.

The only opportunity Scott Countians have to lower assessments for the coming year begins Monday at the court house for three days. The board in the only body which can lower assessments. It cannot be done by the county assessor.

There is a catch — assessments can also be raised by the board. Law requires the board to equalize assessments at 30 per cent of actual value, so bringing a case to the attention of the board could raise, rather than lower, any tax.

Assessor Alfred Halter has set up a three-day schedule to hear from citizens with specified times and dates for residents of different communities.

Monday, all farm land owners will be heard from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Tuesday morning, from 9 a.m. until noon, Illmo and Scott City residents will be given the floor.

Tuesday afternoon's session will be held for Vanduser, Blodgett, Benton, Rockview, Morley, Diehlstadt, Commerce, Kelso, Oran and Miner townspeople.

Wednesday morning, the board will hear from residents of Chaffee, starting at 9 a.m. and running until noon.

Wednesday afternoon, 1 p.m.-4 p.m., the hearing will be for Sikeston property owners.

Taxpayers will be notified of a board decision to raise their assessment, according to the county assessor, and a board of appeals meeting in August will hear any complaints.

Members of the board are Alfred Halter, county assessor, Phil Waldman, county clerk, and Judges Melvin Glueck, J. E. Childress, and H.D. Rogers.

Six Released By Gunmen

WOODLAND, Calif. AP -- Six kidnap victims were released unharmed Wednesday night by two gunmen charged with killing an Oregon deputy sheriff and fleeing to California with the hostages.

Police said a massive manhunt was under way in Sacramento, where the gunmen released the three adults and three children -- then fled on foot.

Those of those released were Mrs. David Corbin, 33, and her son by a previous marriage, Clinton Clark, 12.

They vanished Tuesday shortly after Deputy Sheriff Carlton E. Smith, 33, was gunned down by a shotgun blast and six pistol bullets.

The other four hostages were Mr. and Mrs. Uldis Riekstins of Seattle, their son and a friend of their son.

An all-points bulletin has been broadcast throughout the West for Wilbur Marion Grey, 30, a native of Brunswick, Ga., and Karl Cleses Bowles, 24, a native of Amarillo, Texas. They completed terms at the Oregon prison only last week.

Alarmed By Chinese Blasts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington said today that Communist China's two atomic explosions were a dangerous development that "have gone a long way toward changing the power structure of the world."

Many experts believe Red China will have ballistic missiles with nuclear warheads by 1970, the Missouri Democrat said in a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate.

"They also believe that, because of the sophistication of these original explosions, the Red Chinese are only a few years away from production of hydrogen bombs," Symington added.

10 Stitches Close Head Cut

Bobby King, who collided with a truck on his bicycle, is five years old and not 15 as reported yesterday.

He was treated and dismissed at the Missouri Delta Community hospital for cuts and bruises. His mother said that 10 stitches were taken to close a cut on his head and that he will go back to the doctor tomorrow for X-rays.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester King, 1511 East Gladys.

Senate Speeds Health Care Bill Action

WASHINGTON AP -- Senate Democratic leaders pushed for final action today on the Social Security-health care bill after disposing of 14 amendments Wednesday in a burst of speed.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the bill's floor manager, told newsmen "I see no reason why we cannot finish this bill tonight unless its opponents want to string it out, and there is no good reason for them to do so."

However, two Republican senators announced they would offer a number of amendments to the bill, which is one of President Johnson's most important legislative proposals.

The basic hospitalization plan in the bill would be available to the 19 million Americans 65 or older as a matter of right.

A voluntary supplemental plan, covering chiefly doctors fees, would be open to anyone over 65 who wishes to enroll and pay a $3 a month premium. The estimated $6.8 billion yearly cost of the program would be financed mainly through increased Social Security taxes.

Faces Charge In Shooting

BLOOMFIELD — John Ervin Cain, former Bernie resident who has been working in California has been lodged in the Stoddard County jail at Bloomfield following a shooting fracas in Bernie.

Sheriff Ralph Temples said that Cain had been drinking at the time and following an argument produced a .38 caliber pistol and fired the gun one time.

The incident took place in the Town Tavern at Bernie and outside of Murphys Place, on the main street of Bernie.

He has been charged with felonious assault against Henry Murphy and Jerry Fitzpatrick.

Sheriff Temples said that Cain will be tried in Circuit Court.

Signs of Strain in Russia

Signs of strain between reformers and conservative Communists in the Soviet Union suggest that Kremlin officialdom may be in for a new round of musical chairs.

Some of the signs:

--The Communist leadership apparently has decided to put off the party congress. Theoretically the congress is the ruling body for nearly 12 million party members and meets every four years. The last congress was October 1961.

--Four high-ranking government and Communist party leaders have been missing for five or six weeks from important official gatherings. All rose to prominence under Nikita S. Khrushchev.

--The absence of these persons may be connected with the downfall earlier this year of two other Khrushchev proteges. It could mean that powerful forces have undertaken a determined campaign to rid the party leadership of "the Ukrainians" and economic reformers who came up under Khrushchev's wing.

Almost from the day of Khrushchev's fall last October, there have been hints of a clash between the two who divided his powers: Party Chief Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. The clash seems to stem from differences on economic reforms, the effect of such reforms on party leadership and the extent of party authority, which, in conservative opinion, should dominate every aspect of Soviet life even if it interferes with production.

Womenly Beauty This Fall Will Be Beastly

NEW YORK AP -- Womanly beauty this fall may be pretty and beastly.

That was one of the secrets shared Wednesday with fashion writers here for a four-day program of fall collection previews called the American Designer Series.

Earlier, designer Jacques Tiffeau had set a primitive mood with jungle music and masked mannequins who slinked with catlike grace in leather and velvet smocks.

Then came the true confessions by Warner's about what really goes on in the underworld of fashion.

Feline misses undulated onto the red carpet in boyd cinchers, bikini-like underpinnings and Tarzan - type, one-shoulder togas -- all the cat's meow in tiger stripes.

Their sinuous sisters wore cobra skins, fake patterns of course, on which they same type of intimate apparel.

More women, shy and demure, and at first fully clothed in conservative black, stripped to reveal their true colors -- wicked red lingerie.

Other personal items introduced at the show included:

-- Side-button coat dresses with silk lining to match petticoats and so forth.

-- Harlow nighties, bias - cut, ultra short and ruffled.

--Sweater-bras, in nude tone, rounded and slightly padded.

-- The short - short slip and the petti-pant for the short-short dresses made popular by Frenchman Andre Courreges.

--The smooth-to-the-hip slip with tiers of ruffles for under the au-go-go dresses.

-- Designer Geoffrey Beene followed up by sending his models onto the runway in the supple, body-clinging kind of garments that require the afore-mentioned kind of trimmings.

-- Brief jackets topped knife-pleated skirts, long tunic jackets slipped over reed-slim skirts. Throughout the collection were various adaptations of the smocks.

Despite Protests 'Diana' Stands Smiling In Mall

PHOENIX, Ariz. AP -- Untouched by the controversy surrounding her, "Diana of the Woods" stands smiling in the mall of the new multimillion-dollar Maricopa County government complex.

Dedicated Wednesday the stone sculpture gave pause to countless admirers, despite the charges that as the huntress of Greek mythology, she was "a cruel goddess" and a killer.

Mrs. Gilbert Hall donated the Italian-made sculpture placed in the complex's fountain and dedicated it to the Arizona Humane Society.

The animal crusaders of Arizona opposed the gesture from the start.

"Humane societies have always opposed cruelty, including blood sports," said Betty B. Eilers, the group's executive secretary.

"Not even the human side of Diana is pleasant," she said.

"When the son of a king surprised her bathing, she turned him into a stag and wasn't satisfied or revenged until his own hounds ran him down and tore him to bits," Mrs. Eilers said.

Undaunted, Mrs. Hall didn't budge an inch.

"Good art not only gives pleasure," Mrs. Hall said, "but it also stimulates an appreciation for the beautiful."

Mrs. Hall said that they claimed Diana was a killer. Why, in Italy, Diana is known as a protectress and there is a festival each year in her name."

MRS. EMMA BASINGER, 101, rests in a neighbor's rocking chair after walking from Morehouse to make her home here.

Woman, 101, Walks To City From Morehouse

By Dan Whittle

She was not moving as fast as an eastbound freight, but the cross ties on the railroad zipped past and after eight hours, Mrs. Emma Basinger reached the city limits, walking seven miles from Morehouse.

Mrs. Basinger is 101 years old.

She walked here to take up residents after living in Morehouse. She rents a house owned by Johnny Malone at 235 Northwest St.

Asked how she liked living in Sikeston, she replied:

"I make it all right until nosey people like yourself come around and start meddling in my business. I don't meddle in anyone's business and they shouldn't meddle in mine. But, I don't intend to stay here very long anyway."

I told her that I wanted to bring the mayor down to officially welcome her.

"Don't you bring any politician down here to see me. I'll insult him and you had just better not get me mad if you know what's good for you," she warned.

I told her that she had one of the city officials living just around the corner from her house, Chief of Police Arthur Bruce.

She commented:

"I really don't like lawmen. They ain't never been no friend of mine and they won't ever be."

She said that she thought the late Franklin D. Roosevelt was the best president in her lifetime.

She commented: "He had sense, but this President Johnson hasn't got as much sense as a half smart hound."

She was born May 10, 1864 in Springfield. She lived on a farm there until her husband died 24 years ago from a heart attack.

They had 10 children. All are dead. She knows of no living relative.

When asked if she was shopping around for another husband, she said:

"No, my family was always a one time, one man family. My husband was the sweetest man that ever walked on this earth. Did you know that he spent his entire life working on the railroad. In fact, that's what killed him."

She blasted modern women: "It's too bad how the womenfolk of today run around showing what the Lord meant to be hidden. And these blasted hairdos are awful. The Lord meant for a woman to honor their hair. I have never cut my hair."

Her mother, who died before World War I, lived to be 103.

Mrs. Basinger says she wants to live forever.

"Things can't get much worse than they are now so I guess I will be able to struggle through it for a long time yet," she said.

She kept holding her arm and was asked what was wrong.

"I think I had a light stroke," she explained. When asked what the doctor said about it, she replied:

"I ain't never been to no doctor and I'm not fixing to start now just for your information."

Fails To Stop, Killed

Miss Clara Cassidy, 76, Caruthersville, made a fatal error yesterday. She failed to stop her car at a stop sign, the highway patrol charged.

The vehicle, a 1964 Plymouth, was struck by another automobile five miles south of Hayti on highway 61 at 8:50 a.m. She died soon after arrival at a Hayti hospital.

Two passengers of the other car, a 1964 Oldsmobile driven by Anthony Johnson, 43, Hazelwood, were injured. They were Joyce Johnson, 10, bruised and Catie Johnson, 45, broken right arm, cut and bruised, both taken to a Hayti hospital.

Three others were injured in an accident on highway 67 yesterday at 2:25 p.m., four miles south of Greenville when a 1960 Valiant driven by Ora Goddard, 72, Doniphan, pulled out from county highway A into the path of a 1961 Ford driven by Charles McMahan, 26, Drasco, Ark.

Neither driver was injured.

Merit Plan Favored

WASHINGTON AP -- An effort by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to emphasize merit rather than seniority in military promotions got a cautious but generally favorable reception today among key legislators.

"All of us subscribe to the general idea," said Rep. Porter Hardy Jr., D-Va., a high ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee. "You have to have promotion or you stifle talent in the lower ranks. Maybe he has got some good ideas. We need to know more about it."

Highway 114 Open at Dexter

DEXTER — Highway 114, which crosses the Cotton Belt Railroad, is being re-opened to traffic this week, according to A. C. Cato, resident engineer for the State Highway Department.

The portion of the road was closed and re-built as a part of the highway 25 construction program, and the new section is being opened this week, eliminating the detour which went through east Dexter.

The new section of highway 114 crosses the old "overpass bridge" then goes due west and joins the new highway 25, eliminating the wide-sweeping curve off the bridge.

Missouri Power Rates Higher Than U.S. Average

Special to Standard

WASHINGTON -- The electric power bill paid by the Missouri family is higher than the average for the nation even though there are many dams where power is generated in Missouri and in adjoining states.

Distribution systems of the state also are connected with the Southwestern Power Administration.

Only eight states have higher family electric bills than Missouri, for those who consume less than 250 kilowatt hours. Only 10 have higher rates for consumption over this, according to a report by the Federal Power Commission with the title.

The power bill for the family is much cheaper than Missouri in four areas--in the Tennessee Valley Authority states, the extreme northwest, Kansas and Nebraska, and Wisconsin. On the other hand the highest rates are in Iowa, North and South Dakota, and the New England states.

The average electric bill in Missouri per family is $7.57 for 250 kwh., $10.78 for 500 kwh., $15,02 for 750 kwh., and $19.59 for 1,000 kwh. This is compared with Tennessee which has these rates for a family, $4.89 for 250 kwh., $6.93 for 500 kwh., $8.18 for 750 kwh., and $9.48, or less than half of that for Missouri, for 1,000 kwh.

Some cities in the Southeast section of the State have rates below the average for the state, and some have higher than the average. A run down of rates fo these cities show this:

Kennett, $7.75 for 250 kwh., $10.73 for 500 kwh., $15.48 for 750 kwh., and $21.41 for 1,000 kwh., by Ark-Mo Power Company. $7.17 for 250 kwh., $10.08 for 500 kwh., $13.86 for 750 kwh., and $18.23 for 1,000 kwh by City public works.

Caruthersville, $7.75 for 250 kwh., $10.75 for 500 kwh., $15.48 for 750 kwh., and $21.41 for 1,000 kwh., by Ark-Mo power company.

Hayti, the same as Caruthersville.

New Madrid, $9.20 for 250 kwh., $15.45 for 500 kwh., $21.75 for 750 kwh. and $27.95 for 1,000 kwh., by City Light and Power Company.

Poplar Bluff, $8.06 for 250 kwh., $13.66 for 750 kwh., $18.62 for 750 kwh., and $22.51 for 1,000 kwh, by Missouri Utilities. and $6.66 for 250 kwh., $8.91 for 500 kwh., $12.06 for 750 kwh. and $15.43 for 1,000 kwh, by City public utilities.

Cape Girardeau, $8.27 for 250 kwh., $14.03 for 500 kwh., $19.14 for 750 kwh., and $23.11 for 1,000 kwh., by Missouri utilities.

The outrageous outbreak of rioting in America's resort cities is everybody's fault.

But contrary to the social workers, the loose thinkers, the fatheads, the lenient judges, the do-gooders and the Bleeding Hearts something can be done about it.

Certain punishment is the best antidote for crime. That prescription holds for outbreaks of juvenile lawlessness as well as more serious offenses against society. Punishment in this country is uncertain and subject to numerous delays.

What caused this outbreak to mar the nation's observance of a holiday closely linked to its history?

Modern transportation; no supervision and no acceptance of responsibility by parents. Prosperity, produces too much money in the pockets of the young; disappearance of chores or other work disciplines, creating idleness; a lenient attitude of dispensers of booze and other elements in the resort economy, which produces apathy toward the anarchy that excessive drinking produces.

It won't do much good for judges to lecture the teen agers and college students, who unleashed the destructive disturbances. Fines, even stiff ones, aren't the answer. It will do no good either to foist them on other communities by giving them no fines or light ones in return for leaving town. This merely shifts the unwelcome problem on other cities.

Every rioter should be confined for a week or more and put on a manual labor work detail beautifying the resort cities he wrecked. This action alone will produce beneficial results.

Fines won't work because the kids have plenty of money. If they didn't they would not have traveled to the communities in the first place.

Officials at Newport, R. I., might be checked. The Newport Jazz Festival -- once a wild and woolly affair -- has been tamed. Officials in other resort cities owe it to themselves to find out how it was done.

The harassed law enforcement officers, who were outmanned and overpowered in the five resort towns where the riots occurred, don't deserve criticism.

They should be praised for courageous but ineffective steps to cope with a problem that was too big for them.

The fault does not lie on their doorstep. It rests on the shoulders of the rest of us. We'd better do something about it if there is going to be any law and order in this country whose birthday is celebrated every July 4.

DARIEN'S DILEMMA

The teen-age drinking dilemma has come back to Darien, Conn. Today, July 8, still another pair of parents charged with serving liquor to minors is scheduled to appear in Stamford Circuit Court.

Parents in the high-income commuter community for years were accustomed to serving drinks to guests at debutante and teen-age parties. Few of them knew that a 32-year-old state statute forbids any person to serve liquor to any minor (under 21) other than his own child.

But last year a 17-year-old girl was killed in an automobile crash that followed a debutante party where liquor was served. Charges were placed against 13 adults; eight of them were found guilty and fined up to $500.

Just as Darien was recovering from that scandle, a new case broke, June 22, with the arrest of a New York machinery company executive and his wife on similar charges. The case involved the death of a 19-year-old college student whose car hit a bridge abutment June 24, 1964, after he attended a party for the executive's daughter. Arrests in this case had been deferred for many months until the State Supreme Court ruled the statute constitutional.

Residents of Darien are understandably upset about the drinking scandals. But the parents and other adults charged to date all say they were not aware that Connecticut had legal restrictions against serving liquor to minors in homes. It's hard to imagine a deb party without champagne. Yet only the most heedless parents in Connecticut will risk running afoul of the harsh statute now that it is being enforced.

AUTOMATION OF THE NEWS

The New York Post will use a computer to set type for publication through Wednesday (June 30). If no agreement with its printers is reached by then, the Post will take the computer out of operation and revert to the standard system of typesetting while management-union negotiations continue.

NEW YORK CITY presents a laboratory example of a management - labor confrontation in the newspaper business. To oversimplify, the issue is: "What share of the savings achieved by the use of labor-saving equipment shall go to labor and what share to management?"

The issue underlay the devastating 114-day newspaper strike in the winter of 1962-63. The city's major newspapers -- aside from the Post -- by a contract agreement reached last March gave the union, New York Typographical Union No. 6, a virtual veto over automation. Also, the publishers agreed to give the unions the direct savings from use of wire service tapes to set stock market tables.

The Post is not covered by the March contract because it pulled out of the earlier strike dispute, made a separate agreement with the union, and resumed publishing in advance of the general agreement. Now the Post wants to set type by means of a tape-fed International Business Machines 1620 computer, bypassing the use of the lineotype machine.

The computer reduces the time required to set type. An operator punches tape from regular news copy and feeds it into the computer. The computer "justifies" the copy -- spaces it properly in columns, hyphenating when necessary -- and feeds the copy in turn to line casting machines which set type.

The Post management is willing to share with the union the dollar savings achieved by automation, but only when the paper is showing a profit. The paper labors under a chronic deficit.

After several days of experiment with the computer -- and negotiation with the printers -- the Post management gave the order to "go live" -- use the computer to set publishable type -- on June 22. Eight printers who refused to handle the computer-processed type were suspended. The I. T. U. unit at the Post then called a meeting of the union chapel and refused to go back to work. Subsequently the union agreed to a week's trial publication using computer-processed type.

THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS ASSOCIATION reported last year that 24 newspapers were committed to setting type by computer systems. Among the first were the Washington Post, the Los Angeles Times, and the Palm Beach Post-Times.

A management consultant company last spring put the number of papers using computers at 43, as well as the Associated Press and United Press International. Some papers use computers for bookkeeping as well as typesetting.

IF NEW YORK lags behind other cities in automated newspapers, a great deal of the responsibility lies with the typographical union. Big Six is one of the most powerful locals in the union movement, and its president, tall, dapper, whitishblond Bert Powers, is an iron negotiator.

New York publishers from the beginning have guaranteed union members against job loss through automation. At stake only is the division of the savings. Whatever happens in New York, automation in an industry choked by rising costs is inevitable. Typesetting computers that had cost several hundred thousand dollars a few years ago are available now for $40,000. One newspaper production man foresees "computers for less than $20,000" in the not too distant future.

PEOPLE WHO CARE

Who cares? is a remark we often hear and sometimes make ourselves. It's another way of saying "it doesn't matter." A nationwide 4-H club audience got an answer to this question in Chicago recently from the head of one of our major corporations. C. W. "Tex" Cook, president of General Foods, said that people who care set good examples for others -- and setting a good example is a requirement of leadership. So who cares? The answer is: leaders.

Speaking at a dinner meeting honoring winners in the annual 4-H foods-nutrition program, he emphasized the great opportunities for leadership open to young people. The need has never been greater for qualified young men and women to tackle and help solve the pressing problems that face our country at home and abroad. And it is people who are proud to help -- and do something about it -- who are taking the lead in meeting these problems.

Unfortunately, there is an apparent national cynicism -- sometimes all - to - evident -- which causes us to shun words like proud and dedicated, or brings a self-conscious flush to the cheeks of people who use them. This should not be, because our country needs more people who are proud - proud to be dedicated, proud to care, and proud to devote themselves to creating a better world for themselves and their fellowmen.

This traditional American way of individual initiative contrasts sharply with the Russian system of state control, which the speaker saw at first-hand in a meeting with Premier Khrushchev in Moscow. Both systems require discipline, he pointed out, but ours is self-discipline. And the results to date leave no doubt that the American free-choice system is best by far.

The challenge facing us is to maintain and enhance the system against an adversary who is intent on destroying it. That is why we need more leaders to set an example for others -- more people who care.

ROYAL THIEVERY

The action of Argentina in announcing that it will annul contracts made with foreign oil companies, primarily American, without any firm promise of adequate indemnity, is another example of immorality on the part of a government.

The United States government is deeply concerned. Efforts by a high U.S. official to settle the matter fairly came to little or nothing. The AP reports that "An authoritative U.S. source said that 'failure by the Argentine government to act within the concept of the U.S. position can harm this climate (for foreign capital) and with it the Alliance for Progress.' "

Neither the Alliance for Progress, nor any other organization, can produce anything except more and more disunity if governments turn their backs on firm pledges and agreements. Since 1958 the oil companies concerned have spent $397 million in Argentina. They have developed her oil resources, to the advantage of all. They believed that the free-made contracts would be fulfilled on the part of all the signatory parties.

The news reports also say that the Argentine government holds that its action is legal, and if the companies are dissatisfied, they can go to court. One can imagine what would happen then. The litigation would, in all probability, be drawn out indefinitely. And the chance of fair indemnification would be frail indeed.

There can be no stability in the world, no fair chance to better understanding and cooperation between nations, unless treaties, contracts and agreements are kept to the letter.

The late Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi was well equipped to land on his feet, no matter what the situation. There was none able to back him into a corner, get him over a barrel, or into water too deep for him to wade out.

Perrin Holmes Lowrey, poet, professor, bird dog trainer, raconteur, retired business man, and now bishop of Braw Haw at Blue Mountains, passes along his favorite story about Senator Harrison.

Word had trickled out of the Senate cloakroom that the Senator occasionally joined with his colleagues to throw a few spot cards and take a nip for his stomach's sake, behavior not countenanced by orthodox saints.

So, after these evil tidings fell upon ears of qualified voters in a precinct where folks took their virtue seriously, the saints deputized a deacon to make inquiry of the Senator. The deacon was civilized and loathe to meddle into another man's private affairs, but his fellow saints put the heat on him, and he couldn't dodge the assignment.

He called on the Senator, next time the statesman was in those parts, and reluctantly began: "Senator Harrison, I got to ask you a personal question, and you got to tell me the truth. I don't want to ask it, but they won't leave me alone till I do. Will you tell me the truth?"

"Sure, Brother," said Senator Harrison, "Ask away."

"Well, said the deacon, they do tell that down at Washington, you now and then play cards and take a drink. You said you'd tell me the truth."

"Do you believe a thing like that about me?" asked Pat.

"Of course not," said the deacon.

"Then go back and tell 'em so," roared the Senator.

Three managers of chicken farms in Russia were haled into court to answer charges of unsatisfactory operation of their enterprises, following secret investigations by the police.

"What do your chickens eat?" roared the judge at the first chicken farmer.

"Corn," replied the farmer.

"Ten years in jail," sentenced the judge. "Corn is not for chickens -- it is for the starving people to eat!" Turning to the second unfortunate, he shouted: "What do your chickens get to eat?"

"Corn shucks," replied the farmer.

"Five years in jail," sentenced the judge. "Corn shucks are needed to make mattresses and clothing for the poor."

"And what do your chickens eat?" he glared at the third unfortunate chicken farmer.

"Me, I don't know," replied the man meekly. "I just give them the money and tell them to go out and buy their own food."

H. L. Hunt Says

YOUTH GETS THE BILL

There is no future for freedom and limited government in America unless our young people can be brought to see that this way of life is both morally right and personally beneficial to them.

The more idealistic our young people will contend for a cause simply because it is right. But they, and their freedom-loving elders, will not find all the support they need unless they can also show that freedom and limited government are personally advantageous to every individual willing to earn his own living, while socialism will pauperize him.

This is not easy to demonstrate today when we are swamped with "buy now, pay later" spending programs and flooded with propaganda about the benefits big government supposedly can provide for all. But these arguments have one very vulnerable spot where youth is concerned. It is our young people who are going to have to pay the bill.

Young people getting their first jobs today will still be in the prime of life when the twentieth century ends. Older folks may not have to look that far ahead, but youth does, and has good reason for concern. If during the next 35 years government continues to grow and freedom continues to be restricted at the rate of the past 35 years, our young people today will not have much to live for.

Instead, they will spend their lives paying the bills we of the older generation presented to them, unless they do more for freedom than we have done. HLH

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Maj. James A. Minish and his men have cost Uncle Sam $21,441,250 in 99 days — but feel the government got its money's worth.

"It may even have been a bargain," said Maj. Minish, his taciturn face breaking into a smile. "Overall, we feel we did a good job."

The $21-million figure reflects the cost of the ordnance his squadron of F100 fighter planes expended while flying nearly 1¾ million miles and 2,200 sorties.

It doesn't include the fuel consumption, salaries of the flyers, or the value of two planes lost in action.

The major, a native of Yellowstone Park, Wyo., whose wife and four children now live at Alexandria, La., started posting the ammunition costs at the beginning of the squadron's tour of duty.

"I wanted to teach them this stuff is too valuable to waste," said Minish. "It caught their interest to see the cost of a mission in terms of dollars and cents."

The $21-million-plus total included 750,000 20mm cannon shells at $2.05 each, 3,500 bombs at $350 each, 2,250, and palm bombs at $275, and 17,200 rockets at $1,050 apiece.

On his 99th day the major lowered his wheels and came in for a perfect landing. It was his 107th mission, 10 more than any other member of his squadron.

"I expended 800 rounds of 20mm fire at some Viet Cong in a tree area northwest of here," he said. "I never thought about it being my last mission. It was just like any other one.

"I haven't been sweating out the last few particularly. Flying as many missions as we have, someone is bound to be hit now and then. But I've never been concerned over my own welfare.

"I've never carried goodluck charms. I feel our training has made us competent, and I have faith in our planes and our crew chiefs."

Minish is admired at the base here for his qualities of character and leadership and the deep concern he has shown for the welfare of the officers and men in his command. Not one of his men has cracked up under combat strain or grueling 14- to 16-hour days on repair work.

The squadron flew 1,400 sorties in South Viet Nam and 800 against North Vietnamese targets.

"We think our work here helped the whole effort," the major said. "Sometimes you come back feeling unsatisfied when you've bombed the Viet Cong in heavy foliage. All you can see are the explosions. You can't tell the results.

"But in several heavy ground battles, our F100s have made the difference. So overall, we're going home with a feeling of satisfaction."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Senators and Congressmen argued for parts of two days behind the closed doors of a joint conference committee over health warnings in cigaret advertising.

What happened was supposed to be off the record. However it can be revealed that two spokesmen for the tobacco-TV Lobby Walter Rogers of Pampa, Texas, and Horace Kornegay, of Greensboro, N. C., both Democrats, held out to the very end against any regulation of cigaret advertising.

After two days they lost out. Rep. Oren Harris, the Arkansas Democrat who is chairman of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, asked for "a reasonable negotiation of our differences." He was also most gallant toward the one lady participant, Sen. Maurine Neuberger, D-Ore., whose husband died of cancer and who has been waging a crusade against cigarets.

As a result, the conferees decided to give the tobacco industry three and a half years of grace before requiring its advertising to submit to federal trade commission regulation, as every other industry in the United States must do. In the entire history of the trade commission never before has any industry been given special exemption from FTC regulation, until Rep. Rogers, the friend of Madison Avenue, proposed and pushed this exemption through the House.

"The FTC is trying to ride roughshod over Congress and the Senate apparently is content to let this happen," growled Rogers at his Senate colleagues. "I can draw no other conclusion from the bill the Senate passed. The Senate assumes that the FTC still has jurisdiction over cigaret advertising, in a limited way. The House says 'No.' "

"Yes, but you've gone too far in the House bill," diplomatically suggested Sen. Warren Magnuson D-Wash., the Senate committee chairman. "Also, the Senate is not willing to let the FTC or any other agency ride roughshod over the Congress. We made this clear in our committee report. But we did not take a specific stand for or against the FTC authority to regulate cigaret advertising. We simply barred this authority for a period of three years."

--HEALTH WARNING ON SIDE--

"Well, that's your analysis," snapped Rogers. "It isn't mine. I also don't agree with some other claims I've heard on this issue, like the contention that Congress is trying to hide the health warning label on cigarets by specifying that it be put on the side of the package, instead of on the larger front or back of the pack.

"At a cocktail party, everyone can plainly see a warning on the side of a pack. But if the pack is lying on a table, with the warning on the underside, either the front or the back, then no one can see it."

"That's about the most far-fetched argument I have heard in some time," disputed Sen. Maurine Neuberger. "If you follow that cocktail party story through, then you would have to twist your head, and almost fall over, in order to read a warning on the side of a cigaret package.

"Your attacks on the FTC also sound pretty unreasonable to me. Let's quit beating around the bush."

Rep. Harris also obviously felt there was too much inconsequential talk and too little action, because he urged his House colleagues, after the first meeting, not to reject a fair compromise. As the second closed-door session began the next morning, Harris looked around the room, then inquired: "Where's Mrs. Neuberger?"

Informed that she couldn't be present, Harris asked: "Did she leave any mandate on what she was ready to accept?"

Told that the Oregon senator still favored the "Senate version," that is, she would reluctantly agree to a temporary three-year moratorium of FTC Powers, Harris replied amicably: "That's fine. I'll see what I can do with my colleagues from the House."

Result was the three-and-a-half - year compromise. Both sides also agreed not to direct that the health warning be on the side of a cigaret pack. Under the new bill it can be placed anywhere on the pack, as long as it is conspicuous.

Rogers finally gave in, but Kornegay was adamant to the last. Finally, just before the meeting ended, he surrendered. "I'm doing this only out of deference to my chairman," he said.

--ADAM STAYS AT HOME--

Having exposed Adam Clayton Powell, the Harlem Globe Trotter, for his junkets abroad, it's only fair to note a couple of facts on the other side. First, he did not take the proposed Junket to Geneva for the International Labor Office meeting, though he is chairman of the congressional delegation to the ILO. Second, Powell did not join the fifty congressmen to attend the Paris Air Show last month.

Instead of going to Geneva or Paris, Powell has been working like a bird dog pushing legislation through the House Education and Labor Committee, of which he is chairman.

Some of the most important bills for Johnson's great society have been hammered into shape by his committee and reported out in fast time.

They include: Aid - to-Education, the Manpower Training Amendments, the Coal Mine Safety Act, Revision of the Landrum-Griffin Act, the Economic Opportunity Act or "Poverty Bill," Repeal of 14B, the so-called Right-to-Work Provision. The Higher Education Act to help colleges and universities, is now before Powell's committee and is one reason why he cancelled his ILO trip to Geneva.

Coalition of Left Wing Unionists-Pacificists Plan To Seize Congress Chamber and Demonstrate at Key U. S. Factories

Washington, D. C.: -- Soon the "August 9th Movement" will smash its way into the nation's headlines. On that day it will attempt to occupy the chamber of Congress' House of Representatives here.

On that day a coalition of left-wing unionists, young workers recruited from big factories, poverty actionists from the big cities, students' leaders, pacifists, and the vacationing campus "anti-Viet Nam" leaders will move into the Capitol building.

They will lead an attempt to walk around the House chamber. Then the action blueprint calls for a sudden dive for empty seats of Congressmen who are off the floor. Many of them will be, since Aug. 9 is a summer Monday.

Realizing there will be police action, leaders of the newly-coordinated movement which will be known as "W. A. P. --Washington Action Project" --plan to sit down wherever they are stopped. There they intend to remain until dragged out and arrested.

August 9, 1965, may yet be heralded in some corners of the world as the day the proletariat arose and attempted to seize the American Congress.

However, the W. A. P.'s intent is to sit down in the House seats, convene a "Congress of Unrepresented People" and call for "peace" in Viet Nam.

Previous to the planned invasion of Congress -- all of which is being carefully developed in an office on Rhode Island Ave. here -- there will be a day-long series of workshops.

What makes this operation a significant development in the so-called peace movement is the presence of a left-wing unionist in the 30-man W. A. P. coordinating committee. He's Russ Nixon, who has powerful connections in a series of militant, independent labor unions. His contacts reach into unions covering plants in the electronic, electrical, and atomic equipment and communication fields and on some waterfronts.

Nixon, an accomplished organizer and strategist, is counted on to bring in the manpower which the peace groups have lacked. Apparently there are sufficient funds. Staffs are maintained. Considerable lodging is supplied.

But numbers are needed for the series of picket lines and mass demonstrations now planned on a front stretching from the Pentagon on to the White House, then up Pennsylvania Ave. into the Congress itself.

The next step, it is believed by security people, will be attempts to move into arms factories and industrial plants providing the logistic support for the Vietnamese fighting.

If thousands of workers--especially young people now entering the labor market--can be convinced that it is wrong to produce for war, there could be sizeable demonstrations in and outside the plant gates for key mills and factories.

Plant security directors and industrial-labor relations men, working closely with non-left union chiefs, have observed the spreading influence in labor of "anti-Viet Namists." Already a large Midwest local of a huge national union has permitted its publication to state that American generals are gleefully permitting our troops to shoot colored people in Asia by the thousands.

Such growing infiltration could have its impact on America even if just a handful of workers take the propaganda seriously.

That "August 9th Movement" could really touch things off that morning.

DARIEN'S DILEMMA

The teen-age drinking dilemma has come back to Darien, Conn. Today, July 8, still another pair of parents charged with serving liquor to minors is scheduled to appear in Stamford Circuit Court.

Parents in the high-income commuter community for years were accustomed to serving drinks to guests at debutante and teen-age parties. Few of them knew that a 32-year-old state statute forbids any person to serve liquor to any minor (under 21) other than his own child.

But last year a 17-year-old girl was killed in an automobile crash that followed a debutante party where liquor was served. Charges were placed against 13 adults; eight of them were found guilty and fined up to $500.

Just as Darien was recovering from that scandle, a new case broke, June 22, with the arrest of a New York machinery company executive and his wife on similar charges. The case involved the death of a 19-year-old college student whose car hit a bridge abutment June 24, 1964, after he attended a party for the executive's daughter. Arrests in this case had been deferred for many months until the State Supreme Court ruled the statute constitutional.

Residents of Darien are understandably upset about the drinking scandals. But the parents and other adults charged to date all say they were not aware that Connecticut had legal restrictions against serving liquor to minors in homes. It's hard to imagine a deb party without champagne. Yet only the most heedless parents in Connecticut will risk running afoul of the harsh statute now that it is being enforced.

AUTOMATION OF THE NEWS

The New York Post will use a computer to set type for publication through Wednesday (June 30). If no agreement with its printers is reached by then, the Post will take the computer out of operation and revert to the standard system of typesetting while management-union negotiations continue.

NEW YORK CITY presents a laboratory example of a management - labor confrontation in the newspaper business. To oversimplify, the issue is: "What share of the savings achieved by the use of labor-saving equipment shall go to labor and what share to management?"

The issue underlay the devastating 114-day newspaper strike in the winter of 1962-63. The city's major newspapers -- aside from the Post -- by a contract agreement reached last March gave the union, New York Typographical Union No. 6, a virtual veto over automation. Also, the publishers agreed to give the unions the direct savings from use of wire service tapes to set stock market tables.

The Post is not covered by the March contract because it pulled out of the earlier strike dispute, made a separate agreement with the union, and resumed publishing in advance of the general agreement. Now the Post wants to set type by means of a tape-fed International Business Machines 1620 computer, bypassing the use of the lineotype machine.

The computer reduces the time required to set type. An operator punches tape from regular news copy and feeds it into the computer. The computer "justifies" the copy -- spaces it properly in columns, hyphenating when necessary -- and feeds the copy in turn to line casting machines which set type.

The Post management is willing to share with the union the dollar savings achieved by automation, but only when the paper is showing a profit. The paper labors under a chronic deficit.

After several days of experiment with the computer -- and negotiation with the printers -- the Post management gave the order to "go live" -- use the computer to set publishable type -- on June 22. Eight printers who refused to handle the computer-processed type were suspended. The I. T. U. unit at the Post then called a meeting of the union chapel and refused to go back to work. Subsequently the union agreed to a week's trial publication using computer-processed type.

THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS ASSOCIATION reported last year that 24 newspapers were committed to setting type by computer systems. Among the first were the Washington Post, the Los Angeles Times, and the Palm Beach Post-Times.

A management consultant company last spring put the number of papers using computers at 43, as well as the Associated Press and United Press International. Some papers use computers for bookkeeping as well as typesetting.

IF NEW YORK lags behind other cities in automated newspapers, a great deal of the responsibility lies with the typographical union. Big Six is one of the most powerful locals in the union movement, and its president, tall, dapper, whitishblond Bert Powers, is an iron negotiator.

New York publishers from the beginning have guaranteed union members against job loss through automation. At stake only is the division of the savings. Whatever happens in New York, automation in an industry choked by rising costs is inevitable. Typesetting computers that had cost several hundred thousand dollars a few years ago are available now for $40,000. One newspaper production man foresees "computers for less than $20,000" in the not too distant future.

PEOPLE WHO CARE

Who cares? is a remark we often hear and sometimes make ourselves. It's another way of saying "it doesn't matter." A nationwide 4-H club audience got an answer to this question in Chicago recently from the head of one of our major corporations. C. W. "Tex" Cook, president of General Foods, said that people who care set good examples for others -- and setting a good example is a requirement of leadership. So who cares? The answer is: leaders.

Speaking at a dinner meeting honoring winners in the annual 4-H foods-nutrition program, he emphasized the great opportunities for leadership open to young people. The need has never been greater for qualified young men and women to tackle and help solve the pressing problems that face our country at home and abroad. And it is people who are proud to help -- and do something about it -- who are taking the lead in meeting these problems.

Unfortunately, there is an apparent national cynicism -- sometimes all - to - evident -- which causes us to shun words like proud and dedicated, or brings a self-conscious flush to the cheeks of people who use them. This should not be, because our country needs more people who are proud - proud to be dedicated, proud to care, and proud to devote themselves to creating a better world for themselves and their fellowmen.

This traditional American way of individual initiative contrasts sharply with the Russian system of state control, which the speaker saw at first-hand in a meeting with Premier Khrushchev in Moscow. Both systems require discipline, he pointed out, but ours is self-discipline. And the results to date leave no doubt that the American free-choice system is best by far.

The challenge facing us is to maintain and enhance the system against an adversary who is intent on destroying it. That is why we need more leaders to set an example for others -- more people who care.

ROYAL THIEVERY

The action of Argentina in announcing that it will annul contracts made with foreign oil companies, primarily American, without any firm promise of adequate indemnity, is another example of immorality on the part of a government.

The United States government is deeply concerned. Efforts by a high U.S. official to settle the matter fairly came to little or nothing. The AP reports that "An authoritative U.S. source said that 'failure by the Argentine government to act within the concept of the U.S. position can harm this climate (for foreign capital) and with it the Alliance for Progress.' "

Neither the Alliance for Progress, nor any other organization, can produce anything except more and more disunity if governments turn their backs on firm pledges and agreements. Since 1958 the oil companies concerned have spent $397 million in Argentina. They have developed her oil resources, to the advantage of all. They believed that the free-made contracts would be fulfilled on the part of all the signatory parties.

The news reports also say that the Argentine government holds that its action is legal, and if the companies are dissatisfied, they can go to court. One can imagine what would happen then. The litigation would, in all probability, be drawn out indefinitely. And the chance of fair indemnification would be frail indeed.

There can be no stability in the world, no fair chance to better understanding and cooperation between nations, unless treaties, contracts and agreements are kept to the letter.

The late Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi was well equipped to land on his feet, no matter what the situation. There was none able to back him into a corner, get him over a barrel, or into water too deep for him to wade out.

Perrin Holmes Lowrey, poet, professor, bird dog trainer, raconteur, retired business man, and now bishop of Braw Haw at Blue Mountains, passes along his favorite story about Senator Harrison.

Word had trickled out of the Senate cloakroom that the Senator occasionally joined with his colleagues to throw a few spot cards and take a nip for his stomach's sake, behavior not countenanced by orthodox saints.

So, after these evil tidings fell upon ears of qualified voters in a precinct where folks took their virtue seriously, the saints deputized a deacon to make inquiry of the Senator. The deacon was civilized and loathe to meddle into another man's private affairs, but his fellow saints put the heat on him, and he couldn't dodge the assignment.

He called on the Senator, next time the statesman was in those parts, and reluctantly began: "Senator Harrison, I got to ask you a personal question, and you got to tell me the truth. I don't want to ask it, but they won't leave me alone till I do. Will you tell me the truth?"

"Sure, Brother," said Senator Harrison, "Ask away."

"Well, said the deacon, they do tell that down at Washington, you now and then play cards and take a drink. You said you'd tell me the truth."

"Do you believe a thing like that about me?" asked Pat.

"Of course not," said the deacon.

"Then go back and tell 'em so," roared the Senator.

THEIR CHOICE

Three managers of chicken farms in Russia were haled into court to answer charges of unsatisfactory operation of their enterprises, following secret investigations by the police.

"What do your chickens eat?" roared the judge at the first chicken farmer.

"Corn," replied the farmer.

"Ten years in jail," sentenced the judge. "Corn is not for chickens -- it is for the starving people to eat!" Turning to the second unfortunate, he shouted: "What do your chickens get to eat?"

"Corn shucks," replied the farmer.

"Five years in jail," sentenced the judge. "Corn shucks are needed to make mattresses and clothing for the poor."

"And what do your chickens eat?" he glared at the third unfortunate chicken farmer.

"Me, I don't know," replied the man meekly. "I just give them the money and tell them to go out and buy their own food."

H. L. Hunt Says

YOUTH GETS THE BILL

There is no future for freedom and limited government in America unless our young people can be brought to see that this way of life is both morally right and personally beneficial to them.

The more idealistic our young people will contend for a cause simply because it is right. But they, and their freedom-loving elders, will not find all the support they need unless they can also show that freedom and limited government are personally advantageous to every individual willing to earn his own living, while socialism will pauperize him.

This is not easy to demonstrate today when we are swamped with "buy now, pay later" spending programs and flooded with propaganda about the benefits big government supposedly can provide for all. But these arguments have one very vulnerable spot where youth is concerned. It is our young people who are going to have to pay the bill.

Young people getting their first jobs today will still be in the prime of life when the twentieth century ends. Older folks may not have to look that far ahead, but youth does, and has good reason for concern. If during the next 35 years government continues to grow and freedom continues to be restricted at the rate of the past 35 years, our young people today will not have much to live for.

Instead, they will spend their lives paying the bills we of the older generation presented to them, unless they do more for freedom than we have done. HLH

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Maj. James A. Minish and his men have cost Uncle Sam $21,441,250 in 99 days — but feel the government got its money's worth.

"It may even have been a bargain," said Maj. Minish, his taciturn face breaking into a smile. "Overall, we feel we did a good job."

The $21-million figure reflects the cost of the ordnance his squadron of F100 fighter planes expended while flying nearly 1¾ million miles and 2,200 sorties.

It doesn't include the fuel consumption, salaries of the flyers, or the value of two planes lost in action.

The major, a native of Yellowstone Park, Wyo., whose wife and four children now live at Alexandria, La., started posting the ammunition costs at the beginning of the squadron's tour of duty.

"I wanted to teach them this stuff is too valuable to waste," said Minish. "It caught their interest to see the cost of a mission in terms of dollars and cents."

The $21-million-plus total included 750,000 20mm cannon shells at $2.05 each, 3,500 bombs at $350 each, 2,250, and palm bombs at $275, and 17,200 rockets at $1,050 apiece.

On his 99th day the major lowered his wheels and came in for a perfect landing. It was his 107th mission, 10 more than any other member of his squadron.

"I expended 800 rounds of 20mm fire at some Viet Cong in a tree area northwest of here," he said. "I never thought about it being my last mission. It was just like any other one.

"I haven't been sweating out the last few particularly. Flying as many missions as we have, someone is bound to be hit now and then. But I've never been concerned over my own welfare.

"I've never carried goodluck charms. I feel our training has made us competent, and I have faith in our planes and our crew chiefs."

Minish is admired at the base here for his qualities of character and leadership and the deep concern he has shown for the welfare of the officers and men in his command. Not one of his men has cracked up under combat strain or grueling 14- to 16-hour days on repair work.

The squadron flew 1,400 sorties in South Viet Nam and 800 against North Vietnamese targets.

"We think our work here helped the whole effort," the major said. "Sometimes you come back feeling unsatisfied when you've bombed the Viet Cong in heavy foliage. All you can see are the explosions. You can't tell the results.

"But in several heavy ground battles, our F100s have made the difference. So overall, we're going home with a feeling of satisfaction."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Senators and Congressmen argued for parts of two days behind the closed doors of a joint conference committee over health warnings in cigaret advertising.

What happened was supposed to be off the record. However it can be revealed that two spokesmen for the tobacco-TV Lobby Walter Rogers of Pampa, Texas, and Horace Kornegay, of Greensboro, N. C., both Democrats, held out to the very end against any regulation of cigaret advertising.

After two days they lost out. Rep. Oren Harris, the Arkansas Democrat who is chairman of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, asked for "a reasonable negotiation of our differences." He was also most gallant toward the one lady participant, Sen. Maurine Neuberger, D-Ore., whose husband died of cancer and who has been waging a crusade against cigarets.

As a result, the conferees decided to give the tobacco industry three and a half years of grace before requiring its advertising to submit to federal trade commission regulation, as every other industry in the United States must do. In the entire history of the trade commission never before has any industry been given special exemption from FTC regulation, until Rep. Rogers, the friend of Madison Avenue, proposed and pushed this exemption through the House.

"The FTC is trying to ride roughshod over Congress and the Senate apparently is content to let this happen," growled Rogers at his Senate colleagues. "I can draw no other conclusion from the bill the Senate passed. The Senate assumes that the FTC still has jurisdiction over cigaret advertising, in a limited way. The House says 'No.' "

"Yes, but you've gone too far in the House bill," diplomatically suggested Sen. Warren Magnuson D-Wash., the Senate committee chairman.

"Also, the Senate is not willing to let the FTC or any other agency ride roughshod over the Congress. We made this clear in our committee report. But we did not take a specific stand for or against the FTC authority to regulate cigaret advertising. We simply barred this authority for a period of three years."

--HEALTH WARNING ON SIDE--

"Well, that's your analysis," snapped Rogers. "It isn't mine. I also don't agree with some other claims I've heard on this issue, like the contention that Congress is trying to hide the health warning label on cigarets by specifying that it be put on the side of the package, instead of on the larger front or back of the pack.

"At a cocktail party, everyone can plainly see a warning on the side of a pack. But if the pack is lying on a table, with the warning on the underside, either the front or the back, then no one can see it."

"That's about the most far-fetched argument I have heard in some time," disputed Sen. Maurine Neuberger. "If you follow that cocktail party story through, then you would have to twist your head, and almost fall over, in order to read a warning on the side of a cigaret package.

"Your attacks on the FTC also sound pretty unreasonable to me. Let's quit beating around the bush."

Rep. Harris also obviously felt there was too much inconsequential talk and too little action, because he urged his House colleagues, after the first meeting, not to reject a fair compromise. As the second closed-door session began the next morning, Harris looked around the room, then inquired: "Where's Mrs. Neuberger?"

Informed that she couldn't be present, Harris asked: "Did she leave any mandate on what she was ready to accept?"

Told that the Oregon senator still favored the "Senate version," that is, she would reluctantly agree to a temporary three-year moratorium of FTC Powers, Harris replied amicably: "That's fine. I'll see what I can do with my colleagues from the House."

Result was the three-and-a-half - year compromise. Both sides also agreed not to direct that the health warning be on the side of a cigaret pack. Under the new bill it can be placed anywhere on the pack, as long as it is conspicuous.

Rogers finally gave in, but Kornegay was adamant to the last. Finally, just before the meeting ended, he surrendered. "I'm doing this only out of deference to my chairman," he said.

--ADAM STAYS AT HOME--

Having exposed Adam Clayton Powell, the Harlem Globe Trotter, for his junkets abroad, it's only fair to note a couple of facts on the other side. First, he did not take the proposed Junket to Geneva for the International Labor Office meeting, though he is chairman of the congressional delegation to the ILO. Second, Powell did not join the fifty congressmen to attend the Paris Air Show last month.

Instead of going to Geneva or Paris, Powell has been working like a bird dog pushing legislation through the House Education and Labor Committee, of which he is chairman.

Some of the most important bills for Johnson's great society have been hammered into shape by his committee and reported out in fast time.

They include: Aid - to-Education, the Manpower Training Amendments, the Coal Mine Safety Act, Revision of the Landrum-Griffin Act, the Economic Opportunity Act or "Poverty Bill," Repeal of 14B, the so-called Right-to-Work Provision. The Higher Education Act to help colleges and universities, is now before Powell's committee and is one reason why he cancelled his ILO trip to Geneva.

Coalition of Left Wing Unionists-Pacificists Plan To Seize Congress Chamber and Demonstrate at Key U. S. Factories

Washington, D. C.: -- Soon the "August 9th Movement" will smash its way into the nation's headlines. On that day it will attempt to occupy the chamber of Congress' House of Representatives here.

On that day a coalition of left-wing unionists, young workers recruited from big factories, poverty actionists from the big cities, students' leaders, pacifists, and the vacationing campus "anti-Viet Nam" leaders will move into the Capitol building.

They will lead an attempt to walk around the House chamber. Then the action blueprint calls for a sudden dive for empty seats of Congressmen who are off the floor. Many of them will be, since Aug. 9 is a summer Monday.

Realizing there will be police action, leaders of the newly-coordinated movement which will be known as "W. A. P. --Washington Action Project" --plan to sit down wherever they are stopped. There they intend to remain until dragged out and arrested.

August 9, 1965, may yet be heralded in some corners of the world as the day the proletariat arose and attempted to seize the American Congress.

However, the W. A. P.'s intent is to sit down in the House seats, convene a "Congress of Unrepresented People" and call for "peace" in Viet Nam.

Previous to the planned invasion of Congress -- all of which is being carefully developed in an office on Rhode Island Ave. here -- there will be a day-long series of workshops.

What makes this operation a significant development in the so-called peace movement is the presence of a left-wing unionist in the 30-man W. A. P. coordinating committee. He's Russ Nixon, who has powerful connections in a series of militant, independent labor unions. His contacts reach into unions covering plants in the electronic, electrical, and atomic equipment and communication fields and on some waterfronts.

Nixon, an accomplished organizer and strategist, is counted on to bring in the manpower which the peace groups have lacked. Apparently there are sufficient funds. Staffs are maintained. Considerable lodging is supplied.

But numbers are needed for the series of picket lines and mass demonstrations now planned on a front stretching from the Pentagon on to the White House, then up Pennsylvania Ave. into the Congress itself.

The next step, it is believed by security people, will be attempts to move into arms factories and industrial plants providing the logistic support for the Vietnamese fighting.

If thousands of workers--especially young people now entering the labor market--can be convinced that it is wrong to produce for war, there could be sizeable demonstrations in and outside the plant gates for key mills and factories.

Plant security directors and industrial-labor relations men, working closely with non-left union chiefs, have observed the spreading influence in labor of "anti-Viet Namists." Already a large Midwest local of a huge national union has permitted its publication to state that American generals are gleefully permitting our troops to shoot colored people in Asia by the thousands.

Such growing infiltration could have its impact on America even if just a handful of workers take the propaganda seriously.

That "August 9th Movement" could really touch things off that morning.

Giants Halt Cards

Stop Win Streak At 7 With 4-2 Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The San Francisco Giants ended a seven game winning streak by the Cardinals Wednesday night at St. Louis in a 13 inning battle which the Giants won 4-2.

Bob Gibson of the Redbirds struck out 12 batters in the game, going all the way, but lost out a bid for his 11th victory. Gibson is now 10-7.

Tom Haller slapped a two-run homer to give the Giants the victory. It came with Willie Mays on base after a single.

The score was tied 1-1 until the 12th when Jim Hart and Dick Schofield combined a double and a single for a 2-1 lead. St. Louis made it 2-2 in their half of the inning on two errors, a sacrifice and a single.

The Cardinals are idle today.

Kansas City could not cope with the Millers, John and Stu, as they lost their sixth straight game, 1-0, Wednesday night at Kansas City. John Miller started the game and allowed four hits before he was replaced in the seventh by Stu Miller.

Stu allowed only one other hit —a single in the eighth. Baltimore's run came in the sixth on a single from Jackie Brandt after Dick Brown doubled and John Miller singled.

Wally Bunker (4-4) will pitch for Baltimore today and the Athletics will call on Diego Segui (4-9).

After the second, there was no action from either team until the bottom of the last when Lewis hammered 3 singles to force in the winning runs.

Vines, starting on the mound and was relieved by Corrigan, was not credited with the win but wolloped the ball for 2 singles to head Lewis with the stick. Phelps also led with 2 for 3 for the victors. Britt had 2 of the 7 hits pounded by Legion. Corrigan took the win giving up 7 hits and 5 runs. Shy took the loss for Legion, allowing 6 hits and 8 runs.

Tony Lema Takes Lead In First Round Of Open

By THOMAS A. REEDY
Associated Press Writer

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) —Tony Lema showed his heels again today to the field of 130 in the second round of the British Open Golf Championship and there were many wondering why they've spent all those hours practicing.

Lema's five-under-par 68 on the 7,037-yard Royal Birkdale links Wednesday came after only two rounds of practice and that was history repeating itself.

Last year he got off a plane, played nine holes on the fearsome St. Andrews Old Course and won the title — just like that.

How does he do it?

"I know where I should hit the ball after looking at a course for two days. And anyhow, you know we're really in practice trim all the time when we play the full circuit.

"Last year Arnold Palmer's caddy, Tip Anderson, of Scotland helped me tremendously at St. Andrews. This year I am lucky to have another Scot, Willie Atchison. He was sure good to me out there."

Lema in fact got a better start this time. He was one shot ahead of Ireland's Christy O'Connor who led him by two shots at this stage in 1964.

Just behind O'Connor was the specter of Palmer, the Latrobe, Pa., belter who won the 1961 championship here and then got a double in 1962 at Old Troon.

Palmer's 70 came with good golf shots and what was more impressive his fantastic putting ability seemed to be on the way back.

Ireland's great 43-year-old amateur, Joe Carr, was at 70 along with Palmer. Bruce Devlin of Australia was next at 71.

Today's second round presents a giant challenge to Jack Nicklaus, the Masters' champion, who stood at 73: Old Sam Snead at 74, Phil Rodgers, La Jolla, Calif. and Terry Dill, Mule Shoe, Tex., at 75, U.S. Open champion Gary Player of South Africa at 76 and Doug Sanders, Ojai, Calif. at 78.

The field will be cut tonight to the low 45 and ties.

High School Rodeo Receiving Entries

TARKIO, Mo. AP -- Entries were still being received today for the 10th annual Missouri State High School Rodeo which opens here Friday night.

All contestants must be bonafide high school students. The number of entries was expected to approach the 62 on hand last year.

In the boys' division there will be contests in bareback bronc riding, calf roping, saddle bronc riding, steer bulldogging and cutting horses. The girls will compete in pole bending, barrel racing, cutting horses and calf roping.

Prizes will range from silver buckles to two $200 scholarships to Tarkio College.

There will be competition Friday and Saturday nights with the finals on Sunday night. The top winners will be eligible to compete in the National High School Rodeo at Ogalalla, Neb., next month.

PITCHING -- Chris Short, Phillies, stopped Pittsburgh 1-0 on three hits.

Sports Talk

By DON SAVAGE

Sikeston's Babe Ruth Tournament goes into its semi-final round tonight. The Tournament has had some excellent ballgames, in an extremely well organized, and well played program of baseball.

In the first contest of the Tournament, Sikeston's team of 13-year olds, the Aces, tripped Broseley, in taking home a 7 to 3 victory. Young Steve Counts hurled excellent baseball limiting the Broseley team to only 3 hits. It is just one example of the sparkling play, that goes on nightly at V. F. W. Stadium.

The second contest saw Pocahontas squeeze by a tough New Madrid team, in a hard fought duel, 5 to 4. New Madrid surged, scored two runs in the top of the seventh, to knot the score, only to be defeated, when Pocahontas pushed one run across in the bottom half of the inning, for the victory. Three Pocahontas pitchers combined to hurl a three hitter at the junior Indians. New Madrid's two hurlers Mike Andrews and Jim Pearson, not to be out done by the Pocahontas moundsmen, hurled a brillant three hitter, also.

The Sikeston Aces met a tough Poplar Bluff crew and were dealt an 11 to 1 defeat. The win was not as devastating for Sikeston as the score might sound, considering the ages of the Aces. A defeat could help the young team, as we know the experience will help in their development. Poplar Bluff pitcher Payne, limited the Aces to only three hits in the contest.

Sikeston's other entry in the tournament the All - Stars won a real squeeker from a fine Pocahontas team 6 to 5 with a two run, 7th inning rally. Lou Farris and Wayne Limbaugh head the squad of All-Stars. The two boys banged out three hits each in the Sikeston victory.

All in all, for thrilling action, on the diamond we suggest you attend the Semi-finals tonight.

All Missouri waterfowl hunting areas except the Trimble Wildlife Area will be open for teal hunting during the special nine-day season, September 18 through 26, according to the Conservation Commission.

The Commission decided that hunters will be permitted to use any portion of the areas except the refuges, and that, for the teal season, no reservations or fees will be required and no blinds assigned.

Trimble will remain closed because of its small size and the fact that the shooting pools will not be flooded in September.

John Gottschalk, director of the federal Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife, assured a Conservation Commission representative that a quantity of teal permits had been sent to the Missouri department. When they arrive, these permits will be distributed to hunters who apply for them. The permits are free, but teal hunters must have them.

The Conservation Commission has established a cut-off date of August 18 for distribution of the permits. Hunters applying for them are requested to fill in the county of their residence.

Leslie and Fabick Continue Lead In American League

Last night at Farris Field in the American League, Leslie Insurance conquered Police in the first game as they went on with their winning streak with a winning score of 10-7.

Police took the lead after the second frame as they clipped 2 hits to drive in 3 runs. Leslie, in that inning, boosted only 1 run to give the lead to Police. In the fourth inning of play Leslie hammered 4 hits — two being doubles by the lead hitters, Colwick and Wake. Leslie did not stop with just 4 in the fourth but contributed 3 more in the fifth and one in the sixth to ice the victory. The law enforcers whipped up 3 hits to tumble across 4 runs in the last in a last minute effort to nab Leslie.

The little left hander, Shipp, tossed the ball for Leslie as he allowed 6 hits and 7 runs. Shipp, however, was troubled with giving up 9 free tickets to first base. Terrell hurled for Police giving up 8 hits and 10 runs. He also allowed 9 bases on balls.

Colwick had 3 for 4 and Wake took 2 for 2 in the batting position for Leslie. Luber starred for Police as he let loose 2 singles for 2 times at bat.

Second game action saw Security Federal smothered by the strong nine of Fabick. Security was nicked with a score of 6 to 3. Fabick was not outscored but was out hit as they could only manage 3 to 4 hits off Security.

After 2 innings Fabick had the lead as they scored 3 runs in the first and pounded 2 across in the second to total the score then to 5-0. Security took the spotlight as they held Fabick to their 5 runs and themselves scored one run in each of the next three frames to add up their only runs. Fabick did score another run again to take the victory.

Fabick was headed by Allen as he pitched the full 6 to take the win giving up 4 hits and 3 runs. Porter took the loss with five inning aid from McConnell.

Brown battered 2 singles for 3 trips to the plate and Grant produced the other hit for Fabick. Branum, Hicks, Nelson, and Eisenbach scattered hits for the losers.

Giants Halt Cards

Stop Win Streak At 7 With 4-2 Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The San Francisco Giants ended a seven game winning streak by the Cardinals Wednesday night at St. Louis in a 13 inning battle which the Giants won 4-2.

Bob Gibson of the Redbirds struck out 12 batters in the game, going all the way, but lost out a bid for his 11th victory. Gibson is now 10-7.

Tom Haller slapped a two-run homer to give the Giants the victory. It came with Willie Mays on base after a single.

The score was tied 1-1 until the 12th when Jim Hart and Dick Schofield combined a double and a single for a 2-1 lead. St. Louis made it 2-2 in their half of the inning on two errors, a sacrifice and a single.

The Cardinals are idle today.

Kansas City could not cope with the Millers, John and Stu, as they lost their sixth straight game, 1-0, Wednesday night at Kansas City. John Miller started the game and allowed four hits before he was replaced in the seventh by Stu Miller.

Stu allowed only one other hit —a single in the eighth. Baltimore's run came in the sixth on a single from Jackie Brandt after Dick Brown doubled and John Miller singled.

Wally Bunker (4-4) will pitch for Baltimore today and the Athletics will call on Diego Segui (4-9).

Lewis Leaps Legion In Little League

Lewis Furniture galloped to a victory over the Legion nine with a score of 8-5 in the National League at Puckett Field last night. That bout was the only game played.

Lewis began the game with 2 hits and 5 runs to take the lead. Legion trounced 3 hits, one a home run by Shy, to total up their score to 4 in the first. Legion made a threat in the second as they tied the game up 5-5.

After the second, there was no action from either team until the bottom of the last when Lewis hammered 3 singles to force in the winning runs.

Vines, starting on the mound and was relieved by Corrigan, was not credited with the win but wolloped the ball for 2 singles to head Lewis with the stick. Phelps also led with 2 for 3 for the victors. Britt had 2 of the 7 hits pounded by Legion. Corrigan took the win giving up 7 hits and 5 runs. Shy took the loss for Legion, allowing 6 hits and 8 runs.

Tony Lema Takes Lead In First Round Of Open

By THOMAS A. REEDY
Associated Press Writer

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) —Tony Lema showed his heels again today to the field of 130 in the second round of the British Open Golf Championship and there were many wondering why they've spent all those hours practicing.

Lema's five-under-par 68 on the 7,037-yard Royal Birkdale links Wednesday came after only two rounds of practice and that was history repeating itself.

Last year he got off a plane, played nine holes on the fearsome St. Andrews Old Course and won the title — just like that.

How does he do it?

"I know where I should hit the ball after looking at a course for two days. And anyhow, you know we're really in practice trim all the time when we play the full circuit.

"Last year Arnold Palmer's caddy, Tip Anderson, of Scotland helped me tremendously at St. Andrews. This year I am lucky to have another Scot, Willie Atchison. He was sure good to me out there."

Lema in fact got a better start this time. He was one shot ahead of Ireland's Christy O'Connor who led him by two shots at this stage in 1964.

Just behind O'Connor was the specter of Palmer, the Latrobe, Pa., belter who won the 1961 championship here and then got a double in 1962 at Old Troon.

Palmer's 70 came with good golf shots and what was more impressive his fantastic putting ability seemed to be on the way back.

Ireland's great 43-year-old amateur, Joe Carr, was at 70 along with Palmer. Bruce Devlin of Australia was next at 71.

Today's second round presents a giant challenge to Jack Nicklaus, the Masters' champion, who stood at 73: Old Sam Snead at 74, Phil Rodgers, La Jolla, Calif. and Terry Dill, Mule Shoe, Tex., at 75, U.S. Open champion Gary Player of South Africa at 76 and Doug Sanders, Ojai, Calif. at 78.

The field will be cut tonight to the low 45 and ties.

High School Rodeo Receiving Entries

TARKIO, Mo. AP -- Entries were still being received today for the 10th annual Missouri State High School Rodeo which opens here Friday night.

All contestants must be bonafide high school students. The number of entries was expected to approach the 62 on hand last year.

In the boys' division there will be contests in bareback bronc riding, calf roping, saddle bronc riding, steer bulldogging and cutting horses. The girls will compete in pole bending, barrel racing, cutting horses and calf roping.

Prizes will range from silver buckles to two $200 scholarships to Tarkio College.

There will be competition Friday and Saturday nights with the finals on Sunday night. The top winners will be eligible to compete in the National High School Rodeo at Ogalalla, Neb., next month.

PITCHING -- Chris Short, Phillies, stopped Pittsburgh 1-0 on three hits.

Sports TALK By DON SAVAGE

Sikeston's Babe Ruth Tournament goes into its semi-final round tonight. The Tournament has had some excellent ballgames, in an extremely well organized, and well played program of baseball.

In the first contest of the Tournament, Sikeston's team of 13-year olds, the Aces, tripped Broseley, in taking home a 7 to 3 victory. Young Steve Counts hurled excellent baseball limiting the Broseley team to only 3 hits. It is just one example of the sparkling play, that goes on nightly at V. F. W. Stadium.

The second contest saw Pocahontas squeeze by a tough New Madrid team, in a hard fought duel, 5 to 4. New Madrid surged, scored two runs in the top of the seventh, to knot the score, only to be defeated, when Pocahontas pushed one run across in the bottom half of the inning, for the victory. Three Pocahontas pitchers combined to hurl a three hitter at the junior Indians. New Madrid's two hurlers Mike Andrews and Jim Pearson, not to be out done by the Pocahontas moundsmen, hurled a brillant three hitter, also.

The Sikeston Aces met a tough Poplar Bluff crew and were dealt an 11 to 1 defeat. The win was not as devastating for Sikeston as the score might sound, considering the ages of the Aces. A defeat could help the young team, as we know the experience will help in their development. Poplar Bluff pitcher Payne, limited the Aces to only three hits in the contest.

Sikeston's other entry in the tournament the All - Stars won a real squeeker from a fine Pocahontas team 6 to 5 with a two run, 7th inning rally. Lou Farris and Wayne Limbaugh head the squad of All-Stars. The two boys banged out three hits each in the Sikeston victory.

All in all, for thrilling action, on the diamond we suggest you attend the Semi-finals tonight.

All Missouri waterfowl hunting areas except the Trimble Wildlife Area will be open for teal hunting during the special nine-day season, September 18 through 26, according to the Conservation Commission.

The Commission decided that hunters will be permitted to use any portion of the areas except the refuges, and that, for the teal season, no reservations or fees will be required and no blinds assigned.

Trimble will remain closed because of its small size and the fact that the shooting pools will not be flooded in September.

John Gottschalk, director of the federal Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife, assured a Conservation Commission representative that a quantity of teal permits had been sent to the Missouri department. When they arrive, these permits will be distributed to hunters who apply for them. The permits are free, but teal hunters must have them.

The Conservation Commission has established a cut-off date of August 18 for distribution of the permits. Hunters applying for them are requested to fill in the county of their residence.

Leslie and Fabick Continue Lead In American League

Last night at Farris Field in the American League, Leslie Insurance conquered Police in the first game as they went on with their winning streak with a winning score of 10-7.

Police took the lead after the second frame as they clipped 2 hits to drive in 3 runs. Leslie, in that inning, boosted only 1 run to give the lead to Police. In the fourth inning of play Leslie hammered 4 hits — two being doubles by the lead hitters, Colwick and Wake. Leslie did not stop with just 4 in the fourth but contributed 3 more in the fifth and one in the sixth to ice the victory. The law enforcers whipped up 3 hits to tumble across 4 runs in the last in a last minute effort to nab Leslie.

The little left hander, Shipp, tossed the ball for Leslie as he allowed 6 hits and 7 runs. Shipp, however, was troubled with giving up 9 free tickets to first base. Terrell hurled for Police giving up 8 hits and 10 runs. He also allowed 9 bases on balls.

Colwick had 3 for 4 and Wake took 2 for 2 in the batting position for Leslie. Luber starred for Police as he let loose 2 singles for 2 times at bat.

Second game action saw Security Federal smothered by the strong nine of Fabick. Security was nicked with a score of 6 to 3. Fabick was not outscored but was out hit as they could only manage 3 to 4 hits off Security.

After 2 innings Fabick had the lead as they scored 3 runs in the first and pounded 2 across in the second to total the score then to 5-0. Security took the spotlight as they held Fabick to their 5 runs and themselves scored one run in each of the next three frames to add up their only runs. Fabick did score another run again to take the victory.

Fabick was headed by Allen as he pitched the full 6 to take the win giving up 4 hits and 3 runs. Porter took the loss with five inning aid from McConnell.

Brown battered 2 singles for 3 trips to the plate and Grant produced the other hit for Fabick. Branum, Hicks, Nelson, and Eisenbach scattered hits for the losers.

National League Holds Hitting Edge For All Star Classic

NEW YORK AP -- From a slugging standpoint, at least, the National League All-Stars will have a decided edge over the Americans when the two squads meet in the annual midsummer classic at Bloomington, Minn., next Tuesday.

Already boasting a powerful starting line-up, the Nationals added an attractive auxiliary group Wednesday that included sluggers Johnny Callison of Philadelphia, Billy Williams and Ron Santo of Chicago, Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh and Frank Robinson of Cincinnati.

This group shapes up at least favorably with the American League alternates featuring sluggers Harmon Killebrew, Jimmie Hall and Tony Oliva of Minnesota, Elston Howard of New York, Max Alvis of Cleveland, Al Kaline and Bill Freehan of Detroit.

Oliva and Freehan were substituted for ailing Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees and Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox. Both are hobbled by injuries not expected to heal in time for the interleague game.

National League All-Star Manager Gene Mauch, unlike his counterpart, Al Lopez, departed from custom and passed over three second choices in picking his nine alternates for the 1965 All-Star team.

Generally, in the past, the All-Star managers have picked players who finished second in the balloting for starting positions. But Mauch passed over first baseman Gordie Coleman of the Reds, second baseman Frank Bolling of the Milwaukee Braves and center fielder Vada Pinson of the Reds.

In their places, he chose Ed Kranepool of the New York Mets, Cookie Rojas of the Phillies and Clemente. Robinson was his utility pick.

Mauch's other selections included catcher Johnny Edwards and shortstop Leo Cardenas of the Reds, third baseman Santo, left fielder Williams and right fielder Callison.

Earlier, he had named Managers Dick Sisler of Cincinnati and Bobby Bragan of Milwaukee as his coaches.

The selections left only the world champion St. Louis Cardinals and Houston Astros without a representative. Under All-Star game rules, every club must be represented by at least one player.

This means that at least one pitcher from each of those two clubs will have to be named when the hurlers are announced Friday.

The NL starters will be Joe Torre of the Braves, catcher; Ernie Banks, Cubs, first base; Pete Rose, Reds, second base; Maury Wills, Dodgers, shortstop; Will Stargell, Pirates, left field; Willie Mays, Giants, Center field; Henry Aaron, Braves, right field.

The American League starters will include Earl Battey, twins, catcher; Bill Skowron, White Sox, first base; Felix Mantilla, Red Sox, second base; Brooks Robinson, Orioles, third base; Dick McAuliffe, Tigers, shortstop; Rocky Colavito, Indians, right field; Vic Davalillo, Indians, center field; Willie Horton, Tigers, left field.

Bobby Richardson of the Yankees and Zoilo Versalles of the Twins complete the American League reserves.

Through Wednesday's games, the National League All-Star squad led the Americans in home runs, 188 to 169, and in runs batted in, 702 to 665.

Luke Appling, A's Coach Has Umpire Troubles

KANSAS CITY AP -- Luke Appling, Kansas City A's coach, scratched his head and said "This is the first time I ever got throw'd out in the runway to the dugout before I ever got on the field - and I was only joshing."

The Hall of Fame shortstop said he was sitting on a bench in the runway and joshing with Cal Hubbard, supervisor of American League umpires, as Hubbard and the game umpiring crew walked down the runway.

Appling said Hubbard, here on a routine tour of the league, "was kidding me back." A moment later, Appling said, Al Salerno took his words seriously Appling called Salerno a "swell head" and the ejection followed.

"Old Aches and Pains," as Appling was known in his playing days, told his story calmly puffing on a cigar in the stands as he watched Baltimore beat the A's 4-1 Tuesday night.

"I was talking only to Hubbard and we were laughing and joshing," he said. "It had nothin' to do with nothin' and neither of was serious.

"The last thing I said was 'This is the only umpire you got,' and I patted Nestor Chylak on the fanny-he was the last one in the line.

"A little later Salerno-he was already up the dugout steps -- comes all the way back and tells me I can't talk that way.

"I said "Are you serious?" and he said yes, he was serious. I told him I hadn't said one word to him, I wasn't even addressing him and I was only joshing with Hubbard.

"Well, one thing led to another, and I would up telling him 'You can't take joshing and you're just a swell head.'

"Salerno left and a little later I came out and sat down in the dugout," Appling said. "But Sully A's manager Haywood Sullivan and a couple of players told me I couldn't stay, that Salerno told 'em I was through.

"You know, Salerno told Sully I cussed him, and that wasn't so.

"He just showed me he had the Blue Suit. But I'll say this, I was just as little as he was for getting mad at him. I shouldn't have said anything back to him.

"He just got under my skin, because I was only joshing."

When a lot of fellows make their wills, they find taxes so high that they not only can't take it with them; they can't leave it behind.

Rico Carty Has Hot Stick For Braves

MILWAUKEE AP -- For the first time in weeks, Milwaukee Braves' fans have something to cheer about -- Rico Carty is driving in runs again.

The big Dominican belted 22 home runs and drove in 88 runs in playing only two-thirds of his rookie season last year.

Prior to Wednesday night's game against the Houston Astros, Carty was batting a solid .292 but he had only four home runs and 14 runs batted in.

The Braves, meanwhile, were suffering. Before beating the Astros 5-2 Wednesday night, Milwaukee had lost nine out of 11 games and 13 of the last 17.

Carty, dropped to eighth place in the line-up for the first time since joining the Braves, personally helped reverse the form against the Astros, slamming a home run and a run-scoring single. He also doubled to set up a run in the second inning.

"It looks like he's back," said Manager Bobby Bragan. "He's getting more confidence all the time. When a guy hits a home run to the opposite field, you know he's back."

Bloomfield defeated Dexter, in a well played ballgame by a 3 to 1 margin.

Hart went all the way on the mound for Bloomfield giving up only 2 hits, and 1 run in the game. Dexter pitcher Knight also, hurled masterfully, as he allowed only 4 Bloomfield safties.

Bloomfield took the lead in the bottom of the first inning. The first man up for Bloomfield flied out, to rightfielder Rankins. Kingree bounced out, shortstop to first. Then, with two men out Knight struck out Bloomfield catcher Harris. The Dexter catcher missed the ball with Harris hustling to first. Then Knight got back to business and struck out Pullum to retire the Wildcats. Bloomfield picked up a run in the third, and one in the sixth, to salvage the victory.

National League Holds Hitting Edge For All Star Classic

NEW YORK AP -- From a slugging standpoint, at least, the National League All-Stars will have a decided edge over the Americans when the two squads meet in the annual mid-summer classic at Bloomington, Minn., next Tuesday.

Already boasting a powerful starting line-up, the Nationals added an attractive auxiliary group Wednesday that included sluggers Johnny Callison of Philadelphia, Billy Williams and Ron Santo of Chicago, Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh and Frank Robinson of Cincinnati.

This group shapes up at least favorably with the American League alternates featuring sluggers Harmon Killebrew, Jimmie Hall and Tony Oliva of Minnesota, Elston Howard of New York, Max Alvis of Cleveland, Al Kaline and Bill Freehan of Detroit.

Oliva and Freehan were substituted for ailing Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees and Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox. Both are hobbled by injuries not expected to heal in time for the interleague game.

National League All-Star Manager Gene Mauch, unlike his counterpart, Al Lopez, departed from custom and passed over three second choices in picking his nine alternates for the 1965 All-Star team.

Generally, in the past, the All-Star managers have picked players who finished second in the balloting for starting positions. But Mauch passed over first baseman Gordie Coleman of the Reds, second baseman Frank Bolling of the Milwaukee Braves and center fielder Vada Pinson of the Reds.

In their places, he chose Ed Kranepool of the New York Mets, Cookie Rojas of the Phillies and Clemente. Robinson was his utility pick.

Mauch's other selections included catcher Johnny Edwards and shortstop Leo Cardenas of the Reds, third baseman Santo, left fielder Williams and right fielder Callison.

Earlier, he had named Managers Dick Sisler of Cincinnati and Bobby Bragan of Milwaukee as his coaches.

The selections left only the world champion St. Louis Cardinals and Houston Astros without a representative. Under All-Star game rules, every club must be represented by at least one player.

This means that at least one pitcher from each of those two clubs will have to be named when the hurlers are announced Friday.

The NL starters will be Joe Torre of the Braves, catcher; Ernie Banks, Cubs, first base; Pete Rose, Reds, second base; Maury Wills, Dodgers, shortstop; Will Stargell, Pirates, left field; Willie Mays, Giants, Center field; Henry Aaron, Braves, right field.

The American League starters will include Earl Battey, twins, catcher; Bill Skowron, White Sox, first base; Felix Mantilla, Red Sox, second base; Brooks Robinson, Orioles, third base; Dick McAuliffe, Tigers, shortstop; Rocky Colavito, Indians, right field; Vic Davalillo, Indians, center field; Willie Horton, Tigers, left field.

Bobby Richardson of the Yankees and Zoilo Versalles of the Twins complete the American League reserves.

Through Wednesday's games, the National League All-Star squad led the Americans in home runs, 188 to 169, and in runs batted in, 702 to 665.

Retires From Air Force

TRUAX FIELD, Madison, Wis. -- Lt. Col. Robert L. Andrews has retired from the air force after more than 24 years service.

At his retirement ceremony, Colonel Andrews was awarded the air force commendation medal for meritorious service as chief of support operations and weapons division, headquarters 30th air division (SAGE).

Presiding officer was Major Gen. Frederick R. Terrell, commander of the division.

Colonel Andrews, who is married to the former Nina Taylor of Sikeston, Mo., daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elmos Taylor, plans to retire with his family in Denver, Colo.

He was born Aug. 15, 1919, and received his commission in the military after completion of aviation cadet training April 26, 1941.

During his career, Colonel Andrews received the following decorations and awards: legion of merit, air medal, American defense service medal, American campaign medal, army occupation medal (Germany), World War II victory medal, medal for humane action, national defense service medal, air force longevity service award ribbon with one silver oak leaf cluster, and the guided missile insignia.

Peter, Paul And Mary Bob Act

HOLLYWOOD -- As Yarrow, Stookey and Travers, they might have achieved success. Fortunately for folkniks, the trio chose to bill themselves by their first names.

Peter, Paul and Mary have become what variety calls a boff act. So boff, in fact, that they can almost fill the echoing Hollywood Bowl with clamorous fans, as they did last Friday night.

The same sort of thing happens everywhere they go, and they have gone into most of the 50 states and as far afield as Tokyo and Paris in the four years they have been singing together. Their records sell in the millions - say about five. These sales came from a mere five albums; they conscientiously refuse to sacrifice volume to quality.

The concert here afforded a closeup view of the successful triumvirate. All are in their late 20s. Their conversation veers to causes, from the purity of folk music to civic rights.

To differentiate: Mary Travers wears her straw-colored hair long; the other two have black goatees. Paul Stookey is balding, the trio's comic; Peter Yarrow is stern-minded and the usual spokesman.

"We all have been working separately, and Paul was the only one who was making any money," said Peter. "We were brought together by Albert Grossman, the man who has managed Joan Baez, Bob Dylan, Odetta and many others. He saw something in each of us that might combine into something new."

They rehearsed in New York for seven months, molding their talents into a smooth-functioning team before accepting any play-dates. When they finally appeared before audiences, they possessed a confidence that was startling.

Their first date was at a New York folk house called the Bitter End, which wasn't the least bit prophetic. Audiences knew they were listening to something unique and exciting, even if show business moguls didn't.

"RCA-Victor didn't feel we were ready to record," Peter recalled. "Columbia Records would have signed us if we changed our material. The Bell Telephone Hour and the night club, the Blue Angel, would have taken us if we had shaved our beards. In each case, we declined."

Warner Bros. Records was pleased to accept the singers bearded and with their original material. Three months after being rejected by RCA-Victor, Peter, Paul and Mary had the best-selling album in the country.

Peter's conclusion: "The impact of a new success is in direct ratio to its degree of departure from the previous norm."

Travelers along Missouri's Interstate highway system will have ample places to stop and stretch, eat and rest under a rest area program recently approved by the State Highway Commission.

Under the program the Highway Department will develop 17 double rest areas along the Interstate routes. The areas will be spaced about 50 miles apart, or about an hour's driving time for traveler's convenience. The areas will include a shelter house, restrooms, running water and other facilities for travelers' comfort. Except for two, the areas are planned to be opposite each other on each side of the highway.

Earlier plans had called for only nine double areas but eight more were added to cut driving time between them to about an hour.

The sites by Interstate route will be:

Interstate Route 29--Site 1, two miles south of Mound City in Holt county; and Site 2, two-and-a-half miles south of Supplementary Route E in Platte county.

Interstate Route 35--Site 3, in Daviess county just south of Harrison county line; and Site 4, one mile south of Supplementary Route H in Clinton county.

Interstate Route 70--Site 5, just west of Concordia in Lafayette county; Site 6, between Supplementary Routes B and Missouri Route 87 near Boonville; Site 7, on each side of the Loutre River near Mineola in Montgomery county; and Site 8, two miles east of the Wentzville interchange in St. Charles county.

Interstate Route 44--Site 9, about one mile from the Oklahoma line in Newton county; Site 10, between Supplementary Routes M and N east of Mt. Vernon in Lawrence county; Site 11, near the Webster-Laclede county line; Site 12, just west of Supplementary Route C in Phelps county; and Site 13, four miles east of Stanton in Franklin county.

Interstate Route 55--Site 14, two miles south of Supplementary Route K in Ste. Genevieve county; Site 15, between Supplementary Routes KK and D in Cape Girardeau county; Site 16, one mile north of Marston in New Madrid county; and Site 17, two-and-a-half miles north of the Arkansas line in Pemiscot county.

Between 8 and 9 o'clock Saturday night, 2,239 people crossed North New Madrid street going east and west from the corner of Sterling's Store and the Sikeston Trust Co., building, Steve Humphrey discovered. Mr. Humphrey counted the flow of pedestrians with Pete Medley's checking machine.

Clarence Opal Mack, who lived on the Wallace Applegate farm, north of here, was killed Saturday night when he was struck by a Scott County Milling Co., truck being driven on Highway 60. He was changing a flat tire.

Hurrying to reach home before a heavy rain Saturday, Orville Taylor and Tris Marshall were injured when the car in which they were riding met the storm near Brown Spur, skidded, and rolled over four or five times before landing in the ditch of Highway 60.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mister Blanton,

I would like to express my appreciation to you and the members of the Standard staff for sponsoring me as a member of the 1965 session of Missouri Boys' State at Warrensburg, Missouri. This experience was both enjoyable and uniquely educational.

The principles and workings of American democracy were well presented and the program's theme, "Democracy Depends on Me," well demonstrated. Upon arrival, citizens were divided into two parties, Nationalists and Federalists, and at once set upon the task of selecting candidates for city offices. Next, county officers were elected, and, finally, state officers. All officials were either appointed or elected by boy citizens, through their own caucuses, conventions, and primaries. Throughout the week, citizens attended programs and lectures given on behalf of the F. B. I., the Missouri Highway Department, West Point, and the Air Force Academy. In addition, citizens had their choice of attending one of the schools giving special instruction in law, law enforcement, the legislative department, and the executive department.

This was indeed a very worthwhile experience and I believe that civic-conscious organizations such as yours are doing a great service to our country, as well as to the young people, in sponsoring this program.

Very sincerely,
Mike Critchlow

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a reader who signed herself "Too Late." Hers was a tragic story. She was a girl who married much too young and her life was, as she put it, "a mess." In closing she confessed, "the love I was sure would last forever faded after a couple of months." You advised "Too Late" to keep her chin up and to keep fighting.

Her letter could have been written by me ten years ago. There were times when I felt life wasn't worth living. Then one day I began to look around me and take stock. I discovered that no marriage is without its disappointments, its periods of boredom and just plain unhappiness.

My husband and I have learned that tolerance for each other's faults, mutual respect and consideration, and a sense of humor, has kept us afloat. Our marriage may not be glamorous according to movie standards but neither is anyone else's. It took a while but now we know we have much to be thankful for. -- C. C.

Dear C. C.: Your honest and realistic approach to marriage is well worth examining. Every word you say is true. Take notes students.

Dear Ann Landers: We know a couple who has not brought a towel or a bath mat for years. Why should they when Mr. Hilton, Mr. Sheraton and others provide them with such fine items?

The ash trays, glasses, cups and saucers in their home are clearly marked The Plaza, and the Greenbrier, to name two.

Whenever they go to a restaurant they take something home -- a sugar bowl, a cream pitcher or a piece of silverware. It's always a "little souvenir."

Last night we were dining in a posh restaurant. Mrs. X, put a fine linen napkin in her purse and told her husband to put one in his pocket because she needed two to make an even dozen. I could hold my tongue no longer and said, "Don't you people know you are stealing?" Mr. X became indignant and replied, "At these prices they expect it."

This couple has children who can read. Wouldn't you think they'd be ashamed? Are we "Square," as they say? --- A AND Z

Dear A and Z: Any item slipped out of a hotel or restaurant is not a souvenir. It is stolen. And the person who does it is not a souvenir collector, he is a thief.

Children learn by example. Parents who bring home stolen property are going to have a difficult time keeping their kids honest.

Dear Ann Landers: Taking photographs at a wedding is a common practice but have you ever heard of hiring a photographer to take pictures at a funeral?

You needn't bother to disguise the facts. Everybody in town knows about this.

A relative of mine passed away a few days ago. A daughter of the woman who died insists she is going to have the world's most complete family album. She said she failed to hire a photographer when her father died and she has regretted it ever since.

The photographer took pictures of the casket (both open and closed). He photographed the pallbearers, the clergy man (during the eulogy) and the funeral procession. When the photographer showed up at the cemetery I could scarcely believe my eyes. What do you think of this? -- THOROUGHLY DISGUSTED

Dear Thoroughly: It makes a great deal of sense to have a photographer around to capture, for posterity, moments of joy but to take pictures of a funeral for a family album seems creepy and macabre to me.

Parents are people -- they can be right and they can be wrong. To help understand their viewpoint and to promote harmony at home, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "How to Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Sun Can Be Dangerous

JEFFERSON CITY -- Is acquiring a sun tan part of your summer vacation plans? OK, but remember that sun rays can burn as well as tan.

"Too often we bask too much too soon," Dr. L. M. Garner, acting director of the state Division of Health, said today. Most of us admire the nut-brown hue of the well-tanned sunbathers, but none of us want smarting, tender and itching flesh--the penalty of overexposure.

"Sun can be fun," Dr. Garner said, "but certain precautions are necessary."

The first exposure to the bright midday sun of summer should not exceed 30 minutes, even for dark brunette individuals, he advised. Fair-skinned persons should probably limit their initial sunbath to 15 minutes. In temperate zones exposure before 10 a.m. or after 4 p.m. is much less likely to cause sunburn because the burn-producing wavelengths usually are filtered out.

Many effective sun screen preparations are available, but for prolonged protection care must be taken that they are not washed away by bathing or prespiration.

An overcast or cloudy sky can be dangerously deceptive. Many severe sunburns have resulted form underestimating the power of the sun's rays on an overcast day. Sand, water and white surfaces reflect the rays and magnify their effect.

Sunburn is not the only hazard; repeated prolonged exposure to strong sunlight has a definite aging effect on the skin. One group of dermatologists recently reported, "The sun tan is definitely 'in.' But the smooth, heavily tanned skin of the 'teens and twenties will be the dry, wrinkled and wizened skin of the forties."

What do you do if you do get sunburned? Obviously, further exposure should be avoided until the acute reaction subsides. In most instances, application of a soothing emollient cream, ointment or lotion is all that is necessary. But if the burn is more severe, obtain medical aid promptly.

Drawbridges along Buffalo's lakeshore add one more misery to the driver's lot because, when a freighter goes through, you can count on a delay of five to ten minutes or more. Recently, as I switched off my engine to wait it out, I heard a penetrating wail. I looked into the car next to mine to see an attractive young matron playing a clarinet, her eyes fixed on the music she had propped against the steering wheel. She was practicing some Christmas carols and doing very well.

When the all-clear whistle blew, she had just enough time to stow the instrument and music. I caught her eye and applauded; she bowed in my direction --then we both drove on.

Three New Atomic Discoveries Made

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

NATIONAL REACTOR TESTING STATION, Idaho (AP) — Three new and potentially revolutionary atomic age developments are progressing well at Uncle Sam's "reactor farm" where scientific and engineering breakthroughs are almost old hat.

Here, on an isolated, 900-square-mile area of sagebrush and basalt fields on the Snake River plains, Atomic Energy Commission scientists believe they've struck new kinds of nuclear pay-dirt with these developments:

—Achievement of "the country's first major breakthrough" in treating potentially deadly radioactive wastes from atomic power and research reactors — the so-called "garbage" of the atomic era. The process, which reduces the dangerous liquid wastes to a much safer form having only one-tenth the volume previously stored, uses equipment which works something like a popcorn machine.

—Promising results with a new type of experimental "breeder" reactor system — actually, a kind of controlled atomic bomb. Like other experimental breeders, it is designed to create more nuclear fuel than it actually consumes in producing power. But its unique feature consists of a built-in process for cleaning up and recycling partly used fuel. It dishes the fuel back into the furnace almost like loaves of bread.

—Near-completion for military field use of compact, mobile nuclear power reactors which can be flown intact in a cargo airplane to any corner of the world — ready to begin generating power for field hospitals, radar equipment and other uses, within 12 hours after arrival.

Those are among the most exciting new ventures at this $500-million station—site of the world's largest and most varied collection of nuclear reactors, or "furnaces," for research, testing, electric power production, and propulsion. The area — in southeastern Idaho, 30 miles from Idaho Falls — is three-fourths the size of the State of Rhode Island.

None of the reactor structures, operational or otherwise, would rate any beauty prizes. From the outside, most of them are huge, boxlike affairs which look like warehouses.

But they house some of the world's most ingenious and complicated machinery and hidden, heavily shielded pots of controlled nuclear fury — designed to help produce more powerful, safer and more efficient civilian and military reactors of the future.

And, some of them are devices which, since 1951, already have achieved these "firsts" in the atomic race:

—Proof-testing the feasability of nuclear propulsion for both submarines and surface ships—thus paving the way for the United States' present nuclear fleet of 51 submarines, the aircraft carrier Enterprise and several other surface warships.

—Production of the world's first useable quantities of electricity from the atom —including the test-lighting of the city of Arco, seven miles from the site.

—Powering of a turbojet engine exclusively from nuclear heat.

And engineers here say that one of their reactors — called the "materials testing reactor" (MTR) — has played a vital role in aiding the development of every nuclear power reactor in the world, "including those of the Russians." This is because virtually all results achieved at the station are published in scientific and popular literature.

The AEC says more than 1½ million American homes now are powered by atom-produced electricity — and forecasts that at least seven million will be so powered by 1980.

The only secret, closed-off area of the "reactor farm" here is one housing reactors developed or still under development by the Navy in cooperation with the AEC.

Up until around 1958, reporters sometimes were allowed in, but the unofficial word is that Vice Adm. Hyman Rickover, who heads the program for the Navy, put the curtain down after making a trip to the Soviet Union — and reportedly finding the Russians were not as far advanced in the maritime nuclear propulsion field as had previously been thought.

But, still in view from beyond the guarded fence is the reactor structure housing the still-operating prototype of the pioneer nuclear submarine Nautilus.

Close by the Nautilus prototype in the Navy's sagebrush port is the "large ship reactor" which paved the way for the carrier Enterprise and other surface craft.

And, still under construction, is a new type of naval propulsion reactor. The latter is designed to be quieter, simpler and even safer to operate than present models. The test version will even be designed to simulate the pitching motions a reactor would experience at sea.

End Hearings On Proposed Farm Bill

WASHINGTON -- The Senate Agriculture Committee last week completed 10 days of hearings with several hundred witnesses on the administration's 1965 proposals for farm legislation.

Hilton Bracey of Portageville, executive vice-president of the Missouri Cotton Producers Assn., accompanied by George Shelby, president of that association, and Dick Phillips, vice-president of the Missouri State Association of Farmer Elected Committeemen, presented the MCPA recommendations.

Sen. Stuart Symington, in a letter to his constituents said that with an expected $900 million to $1 billion cost to the government this crop year and a growing surplus, there is unanimity among both the Senate and House Agriculture Committee members on the need for some changes in the cotton program.

Most producer witnesses and members of the Committees familiar with the cotton situation over the years seem to be in agreement that the 16 million acre minimum national acreage allotment should be continued. Reduction of the government - stored surplus, expected to be just under 14 million bales on August 31, would come through programs for voluntary acreage diversion and increased exports.

In their five-point program, Missouri Cotton Producers recommend authority and direction for the Secretary of Agriculture to operate an intensified export program both through competitive bid sales on the world market and barter.

Farmers throughout the State are also interested in legislative proposals on feed grains. Because of their importance in our livestock industry which provides nearly two thirds of our farm income, these corn and sorghum crops have the greatest impact on Missouri's total farm receipts.

The present feed grain program, adopted in 1961, has brought about a reduction in CCC stocks of feed grain from 85 million tons in 1961 to 56 million tons, lowering the costs of storage, interest and other carrying charges by $585 million under what they would have been under the old program.

Add Books To System

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- The coordinator of the SEMO federated library service system, Martha Ann Maxwell, announced today that more than 500 books have been added to the collections of Riverside regional library, Mississippi county library, and Cape Girardeau Public library.

The system is a cooperative effort to improve library service. Some of the areas of cooperation include an interlibrary loan service; improvement of the reference collections and services; reciprocal borrowing privileges, in-service training, and improvement of book collections.

Members of the system's board are Mrs. L. W. Kasten, Jackson; Mr. Jim Bogel, East Prairie; Dr. Theodore Fischer, Altenburg; Mr. Ward Brasher, Benton, and Sydney Pollack, president, Cape Girardeau.

Cotton Chopping Ends In Southeast Missouri

Movement of crews out of state is expected to gain momentum now that the first cotton chopping has been completed in Southeast Missouri, the Missouri State Employment Service said today.

The Sikeston office reports that demand for cotton chopping labor continues to be heavy, but no critical shortages have developed. Wages range from 70 cents to 90 cents per hour for seasonal work and orders for tractor drivers range from 80 cents to $1.25 an hour with most demand for top hands.

The farm information station and rest camp at Sikeston served 219 migrants from Texas the week ending June 28. The next work area for 97 is Michigan, 85 were en route to Ohio and 37 were bound for Wisconsin.

In Cape Girardeau the Labor supply and demand are fairly well in balance for all local seasonal farm activities, although qualified year - round farm hands remain in short supply. The office reports that additional workers are now being recruited for cannery work in Wisconsin.

The harvest of potatoes and the early harvest of peaches is now in progress in Kennett, with cotton chopping 70 per cent completed.

Demand for farm labor has slowed down in the Caruthersville area and workers have begun to move into the Great Lakes states for fruit harvest. Weather during the last week was favorable for cotton chopping. No crews are available for referral to other areas, the report said.

Cotton Chopping Ends In Southeast Missouri

Movement of crews out of state is expected to gain momentum now that the first cotton chopping has been completed in Southeast Missouri, the Missouri State Employment Service said today.

The Sikeston office reports that demand for cotton chopping labor continues to be heavy, but no critical shortages have developed. Wages range from 70 cents to 90 cents per hour for seasonal work and orders for tractor drivers range from 80 cents to $1.25 an hour with most demand for top hands.

The farm information station and rest camp at Sikeston served 219 migrants from Texas the week ending June 28. The next work area for 97 is Michigan, 85 were en route to Ohio and 37 were bound for Wisconsin.

In Cape Girardeau the Labor supply and demand are fairly well in balance for all local seasonal farm activities, although qualified year - round farm hands remain in short supply. The office reports that additional workers are now being recruited for cannery work in Wisconsin.

The harvest of potatoes and the early harvest of peaches is now in progress in Kennett, with cotton chopping 70 per cent completed.

Demand for farm labor has slowed down in the Caruthersville area and workers have begun to move into the Great Lakes states for fruit harvest. Weather during the last week was favorable for cotton chopping. No crews are available for referral to other areas, the report said.

'People Went Wild' on 4th, Patrol Says

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Public attitude which seemed to "border on hysteria" led to what Missouri Highway Patrol Superintendent Hugh H. Waggoner today termed the "most distressing weekend for the patrol in many years."

"The people just went wild," he said.

In addition to traffic accidents which claimed 31 lives during the holiday period, the patrol was flooded with reports of crime, riots and other violence.

The death toll on the highways for the July 4 weekend probably will climb higher, he said. Several person injured in traffic mishaps are expected to die.

At last count, Waggoner said, Missouri probably ranked third in the nation for traffic fatalities for the costly weekend.

Two person died Friday, 15-Saturday, six Sunday and eight Monday.

About half the fatalities were in one-car accidents.

Fights and riots were commonplace, he said, and there were many reports of persons throwing firecrackers into passing cars.

The traffic toll was attributable to "a lot of drinking and a lot of speed," he said. But he said he was at a loss to account for the widespread violence.

'People Went Wild' on 4th, Patrol Says

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Public attitude which seemed to "border on hysteria" led to what Missouri Highway Patrol Superintendent Hugh H. Waggoner today termed the "most distressing weekend for the patrol in many years."

"The people just went wild," he said.

In addition to traffic accidents which claimed 31 lives during the holiday period, the patrol was flooded with reports of crime, riots and other violence.

The death toll on the highways for the July 4 weekend probably will climb higher, he said. Several person injured in traffic mishaps are expected to die.

At last count, Waggoner said, Missouri probably ranked third in the nation for traffic fatalities for the costly weekend.

Two person died Friday, 15-Saturday, six Sunday and eight Monday.

About half the fatalities were in one-car accidents.

Fights and riots were commonplace, he said, and there were many reports of persons throwing firecrackers into passing cars.

The traffic toll was attributable to "a lot of drinking and a lot of speed," he said. But he said he was at a loss to account for the widespread violence.

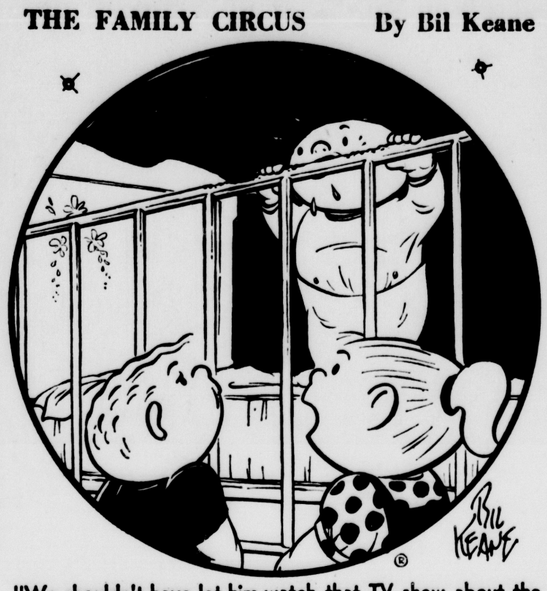
By Bil Keane



"We shouldn't have let him watch that TV show about the beavers eating wood."

TIZZY
